Senate Refuses Limited Debate On FEPC Plan

WASHINGTON — The Senate refused to block a southern filibuster against President Truman's FEPC program yesterday. Although the administration leadership said it will try again, observers believe that the FEPC is dead for this session.

After the FEPC test, both Democratic Senator Richard Russell of Georgia and Republican Senator Robert Taft called columnist Drew Pearson a liar for writing that a deal had been made to deliver six Republican votes to the Southern Democrats. Pearson replied, "It is significant that exactly six Republican votes turned up on the Southern Democrats side."

Admiral Predicts War

INDIANAPOLIS—Admiral Jonas Ingram, former Atlantic Fleet Commander, predicted yesterday that there will be a war within two and a half years.

Meanwhile, General Hoyt Vandenberg, in Detroit, said that the U. S. Air Force in its present strength wouldn't last more than a few months in a war. The House Appropriations Committee approved 75 million dollars for the development of faster warplane tests, although aeronautics officials had only asked for 20 million dollars.

Charter Granted To Alpha Pi Mu

The charter of Alpha Pi Mu, newly organized industrial engineering fraternity, has been approved by the Senate Committee on Student Welfare and by the Executive Committee of the School of Engineering.

National officers of Alpha Pi Mu are making arrangements to send an initiation team here from Ohio State University. Tentative date for the initiation ceremony is next Saturday.

Alpha Pi Mu was formed in 1948 and is the only National Industrial Engineering Honorary. It already has chapters in several of the leading engineering colleges throughout the country.

Charter officers for the Penn State chapter are Dean Vought, president; Harold Bowditch, vice-president; Samuel Stinner, recording secretary; Donald Aurnand, corresponding secretary; Harold Wilson, treasurer; and Mr. Robert M. Eastman, faculty advisor.

Valentino Calls For Lion Candidate

Rudolph Valentino, head cheerleader for next year, has issued a call for candidates to impersonate the Nittany Lion at football games next Fall.

Candidates are to send letters of application to Valentino at the Student Union desk in Old Main listing their qualifications, by 5 p.m. next Wednesday.

Candidates must be seniors next Fall, must have at least a 1.2 average, must be at least six feet tall but must weigh not more than 175 pounds, must be in good physical condition, should be willing to sacrifice seeing the games in order to perform, and must have innate acting ability.

Fellowship Meeting

The Fellowship of Reconciliation, a student-community group, will meet in 304 Old Main at 4 p.m. tomorrow. Luther Harshbarger, executive secretary of PSCA, will lead a discussion of non-violence in the early Christian church.

Past Publications Shown in Library

The history of student publications at the College, dating from 1859, is graphically illustrated in the exhibit that opened this week in the Main Library. The display will continue through July 9.

The earliest publication displayed is the "Anonymous." It is dated September 30, 1859 and was the work of the Washington Agricultural Literary Society. On Feb. 4, 1887, the Cresson Literary Society published the "Students Miscellany," a weekly.

In April 1887, the first issue of the "Free Lance," a monthly, appeared. This paper was the forerunner of the "Daily Collegian" and was renamed the "State Collegian" in 1904. In 1920, it became a semi-weekly paper and in 1940 a daily with the present name "Daily Collegian."

In another case of the exhibit, the history of "La Vie" is traced from the first issue in 1889 to the 1950 edition, released this month.

"The Lemon" Following the death of President George W. Atherton in 1906, the students felt the need for a method to express their dissatisfaction and published the anonymous booklet, "The Lemon." It ceased publication in 1908 when Dr. Edwin E. Sparks became president.

The history of "Froth," campus humor magazine is traced in the exhibit from June, 1910, to the present issue. Included in the exhibit is the November, 1915 issue, with the now famous poetic gem, "Tobacco Is a Dirty Weed" by G. L. Hemminger. The poem is today included in "Bartlett's Familiar Quotations." Another issue of "Froth" published the song "I Love a Coed," the lyrics written by Doc Taylor and the music by Chang Smith, who wrote "Winter Wonderland."

Literary Magazines Too

Literary magazines fill another case at the library. They include the works of many students who have won recognition for their writings after leaving the College. Those included in the display are "El Dorado," "Old Main Bell," "Portfolio," and "Critique."

Many other publications, some that existed for less than a year, are displayed. One case is devoted to publications at the Penn State centers while another case includes copies of the "Penn State Farmer," the "Penn State Engineer," and the "Mining Quarterly."

Accident Victim Is Recovering

Alvin Grasse is recovering in Centre County Hospital from injuries he received Monday night when his motorcycle collided with a car. His condition is reported good.

Grasse, a 6th semester aged student, suffered a broken leg and lacerations of the face when he was thrown approximately 20 feet by the impact of the collision.

The accident occurred at the corner of E. College avenue and S. Pugh street.

Two State College physicians treated Grasse at the scene of the accident before the ambulance arrived to take him to the hospital. Borough police estimated the total damage to both vehicles at $70.

Concert Canceled

The jazz concert, originally scheduled for this afternoon, has been canceled.

Editorial Page Problems Open Press Conference

Discussion of editorial problems opened yesterday's session of the Pennsylvania Press Conference, with more than 200 state editors and publishers attending.

Judge Samuel A. Weiss, of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, delivered a talk on "How Newspapers Can Help Curb Sex Crime."

He called sex criminals "the greatest menace to our society." The Judge believed that some solution to the problem might be found by employing psychiatrists in schools to spot the first symptoms of sex aberration.

Judge Weiss further suggested segregation of this type of criminal until the persons are cured, or until they are diagnosed as incurable. Then proper precautions should be taken with them to protect the public.

The judge pointed out the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette as an example of a newspaper cooperating in combating the problem.

Student Opinion Varied Over Union Financing

Everybody agrees that Penn State is in need of the proposed $2 million Student Union building.

How to finance the project, however, is wide open to discussion.

Student opinion is about evenly divided on Cabinet's proposal to finance the ultra-modern student recreation center by assessing undergraduates $15 during the 1950-1951 scholastic year and $20 each year so long as it is necessary. Of the 40 students interviewed yesterday at random, 22 expressed dissatisfaction with Cabinet's proposal, while 18 approved.

State Should Pay

One of the principal objections offered was that the state, rather than the students, should pay for the building. Ed Lefkowitz, a sophomore, summed up the sentiment of a large percentage of those who objected to the Cabinet plan, saying: "It's a pity that they can't get a state of ten million people to pay for the Student Union building instead of putting the burden on the students."

Basketball star Marty Costa and football end Jack Storer, both seniors, pointed out that "some students have to work to earn their money, and $15 would be rough on them."

Juniors Don't Benefit

Sheldon Jahss and Drew Mahla suggested a student vote on the proposal. Jahss also struck a note repeated by juniors when he pointed out that the present juniors would be paying for something they would never have the opportunity to enjoy.

Ronny Lachman, a sophomore, suggested a smaller assessment spread out over a longer period of years.

"I'm in favor of the plan because that's the only way we'll ever get the thing done" was the comment of Don Stalcup, a junior.

Others who voiced agreement with the Cabinet plan said that the building was a necessity and since it would be used by students, they should pay the bill.

PSCA Leader Chapel Speaker

Rev. Luther Harshbarger, executive secretary of the Penn State Christian Association, will speak on the topic "We're Only Here For A Visit," at the chapel services to be held tomorrow at Schwab Auditorium. James Beni, baritone, and the Chapel Choir, will present selections by Mendelssohn.

Mr. Harshbarger was associated with the World's YMCA where he was engaged in prisoner-of-war work. In this position he acted as assistant director in Great Britain for six months, senior representative in Belgium and the Netherlands, and then senior representative in Germany for two years. Besides being active at the College, he is active in the regional work of the Student Christian Movement and is a member of the general committee of the World Student Christian Federation.

A native of Pennsylvania, Rev. Harshbarger is an ordained minister of the Church of the Brethren. He attended Millersville State Teachers College, Bethany Biblical Seminary School of Music, and received his B.A. degree from McPherson College. He did graduate work at Yale University Divinity School, and took his B.D. degree at Temple University.

Auto Accident

Cars operated by Thomas Karolick, assistant business manager of the Collegian, and William Gilliland, of Windercrest, collided at the intersection of Foster avenue and Locust lane, Thursday night. Gilliland was arrested for failing to yield the right of way at a stop sign.

Outdoor Concert To Mark Finish Of Spring Week

When the concert Blue Band rings down the curtain on another Spring Week with its outdoor program tomorrow, it will mark another renewal of this College musical tradition.

This year's concert is scheduled for 3 p.m. in front of the Library. In case of rain, it will move to Schwab Auditorium.

Under the baton of Prof. James W. Dunlop, the 100-piece band will play the national anthem; Alford's arrangement of "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise"; Von Flotow's "Stradella" overture; Hardy's "The Grenadier" with a baritone horn solo by Richard Criswell; Sousa's "Liberty Bell March," a Leidzen-arranged medley of Rodgers and Hart songs; Creston's "Legend," Ostling's "Brass Pageantry," Colby's "Headlines," Arndt's "Nola" with a xylophone solo by Kennetta Peters; and Evans' "Lady of Spain," a band favorite.

The program will close with Leidzen's arrangement of a "South Pacific" medley.

ROTC in Full Uniform For Armed Forces Day

Today is Armed Forces Day, and a joint program has been planned by the military and naval units at the College.

For the past week, displays of military and naval equipment have been exhibited in windows in town and on campus.

In honor of this "Teamed for Defense" program, cadets of the Army, Navy and Air Force ROTC units will be in full uniform for the entire day.

BX Refunds

The 20 per cent refunds on purchases at the Book Exchange will start Tuesday and will be made until Monday, May 29, at 5 p.m. Collegian erroneously reported yesterday that refunds are available now.

Fast to Head BX

The Book Exchange board of control has named Robert Fast as its new chairman; it was announced Thursday at the All-College Cabinet meeting. He succeeds Richard Schweiker.
