Korean Reds Push Drive; 7 GI's Found Murdered

TOKYO — General MacArthur's latest communique last night, disclosed that Korean Communist spearheads had scored new advances—one to within 20 miles of South Korea's provisional capital—Taejon. Another has advanced to a point about 25 miles from Taejon. Both penetrations are one the front below Red-captured Chonan, south of Seoul.

Meanwhile, the earlier announced murder of seven American soldiers captured by the North Koreans is disclosed to have aroused strong feelings along the fighting front. General MacArthur had warned against atrocities, but Lieutenant D. C. Gates yesterday found the bodies of seven Americans who had been shot in the face with their hands tied behind them.

Bombing Increases

SOUTH KOREA—Plane reinforcements have made possible round-the-clock pounding of North Korean targets. Our Far East air force commander, General George Stratemeyer, has warned that any target of value to the enemy will be hit in the stepped up tempo of war. Forty-six Communist tanks were damaged or destroyed yesterday alone.

Draft To Take 20,000

WASHINGTON—The Defense Department has called for 20,000 draftees for the army at the earliest possible date. It said that no other course is presently available. A short while before, Draft Director Lewis Hershey said selective service will start with 25-year-olds, and that it will take 60 days to start delivering men.

Meat Prices Up

NEW YORK—Meat prices in New York City chain stores jumped as much as four cents a pound today, and large baking companies hiked the price of bread one cent a loaf—to 17 cents. The agriculture department said last week that considerably higher beef and pork prices are likely if the Korean war leads to more government spending for military supplies.

Mr. Bones

Rack o' Bones Attracts Coeds

By MYRNA ISAACMAN
Cheerful, smiling, congenial, and loveable—these and other adjectives describe Oscar, the experimental skeleton adored by all Human Anatomy students. Year after year. Innumerable Penn Staters pass through the portals of the zoology lab, admiring and fondling the aging relic, who, nevertheless, remains immobile, pale, and lifeless.

Elevated on his small platform in front of the lab, he presides over the class. Almost incessantly he lends a helping hand to baffled students who are leery as to where their clavicle or femur is located, and one can always be sure his information is reliable.

No Athlete
Although Oscar's bony physique in no way resembles that of a football player's, the coed anatomists are attracted, almost immediately, for they find that no matter how trying the course may be, he is always there to keep up their spirits.

Yes, it can well be said that Oscar the Skeleton is an essential part of the Human Anatomy course, and will probably continue to be so for many years to come. He has met all kinds of anatomy students, has shared in their sorrows and joys, and has, in general, become an incentive to them in their work.

Hats off to the outstanding personality of the Zoology lab—Oscar the Skeleton!

PSCA Plans Cabin Party

A work group and a cabin party will be the weekend offerings of the Penn State Christian Association. Miss Doris Renshaw, newly appointed program assistant, has outlined the following features for the weekend of July 15-16.

The painting of a local rural schoolhouse will be undertaken on Saturday, July 15. All students interested are asked to register in advance at the Student Union Office in Old Main. The group will leave from the PSCA office, Saturday at 1 p.m. and return at 5:30 p.m.

Of special interest to all students is the cabin party to be held at Ralph Watts lodge on Tussey mountain.

There will be a charge of $1. per person for Saturday supper and Sunday breakfast.

Transportation for this party will leave from the back of Old Main at 2 p.m. on Saturday and return Sunday morning. Students are advised to wear old clothes and asked to bring their own bedding.

'Ag Hill' Offers Interests To Each Summer Student

Cows, horses, gardens, or picnics tables, all may be found on Ag Hill. Whatever your other interests, you, the summer session student, may expect to find something new and different, something entertaining, in the School of Agriculture.

No special guides are needed, and most of the features mentioned are open during the early evening for you to inspect at your leisure. A. H. Imhof of the agriculture faculty has outlined just a few of the things to see on Ag Hill.

Josie, a pure bred Holstein cow holding the record as the greatest producing cow in the United States is the pride of the dairy barn. "Penstate Veeman Josie," as she is known formally, passed her 17th birthday in January, but is still producing. Her total production has now reached over a quarter-million pounds of milk.

Josie, who is about 135 years old in human figures, has six generations of female descendants that are also in the College herd. The amazing thing of Josie and her descendants is that production is increasing with each succeeding generation.
