

Docey-Doe

There are barn dances, hoe-downs, and square dances—and then there are the "Dutch" Sykes summer session square dances, ever increasing in popularity.

The affair that was held in the TUB last Saturday night had all the looked-for-and-seldom-found-features desired by hoe-down enthusiasts.

Several amplifiers strategically placed enabled the caller to be clearly understood at the remotest end of the TUB. Initiates to the "circle eight" addicts found no difficulty with their docey-doe's.

SATURDAY'S CROWD, the largest in attendance at any of the three summer square dances, found no slack to be taken up in the program. There were no disinterested groups gathered around the walls watching a few sets on the floor. The couples who hung around the edges were, in the main, awaiting their chance to form their own set.

In all, the square dances are examples of well-organized, informal entertainment.

IF THE CROWDS GROW MUCH larger, moving the dance outside, possibly on the front campus, might be a consideration to work on. Of course, this would mean additional work and worry, especially when a quick rain would bring the dance to a rude halt, and might ruin equipment.

Congratulation are in order for Sykes and his crew for offering a brand of entertainment enjoyed by the gamut of students.

New Dorms---

the rooms. Bunks are definitely out.

Main Floor

On the main floor of each dorm unit, a sizable lounge, lobby, office, recreation room, and canteen will be located. Thirteen counsellor's suites of two or three rooms are called for in the specifications.

The dining commons, a separate building joined to Units 2 and 3, will contain an up-to-date, well-equipped kitchen and three modern dining halls on the second floor. On the ground floor, a spacious lounge, suitable for dances, meetings, and all types of student get-togethers will be located. An innovation, a snack bar seating 100, will also be on this level. Between these rooms, a post-office capable of handling all student mail is planned.

Choir to Follow

The following Thursday, the Artists Series will feature the Eva Jessaye Negro Choir which sang in the Broadway production of "Porgy and Bess."

According to Walter H. Wiegand, supervisor of plant extension, the buildings are being erected on schedule. Unit 3 has already been completely finished and Unit 2 will be finished about the beginning of August. Unless unforeseen circumstances interfere, Unit 1 and the dining hall will also be ready for use in the fall.
