

Looking Back

"Even this must pass away."

A series of final bluebooks and another Main Summer Session at Penn State will be completed. Nothing explosive occurred at the College, except a mild blow-up at the Mineral Industries Lab, and the casual observer might even suppose the past few weeks to be void of significance.

However, in this final issue of the Summer Collegian, a brief run-down of occurrences and news events might be interesting.

JULY 1 MARKED THE START of a new Penn State era, as Dr Milton S. Eisenhower took over his new job as the eleventh president of the College.

About that time, the Board of Trustees approved the construction of a new Student Union building, and okayed plans for the much needed additions to the College infirmary. In the sporting world, soccer fans listened aghast to the news that the United States soccer team, coached by Penn State's Bill Jeffrey had defeated mighty England in World Cup competition.

The gigantic new men's dormitories, now named McKee, Hamilton, and Thompson Halls, are in the final race for completion against the few weeks remaining before the first freshmen in five years will appear on the campus.

Of news to gridiron fans, and especially to Rogel followers, was his signing with the Pittsburgh Steelers, in the National Professional circuit.

The Korean situation was felt in Centre County as county division chiefs began setting up a civilian air defense program.

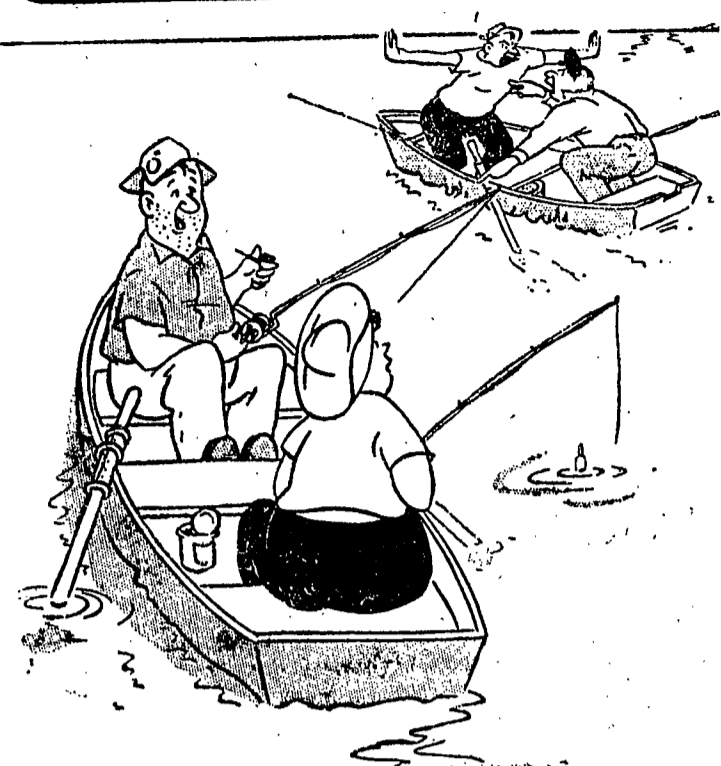

AT THE COLLEGE, a definite, clear-cut policy regarding military leaves and job holding for its members and employees was quickly announced.

Among other incidentals, air service to State College was resumed, putting the town again on the air map.

And as a closing thought, one item that hit the front pages of State newspapers just prior to the close of the spring semester; All bars must be removed from Penn State fraternities before Sept. 1.

will be called McKee Hall, named after James Y. McKee; that the east unit will be called Hamilton Hall, named after John Hamilton; and that the west unit will be called Thompson Hall, named after Moses Thompson.

Vice-President

McKee was vice-president of the College through very trying times, a member of the Board of Trustees from 1868 to 1869, a member of the Executive Committee of the Trustees from 1874 to 1892, and a professor of Greek Language and Literature from 1866 to 1891.

Hamilton was superintendent of the College farm, a professor of agriculture, a military instructor, a financial agent, a member of the Board of Trustees from 1884 to 1890, and president of the State Board of Agriculture from 1899 to 1903.

Thompson was secretary of the Trustees from 1859 to 1864, treasurer of the College from 1867 to 1874, and was influential in bringing the school to Centre County Watts, Jordan, and Irvin Halls will retain their original names, even though they are attached to the new buildings, Eisenhower announced.

from the Kappa Sigma fraternity. Reports of the shoe-money thefts have been reaching State College police over the last few months. It has only been within the past few weeks that the raids on fraternity houses have been so frequent.

Among the fraternities robbed are Kappa Sigma, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Phi Kappa Sigma.
