WASHINGTON—The Senate passed the emergency defense bill by voice vote last night.

92 Frosh Get Immunities

5300 Enroll In Two Days

Over 5300 students have been enrolled at the College during the first two days of registration, the admissions office reported yesterday.

By 4 p.m. yesterday, 5320 registration forms had been processed, 2353 of these Wednesday when sophomores were enrolled.

Of those thus far enrolled, 1100 are veterans, Mrs. Rebecca Doerner, in charge of veteran registration for the office of the registrar, reported.

The rate of registration is "just about what was expected," Dr. C. O. Williams, assistant dean of admissions and College examiner, announced. He said that the total enrollment is expected to be close to that of last year.

Dr. Williams pointed to the federal draft and the general economic situation as two factors seriously affecting enrollment.

A number of enrollment cancellations because of economic problems in the homes of prospective students have been received by the admissions office, Dr. Williams explained. Many more resulted from 1-A classification in the draft, he added.

Majority Of Exempted Freshmen Are Over 21

Ninety-two freshmen men were granted immunities from freshman customs by Tribunal last night at its first meeting of the semester. Customs will begin Monday for the first time since 1945.

Grid Ticket Sale Starts Monday

Tickets for the Army game at West Point, N.Y., Oct. 7, and for the opener against Georgetown, Sept. 30 will go on sale Monday on the first floor of Old Main at the Athletic Association ticket windows.

Reserved seats for the Army battle are four dollars each; tickets for the home game against Georgetown are $3.60 each. Faculty members and staff can still buy season tickets for the four home games against Georgetown, Temple, West Virginia and Rutgers for $9.60.

These tickets entitle the purchaser to a season seat between the goal line and the 35 yard line. Only members of the faculty and college personnel can obtain them.

Of the 92 men given immunity, Neil See, Tribunal chairman, said that the majority of the men were over the age limit of 21 set for observance of customs. The next largest group was excused because it had undergone similar customs at another school. See said.

All men pleading immunity on the grounds of observance of customs at other colleges were required to show proof, and in some cases, letters will be written to the school for a description of the customs.

To Be Notified
Those granted immunity will be notified by letter within a few days. These letters will be used as "passports," which will allow the men to go unmolested.

See stressed that the enforcement of customs will require the use of "common sense" by upperclassmen and hatmen. He asked men enforcing customs to take into consideration the school life of the frosh, and suggested they do not detain the frosh too long while they are going to classes.

Neil See, chairman of Tribunal, announced that the songs and cheers that frosh are required to know will be rehearsed at the Student Government Mixer at Rec Hall tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Frank Gullo of the music department will lead the songs, accompanied by Ray Fortunato.

All frosh and new students are asked to attend and bring their handbooks with them. Cheerleaders will also lead the group in cheers.

Frosh are required to learn the school cheers as well as the songs, a fact that was not included in the section on customs in the Student Handbook See said.

Calls Meeting
See called a meeting of Tribunal for Tuesday to iron out any difficulties that may arise in the program. He has asked that all upperclassmen and frosh who have any constructive criticism to offer appear at the meeting. (Continued on page six)

Cabinet Group Represents Nat'l Student Association

The Pennsylvania State College through a permanent committee of all-College Cabinet, is a member of the National Student Association, a unique organization of students from throughout the United States.

NSA operates on three levels: local, regional, and national. Of most immediate importance to students at the College is the work of the NSA committee, headed by Lynn Lapp. This is the group which organized the Campus Chest with its combined charities plan, promotes student-travel in Europe, and is generally responsible for all NSA activities at the College.

Rating Program
Among the projects which the local NSA branch is now working on is a committee combining its efforts with the student councils in all schools to draw up a faculty and course rating program. Another committee, working with the Liberal Arts School is attempting to improve the counseling system by suggesting a series of classes to aid advisers with their task.

Three Commissions
Less well known to students but of great overall importance are the national commissions which administer NSA: Education Problems, International Affairs, and Student Life.

The Education Problems commission is concerned with the education process, legislation affecting education, student economic welfare, discrimination, and similar large-scale matters.

Exchange Students
International Affairs promotes cultural exchange, through its delegates on the United States commission in UNESCO, its World Student Service Fund, and its placement of exchange and DP students in this country.

The Student Life program handles student government services and extracurricular activities. Regional commissions implement various intercollegiate programs.

Trustees Meet Here
Wednesday's Collegian erroneously stated that the executive committee of the Board of Trustees will meet in Harrisburg Sept. 22. They will meet in State College.

Lorch Settles Summer Status
The faculty committee on academic freedom announced during the Summer that "an amicable settlement of differences between Dr. Lee Lorch and the Penn State administration concerning the Summer session" had been reached.

Dr. Lorch, whose one-year contract was not renewed at the close of last semester, claimed there had been a verbal agreement for him to teach during the Summer. The Summer catalogue listed him on its faculty roster. In the meantime, Stuyvesant Town, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. housing project in New York City, has lifted its ban on Negroes. Dr. Lorch claimed that his contract was not renewed because of his activities as co-chairman of the Town and Village Committee to end discrimination in Stuyvesant Town. Metropolitan Life has at the same time refused to renew the leases of Dr. Lorch and some 30 other families active in the anti-discrimination campaign, on the grounds that it has the right to choose its tenants. The Metropolitan Life action is being fought in the courts.
