STATE COLLEGE, PA., THURSDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 21, 1950

PRICE FIVE CENTS

Concert Group To Hold Membership Drive Soon

Limited Number Of Tickets Available

Organized last Spring to bring outstanding musical artists to State College, the Community Concert association will conduct its first membership drive from Oct. 2 through Oct. 7.

When the limited number of memberships is sold, the group will book performers for three or possibly four concerts this season, according to Wilmer E. Kenworthy, chairman of the association's board of directors.

Noted Groups at Schwab
Since the elimination of the Artists' Course last year, no major musical artists or groups have appeared in State College. Community Concerts, operating on a no-profit no-loss basis, will bring noted singers and instrumental and dance groups to Schwab auditorium. Community Concert memberships cost less than the old Artists' Course subscriptions.

Admission to the concerts will be by membership only. These are limited to the number of seats available in Schwab auditorium.

A quick sale of the memberships was predicted yesterday by Kenworthy. Faculty, student and town representatives make up the board which will book the programs when the memberships are sold.

No Individual Tickets Sold
Kenworthy emphasized that under no circumstances would the sale of memberships be continued beyond Oct. 7, nor would individual tickets for any of the concerts be available.

The local Community Concert association is affiliated with the Community Concert service of New York and Chicago, an international organization in which over 1000 American and Canadian communities participate.

Library Offers Full Services

To new students with an eye toward reference work, study, or merely pleasurable reading, the College Library offers an adequate haven. Located at the head of the Mall, the library is open every day of the academic year, and offers full facilities for every kind of reference work.

Information about finding books and borrowing them, which may be a trifle more complicated than in the home town book factory, may be found in the booklet, "Your Library," which was given to new students.

The booklet gives necessary information about the library in pleasant, easy-to-read style. Orientation week advisers distributed the pamphlet to new men students, while women obtained them through the dean of women's advisory set-up.

New students are also reminded of the facilities available for the use of instructional records, government documents, newspapers, collections, photostats and audio-visual aid.

Extra Size Froth Appears Tuesday

Forty-eight hundred copies of the October issue of Froth, campus humor magazine, will go on sale Tuesday, according to Sam Vaughan, editor.

This issue, which will welcome freshmen to the campus and use the tearing out of fraternity bars as the basis of part of its alleged humor, will be an extra-large one of 54 pages. At the latest report, Froth subscriptions sold numbered 900.

Editorial candidates for Froth should report to 3 Carnegie Hall at 7 tonight.

Reds Move Up Reinforcements

TOKYO—North Korean Communists are pushing heavy reinforcements into the battle for Seoul. About 40 tanks and 18,000 troops are preparing for the defense of the former south Korean capital.

Meanwhile American forces are one mile from the gates of the city in one sector, and another force has crossed the Han river four miles northeast of Seoul.

Acheson Asks UN Army

LAKE SUCCESS—Secretary of State Acheson, speaking before the United Nations Assembly yesterday, called for a UN fighting force composed of all members and urged the assembly to settle the question of Formosa.

Following Acheson, Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky repeated Soviet demands for outlawing atomic weapons and for arms reduction.

Senate Works Overtime

WASHINGTON—The Senate worked overtime last night on the Communist control bill passed earlier by the House. The measure provides for the detention of subversives in time of war or national emergency and the registration of all Communists.

Roving Hatmen Heckle Frosh With Customs

Lots of freshmen found out what "Button Frosh" means yesterday, the third day of customs.

Groups of hatmen roved the campus buttoning freshmen, and then educating them in the right way to answer the call of upperclassmen.

The correct procedure for a freshman, when complying with the request to button, is to doff the green dink, grasping it by the little button on the top of the hat. The practice of most frosh up until now has been to take the dink off by the peak, or just take a handful of the hat, and remove it. One frosh even went so far as to throw the dink to the ground, before he was gently informed that that wasn't exactly the correct procedure.

Hatmen still have been doing most of the work as far as enforcing the customs go, and student leaders are a little disappointed at the upperclassmen's apparent apathy toward the project.

The frosh still manage to avoid the Old Willow on the Mall opposite Old Main, where they are required to doff their dinks as they pass by.

Another wrinkle to the impromptu song fests being staged on campus and in town is to promote a sort of contest between two groups of frosh, to see which bunch can cheer the loudest.

Hatmen yesterday were busy rounding up frosh on both sides of Pollock road and College avenue and, with the N-I-double T-A-N-Y yell as the favorite, started one group off with the N, then brought the second group across the street in on the I, and so on, until the cheer was finished.

24 'Crusade' Solicitors Dine

Twenty-four solicitors for the "Crusade for Freedom" scrolls, lunching yesterday at the Allencrest, exhibited strong confidence in the success of the drive which starts Monday. Each raised his original estimate of the number of pledges he would need.

Original estimates for 800 scrolls were raised to 1111. Each will carry 50 names.

Delayed by bad flying weather, A. R. Gormley, assistant to the "crusade's" co-chairman for Western Pennsylvania, was unable to address the group as planned.

In addition to soliciting signatures for the pledges, the "crusade" is aimed at raising funds for radio stations broadcasting to Communist countries. Pledge signers will be asked to contribute.

County Chairman C. S. Wyant, speaking at the luncheon, pointed to the destruction of the Voice of America's main Cincinnati antenna as proof of Communist fear of these broadcasts. The "crusade" stations are not connected with the Voice, a State Department agency.

Solicitors on campus are Gay Brunner, women students; Richard Bard, independent men; Harold Leinbach, fraternity men, and Prof. Alfred G. Pundt, faculty.

First Cabinet Meeting Scheduled For Tonight

Pigskin Holiday To Be Chosen

The first meeting of All-College cabinet for this semester will be held tonight in 201 Old Main at 8 o'clock, according to Robert Davis, All-College president.

Davis said the meeting will probably be short, with most of the time taken up by discussion on the annual football week-end, which provides for cancellation of all Saturday classes on the week-end chosen by All-College cabinet.

Davis also said that arrangements will be made for some member or members of Cabinet to be in the Ralph Dorn Hetzel Memorial Student Government room at all times of the day.

Students May Attend

Davis encouraged students to attend the meeting, and any other Cabinet meetings during the semester, pointing out that the constitution allows any student to attend the meeting and voice an opinion on any subject under discussion.

No action is expected on any phase of freshman customs, and Davis said that he doubted that the subject would come up for discussion at this early date.

The only other subject slated for the meeting is the appointment of Cabinet committees, and the replacements named for those cabinet members who are no longer in school.

Representation

Each student is represented by at least four people on cabinet—by the independent, fraternity or sorority representatives, the athletic association representatives, his class president and the president of his school council.

Following is a rundown of those seated on cabinet, the activities they represent, and other campus activities they engage in.

Robert Davis, president; former president, Association of Independent Men; Alpha Delta Sigma.
