Conducted Course Win Awards

Dr. T. C. Kavanagh, professor of civil engineering at the College, conducted a special course in Harrisburg during the summer on advanced topics in Bridge Engineering for the bridge design staff of the firm of Gannett, Fleming, Corddry, and Carpenter.

Profs In Chicago

Nine faculty members of the school of Chemistry and Physics attended the American Chemical Society meetings in Chicago recently.

They were Dr. Joseph A. Dixon, Dr. Bodie E. Douglass, Dr. Philip J. Elving, Dr. W. C. Fernelius, J. F. Hosler, Dr. A. Witt Hutchison, Dr. W. W. Miller, Dr. Robert W. Schiessler, and Dr. Mary L. Willard.

Dr. Elving presented two papers and participated in meet-

Prof Wins Prize

William R. Gordon, professor of rural sociology extension, was awarded second prize of $300 in a songwriting contest sponsored by the State Department of Commerce for Pennsylvania Week. The winning song was "Pennsylvania, Keystone State" used in the Aaronsburg Story last Oct. 23.

Chemist Gets Job

Dr. Harry M. Crooks, who received his doctor of philosophy degree at the College, and who is now a research chemist with Parke, Davis, and Co., has been assigned the job of establishing a research unit for the firm in London.

Eng Lecture

H. P. Hammond, dean of the School of Engineering, will address students enrolled in Engineering 2 and 3 at a senior lecture in Schwab auditorium at 4:10 p.m. today. His subject will be "The Year Ahead."

Dean at Meeting

Dr. George L. Haller, dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics, recently attended the Conference on Administration of Research at Ann Arbor, Mich.

New Quarterback

Temple will unveil its new quarterback, Al Kawal. At the beginning of the season, Gavin White was switched from left half to the under-center position, but later reports have it that sophomore Paul McKerman is more adept at flinging the ball than White.

West Virginia came out on top in a 28-20 game with Western Reserve last year. Art "Pappy" Lewis has 21 lettermen back, all with two more seasons of eligibility, and while he won't commit himself on the team's prospects this year, expects to do alright in '51.

50 Presidents

To Be Invested

Following the greetings, James Milholland, president of the board of trustees, officially will welcome delegates, will make the charge to the new president and officially will invest him. Dr. Eisenhower then will give the presidential address. Playing of the Alma Mater and the recession will mark an end to the ceremonies.

Dr. Eisenhower, former president of Kansas State college, took over his duties at the College July 1. Between 1924 and 1943, he held government positions with the Department of State, the Department of Agriculture, and the Office of War Information.

Receive Awards

Two College horticulturists received the top 1950 Vaughan awards in horticultural science, presented during sessions of the American Society for Horticultural Science at Columbus, O., last Wednesday.

Dr. John G. Seeley, professor of floriculture, received the Vaughan award in that department. Robert K. Dennett, graduate assistant in plant breeding, was junior author of the paper which won the Vaughan award in vegetable crops, along with W. A. Frazier of the University of Hawaii.

Station Wagon

Damage to the College car, assigned to the Foods department, was heaviest. The grill and both front fenders were smashed and the radiator was pushed in. The first parked car struck came off best, with what Captain Mark estimated was a $5 fender-repair job.
