

West Dorms Lavish Living For Lucky Lads

For the benefit of those less fortunate men who will live someplace other than in McKee, Hamilton and Thompson Halls, as the new dormitories are called, some description may be in order.

Each unit, and also renovated Irvin Hall, has a spacious lounge, comfortably furnished with radio and piano. In addition to these, a large lounge which will be the center of many student activities, is in the north wing on the main side of the dining hall.

Individual mail boxes for each are located to the east of the waiting rooms. Mail chutes for outgoing letters are available on all floors.

Recreation Rooms

Each dorm has a recreation room furnished with ping pong tables and other game facilities. Men students who prefer to do their own laundry will find automatic washers and electric dryers, drying and pressing rooms. Another innovation is the typing rooms.

Baths are finished in unglazed ceramic tile and towel racks are located beside each sink. All fixtures are hung from the walls to ease the job of cleaning floors.

As for the rooms themselves, new students will find them comfortably and simply, although smartly, planned.

Built In Accessories

Built into one side of the room is a dresser, a wardrobe for each student, and a hanging space. In the dresser each student has five drawers, and overhead, a hat and bag closet. To either side of the dresser mirror are two shelves for each student.

Closets have sliding doors with locks. Inside is a rod for hanging clothes, a rack for shoes, four small shelves and a hat shelf.

On either side of the concealed steam heat radiator are built-in book shelves with about six feet of space for each student. The top of the enclosure provides either a shelf or window seat.

Study Equipment

Study desks, one for each student, have a drawer for school supplies and a lamp providing indirect light. The modern style chairs made of laminated wood are designed for comfort and good posture. An easy chair, upholstered with a fabric-supported plastic material in a color matching the room, is provided.

Beds are low, Hollywood style, the steel frame resting less than three inches from the floor. They are equipped with box springs and a mattress which can be rolled without damage.

Windows are cleverly designed to provide proper ventilation at all times. In addition to sliding up and down, they tilt to any desired angle making it possible to open them in stormy weather.

West Dorm Gov't Nominations Open

Nominations for the West Dormitory student government began yesterday and will continue throughout the week.

Anyone seeking office must submit to his resident advisor no later than Thursday, Sept. 28, a petition containing ten signatures of men living in his area.

Elections will be held Thursday, Oct. 5. Each student must vote in his advisor's room.

Each living district will elect a president, vice president and a secretary-treasurer. Only the presidents will serve on the West Dormitory Council.

School To Set Up New Power Unit

Osmond Laboratory and eventually Ag Hill will receive a greater amount of electricity to run their electrical equipment and machinery when reinforcing the electrical distribution system under the mall, according to R. Y. Sigworth, supervisor of utilities. Additional conduits or electrical ducts are being installed in the part of the distribution system running past Carnegie hall and the Veterans' Administration building.

County Population Up

Centre county ranks fourth among the state's 67 counties in total percentage increase over 1940 population tabulations, according to unofficial figures recently released by the Census Bureau in Washington.

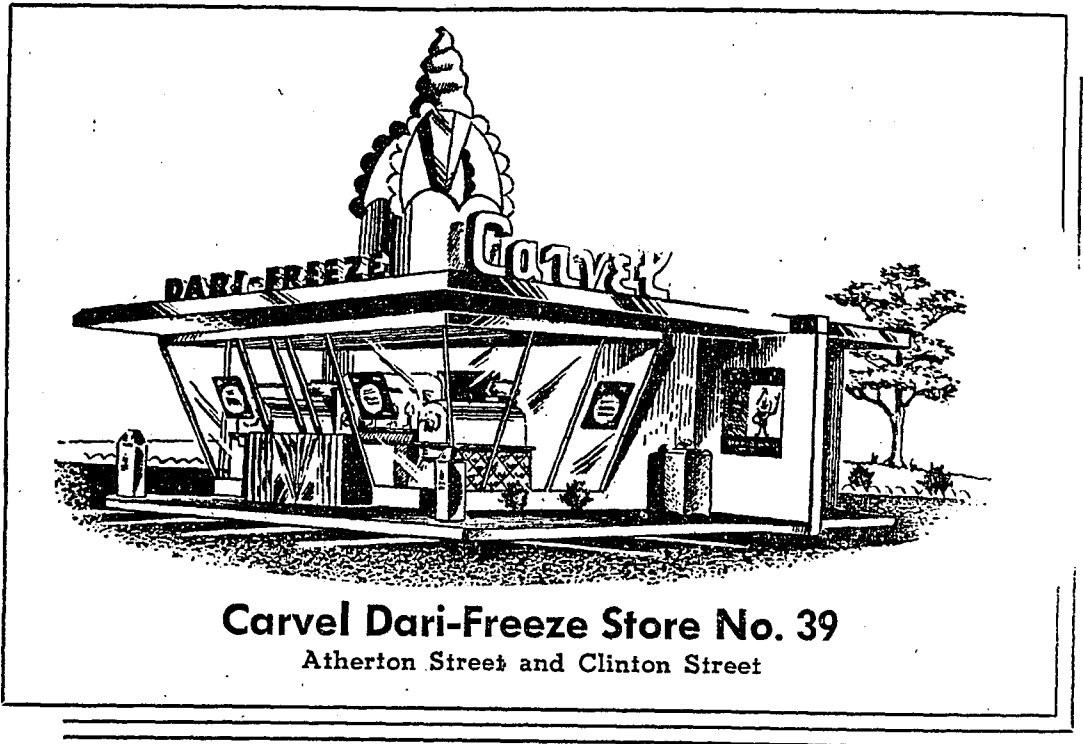

The increase from 52,608 in 1940 to 65,642 boosted the county from 39th to 35th place in total population. The percentage change of 24.8 was largely due to the increased number of college students in the resident population.
