Hatmen Haul Frosh To Rally En Masse

Raid On Dorms Brings Out Men In Jovial Spirit

Hatmen hauled more than half the freshman men from their dorms early last night and marched them en masse to the pep rally partially in retribution for the Wednesday night revolt.

Squads of hatmen and other upperclassmen — estimated at about 200 in all burst into the West dorms shortly after 6:30 o'clock and hurried through the halls, calling frosh from their rooms. Frosh were told with loud shouts to turn out and attend the pep rally.

Most freshmen went along with the movement in a jovial spirit and without much resistance. They greatly outnumbered the hatmen and upperclassmen, whose raid did not seem well organized.

Not All From Revolt

President Robert Fast of Hat Society council told Collegian yesterday the move was "only partially motivated by the freshman 'revolt' Wednesday night. The real punishment for that is the directive prohibiting the freshmen attending Saturday night's dance at Rec Hall," he said.

But Tribunal Chairman Neil See seemed to spike this contention by his statement at the pep rally later in which he said frosh would be allowed to attend the AIM dance.

See told Collegian that the action of hatmen could not have been covered in the customs code and that the code did not give hatmen the power to order frosh from their rooms for the rally.

The customs code says that any hazing practices not listed in it should be considered "undesirable hazing" and that freshmen are urged to report such actions to Tribunal.

Positions Open In Men's Debate

There are still openings on the men's debate team.

At the preliminary tryout meeting Wednesday night, 38 men appeared to hear professor Joseph O'Brien, coach of the team, outline the organization and values of the squad and give instructions for formal tryouts next week.

Some disappointment was expressed by O'Brien at the fact that only five freshmen appeared. It had been hoped that a freshman debating team could be established. As a result, men in any class interested in debate may still participate in formal tryouts.

Freshmen interested should appear in 305 Sparks, next Tuesday at 7 p.m. and be prepared to give a five-minute speech on either side of the question; "Resolved: That the non-communist nations should form a new international organization." Freshmen unable to attend this meeting and all others should prepare to give like speeches in 316 Sparks next Wednesday at 7 p.m.

First Hillel Social Set For Tonight

Hillel foundation will hold its first open social of the semester tonight from 9 p.m. to midnight in the Hillel auditorium. Named "Harvest Hop," the social will include both square and round dancing and a floor show at 10:30 p.m. by Zeta Beta Tau fraternity.

Everyone is invited, Natalie Adler, social chairman, announced.

Late Permissions Given For Inauguration Ball

Women will have 12:30 o'clock permissions Thursday night so they may attend the inaugural ball being held at Rec Hall as part of Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower's inauguration as 11th president of the College.

Barbara Sprenkle, Women's Student Government Association president, said that WSGA had approved the late permissions for all women. All-College cabinet had already decided to lift all freshman customs from 7 p.m. Thursday until 1 a.m. Friday to enable the freshmen to attend the affair.

A band of 15 pieces, all members of Phi Mu Alpha, campus music honorary, will play for the dance, being held in Rec Hall.

Finest Musicians

Jack LaClair, president of Phi Mu Alpha, termed the band, "one of the finest collections of musicians that will ever play at an all-College dance."

Most of the members of the band play professionally on the side, and many of them are well-known because of frequent appearances at house party affairs, and other social functions.

The inaugural ceremonies will last two days, with approximately 1000 guests expected at the reception opening the program Wednesday night.

Reception Line

President and Mrs. Eisenhower will be on the reception line in White hall on Wednesday. On Thursday morning, at 10:30, an academic procession will open the second day proceedings at Beaver Field.

The two junior hat societies, Androcles and Blue Key, have been assigned as ushers for the Thursday affair, which is open to all students, employees and townspeople.

To enable students and College employees to attend the affair, the 10, 11 and 1 o'clock classes on Thursday have been cancelled, and College offices will be closed the same hours.

In case of rain, the ceremony will be held in Schwab auditorium, and only those guests who received invitations to the reception Wednesday night will be permitted to attend, because of limited seating facilities.

Mark Requests Fans To Leave Cars At Home

Captain Philip Mark, head of the Campus Patrol, advises everyone to leave their cars at home for today's football game.

For those that do bring their cars, the Captain has issued several parking procedures to be followed: plenty of parking space will be found north of the beef cattle barns, which are two blocks east of Beaver field. Additional parking will be found at the north end of Park avenue.

One-way traffic south on Burrows road will be observed after the parking space at Rec hall is filled. After the game, there will be no northbound traffic on Burrows road.

Eisenhower Adds Name To 'Freedom' Scroll

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of the College, yesterday added his name to the signers of the Freedom scroll in the "Crusade for Freedom" drive. The drive is, currently being conducted being conducted on campus and in State College as part of a nationwide campaign opposing communism.

"Rain" Tryouts Slated

Tryouts for all students interested in Somerset Maugham's "Rain" will be held in 316 Sparks next Monday and Tuesday, evenings at 7:30 p.m.

This is a graduate thesis production by Henry Glass and portrayal player's credit will be given to all those participating. "Rain" is based on the short story by Somerset Maugham.

Large Crowd Attends Rally; Engle Honored

A crowd of nearly 2,000 students and faculty members, including most of the freshman class and campus hatmen attended the "Welcome Engle" rally on the steps of Old Main last night.

Highlight of the gathering was presentation of an honorary membership in Skull and Bones hat society to football Coach Charles A. "Rip" Engle. Harry Kondourajian, president of the organization, presented Engle with a key, certificate, and hat. In regard to the rally, Kondourajian said, "I have never seen such an enthusiastic crowd since I've been here."

Coach Engle spoke for a few minutes at the rally. He thanked students for their wonderful spirit and said "keep it, no matter what goes on 'out there.'" Engle then introduced football players John Smidansky, Vince O'Bara, and Owen Dougherty.

Comedian Hank Glass was on hand to act as master of ceremonies and Rudy Valentino, co-chairman along with Homer Barr, for the rally, led cheers. School songs were played by the Blue Band.

Concert Drive To Start Monday

The Community Concert association will begin their campaign for memberships with a dinner at the Nittany Lion Inn, 6 p.m. Monday. More than 100 students, faculty, and townspeople are expected to attend to receive their membership forms and detailed information concerning the campaign.

John Thayer, of the Community Concert services, in New York, will be present to discuss the campaign. A film featuring artists and musical groups that will be available when the local committee books its 1950-1951 series, will be included in the program.

The local committee expects to have all available memberships sold by Oct. 9. According to Wilmer E. Kenworthy, chairman, the program will be announced during the week of Oct. 9.

Additional information may be obtained in 204 Old Main, the headquarters for the campaign. Volunteer worker's reports will be turned in to this room and memberships may be bought there.

Freshman Health Schedule Changed

Freshman health classes scheduled for 105 White hall will be temporarily changed next week.

Classes scheduled for Monday at 10 a.m., Tuesday at 2 p.m., and Wednesday at 3 p.m. will meet in 316 Sparks instead of 105 White hall. Those scheduled for Wednesday morning and Thursday at 2 p.m. will meet in 121 Sparks.

Repair work on the room in White hall necessitated the change, said Dr. Arthur F. Davis, who is in charge of men's required health education.

17,000 To Witness Opening of 64th Football Campaign

By MARV KRASNANSKY

Charles A. "Rip" Engle will make his debut as Penn State football coach when he sends his charges against Georgetown this afternoon to inaugurate the 64th year of the gridiron game in the Nittany Vale. More than 17,000 are expected to attend the opener. Kickoff time is 2 p.m.

In addition to marking Engle's baptismal under fire as Penn State's 13th coach, the game will enter the books as a turning point in Blue and White football annals. With this afternoon's battle, the Lions will abandon the single-wing as an offensive vehicle and run from the explosive winged-T.

Plan Radio Coverage

With Engle unveiling the latest version of the winged-T in one of the former strongholds of the single-wing, the game has drawn wide attention throughout the East. The festivities will be covered by the Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and Harrisburg papers, as well as by the Atlantic radio network. Bob Prince will do the play by play on WMAJ.

Both teams will operate out of the "T," the Hoyas employing the Chicago Bear version brought to Georgetown by Coach Bob Margarita, the youthful former Brown University and Bear halfback great. With both squads using the pass-potent "T," and the weather predicted to be cloudy and warm, a passing contest can be expected.

In a pre-game move, Engle named two sophomores to start for the Lions. Ted Shattuck, the hammering fullback from Warren, Pa., and Don Barney, a 190-pound guard from Erie, will go for the Nittanians. Shattuck will start on the offensive platoon, while Barney will see action with the defensive unit.

AIM Sponsors Touchdown Hop

The "Touchdown Hop," second all-College dance of the fall semester, will be sponsored by the Association of Independent Men in Recreation hall from 8:30 to midnight tonight. Admission will be free.

Freshmen will be allowed to attend the dance, tribunal chairman Neil See said at the pep rally last night. Previously, See ruled they would be barred because of the Wednesday uprising. Before that tribunal originally ruled they could attend.

Music for the dance will be provided by Ray Evert and his Artists in Melody, formerly known as the AIM band. This will be the orchestra's first appearance this semester. It was formed last spring to play at all AIM dances and appeared at the "Moonlight Ball," in front of Old Main, and at a dance in the TUB.

The orchestra now numbers 19 pieces, including three violins. Nine members of the freshman and sophomore classes have been added to the orchestra's personnel.
