

Five Who Will Speak At Inauguration...

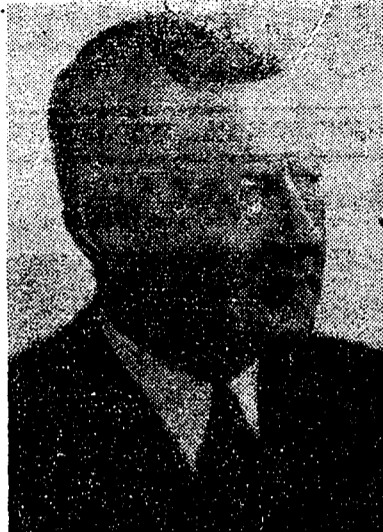

Robert Davis
All-College President

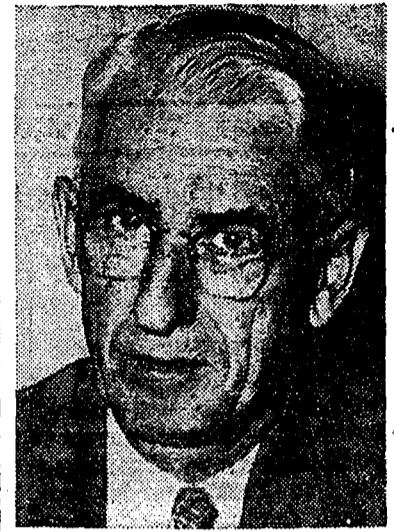

George D. Stoddard
Representing Alumni

James Milholland
President of Board of Trustees

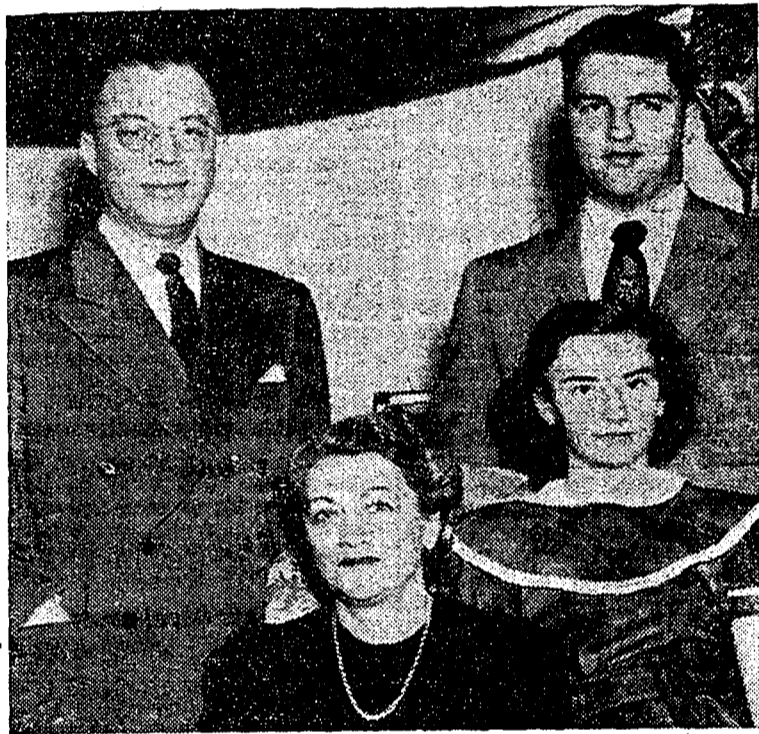

James H. Duff
Governor of Pennsylvania

David C. Duncan
Professor of Physics

Tomorrow Will Be Big Day For Eisenhower Family

MILTON S. EISENHOWER, President of the College, with his wife, Helen, and family. Milton S., Jr., 20, is a senior in journalism at Kansas State college. Ruth, 12, is attending State College high school.

Tomorrow is a big day in the life of Milton S. Eisenhower's family—his gracious and homey "first lady," his teen-age daughter Ruth, and his son Milton, Jr., a student at Kansas State college.

Mrs. Eisenhower, who finished her canning just in time to get the house spic and span for the inauguration, is quietly trying to keep her husband on an even keel as the former head of Kansas State College prepares for the investment ceremonies tomorrow.

Dating at 19
Born Helen Eakin in Manhattan, Kan., Mrs. Eisenhower started dating her husband when she was 19 and a sophomore at Kansas State College. Eisenhower spent the next two years as vice-consul in Edinburgh, Scotland. Meanwhile, the Eakin family moved to Washington, D.C., and Mrs. Eisenhower received her A.B. degree from George Washington university.

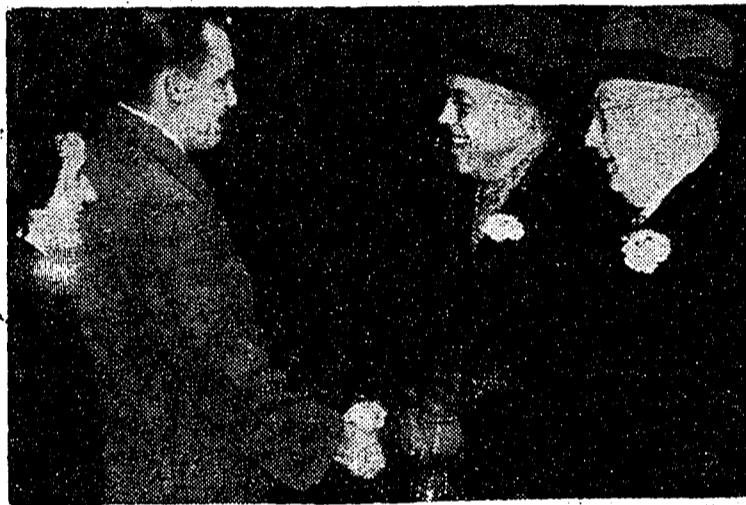

As a graduation gift, she was offered a four-month tour of Europe. Undecided whether to travel or get married, she consulted her fiancé. Eisenhower advised her to go to Europe while she had the opportunity. They were married when she returned from her tour. "I've always been glad he advised me to go," Mrs. Eisenhower says now. "His UNESCO work took him all over Europe while I had to stay home with the family, but because I had been to the places he visited, I had a much greater understanding of the work he was doing."

Divides Time
"Being a college president's wife is a two-person job," Mrs. Eisenhower once overheard her well-known husband say. She has to divide her time between being a housewife and mother and being ready for any of the duties she has to fill as the wife of a man continually in the spotlight. Mrs. Eisenhower loves to work in her kitchen and has a collection of 50 cook books plus certain secret recipes. A college president's wife, however can't spend too much time in the kitchen. Mrs. Eisenhower organizes and outlines the day's work, does her own marketing, and plans her own menus.

The other members of the family are daughter Ruth, 12, who is in the seventh grade at the State College junior high school, and Milton Jr., 20, a senior in journalism at the Kansas State College.

Warm Greeting Extended . . .

DR. MILTON S. EISENHOWER, with portfolio, is greeted by former All-College President Ted Allen while James Milholland, former acting President of the College, and Dolores Jelacic, former president of Pan-hel, look on. The occasion was President Eisenhower's visit in February.

Eisenhower Emphasizes Attaining Five Values

President Milton S. Eisenhower outlined his philosophy of education the first time he spoke before an undergraduate audience at Penn State in his capacity as President.

At a convocation for new students in September, President Eisenhower stressed five values which he said he hoped students would acquire during their college years.

He urged development of technical and professional competence, logic and clarity in communicating ideas to others, understanding of all the fields of knowledge, soundness of judgment, and a fighting commitment to the democratic way of life.

In emphasizing the importance of democracy, President Eisenhower said he felt that a college education implies willingness to work for the improvement of the democratic system.

He said he believes that no college can educate the student, but that the student must use the facilities and equipment of the college to educate himself. He was convinced that those entering college with this attitude would evolve into mature, thoughtful citizens.

Inauguration —

(Continued from page one) will both send men.

Radio stations in Harrisburg, Huntingdon, Johnstown, Clearfield, Williamsport, Lewistown, Lancaster, York, Allentown, Erie, Scranton, Hazleton, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, St. Marys and Pottsville will all carry an on-the-spot broadcast or a tape recording.

Television stations WFIL-TV in Philadelphia and WJAC-TV in Johnstown will carry portions of the ceremonies.

WMAJ in State College will carry complete coverage of all ceremonies, and College officials have asked that students listen for announcements on WMAJ in case the weather on Thursday is threatening.

If it rains Thursday, the program will be transferred to Schwab auditorium, and only the guests invited to the reception tonight will be permitted to enter because of limited seating facilities.

Scheduled to speak at ceremonies Thursday are James T. Smith, College chaplain, who will offer the invocation; Robert Davis, All-College president, who will bring greetings from the student body; Prof. David C. Duncan, from the faculty; Gov. James H. Duff, from the commonwealth, and Dr. George D. Stoddard, from the alumni. Dr. Stoddard, president of the University of Illinois, is a graduate of Penn State, class of '20.

Best Wishes
MILTON EISENHOWER

COMMERCE CLUB
108 W. COLLEGE AVE.

LAUNDERETTE
(Trade-Mark)

AUTOMATIC LAUNDRY SERVICE
210 W. College Ave.

Up to 9 lbs. Washed and Dried . . . 60c

Shirts Laundered . . . 2 for 35c

DRY CLEANING SERVICE

CASH and CARRY 20% OFF Delivered Prices

Open—Mon. 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Tues. thru Sat. 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Suits and Dresses . . . 69c
Slacks, Skirts, Sweaters . . . 39c
Sport Jackets . . . 49c
Evening Gowns . . . $1.50 up

(Hand Finished)

Any Raincoat (water-proofing 50c) . . . 89c
Overcoats and Topcoats . . . $1.00

No Better Cleaning Available

Congratulations and Best Wishes to our new President,

Milton S. Eisenhower

REA & DERICK