Four Frosh Questioned By Tribunal

By BOB SCHOOLEY

Four men appeared before Tribunal last night on charges of violating freshman customs. One will be given a sign with a mad hat and a large black bow tie. The others were either given stern warnings or the charges were dropped.

Elias Coddling, the freshman who was punished, disregarded customs and when he was apprehended by hatmen told them he was a sophomore. Later he was seen by the same hatmen while wearing customs and his name was turned in to Tribunal. When asked by Neil See, Chairman of Tribunal, his opinion of customs, Coddling said, "customs are not so awful. With the four-to-one ratio of men to women on campus, frosh girls will not date freshmen anyway." See explained the dating regulation was made so the freshmen would not date too much and get into the habit of studying.

No Punishment

William Druschel was before Tribunal last week and was directed to wear a sandwich sign. However he did not wear it as directed and See said that in the presence of some additional evidence on the case, he would receive no punishment.

The case of Paul Neuschwander was dropped also as the hatman who turned him in did not wish to press charges. Another frosh, George Dunn, also had his case dropped. He was directed last week by Tribunal to wear a sandwich sign for a customs violation starting Thursday. He was apprehended by a hatman last Wednesday without the sign and was turned in to Tribunal. His case was dropped on the grounds that he had not violated any customs regulation.

Allowed To Date

See announced that the Inauguration Ball would be open to all freshman men and that all customs would be lifted for the dance. See emphasized that this ruling also pertained to the frosh dating code and that the freshmen would be allowed to date. See reminded freshmen that their name cards could be removed Friday but that all other customs would remain in effect.

Speaking for Tribunal, See said, "It has been brought to our attention that a few frosh are completely disregarding customs. A general check will be made and offenders will be punished accordingly." The Tribunal chairman also said that freshmen should not continue the practice of using the short cut across Holmes field. He said that the customs code states that the freshmen should walk only on paved sidewalks.

Another meeting of Tribunal will be held next Wednesday night.

UN Approves Korean Action

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y.—Forty-seven members of the United Nations yesterday approved the crossing of the 38th parallel by U.N. troops in Korea. On Friday the United Nations is expected to make it official. The Assembly's political committee carried the Western peace plan for Korea by a vote of 47 to 5, then voted down a rival Russian plan. Approval by the Assembly is considered certain because the full Assembly has the same members as the political committee.

Americans have not crossed the 38th parallel, but the South Koreans who crossed it last week have advanced 60 miles into Red Korea without meeting serious opposition.

Oliver Says Vishinsky Misinterpreted Letter

Dr. Robert T. Oliver yesterday answered charges that a letter he received from President Syngman Rhee proved aggression planned by South Korea.

The Soviet Union claimed Rhee had written that the South Korean defense line should be pushed farther back and to do this Rhee would need aircraft and guns. It also said that Oliver had been instructed to talk to ambassadors and to President Truman about the situation.

Dr. Oliver, who is head of the Speech department at the College and an expert on Korean questions, told the Daily Collegian that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky quoted Rhee out of context in the UN Security council Monday. Russian possession of the letter proved connivance between the Soviet Union and North Korea, he said.

Rhees Belief

Vishinsky misinterpreted the letter as a statement of intent, Oliver said. It actually was a statement of Rhee's belief that "the free world was not winning the cold war and that eventually there would be a resort to force," he said.

Rhee wanted Korea to be in a better defensive position along its traditional boundary at the Yalu River, instead of at the 38th parallel, according to Oliver. Asked how Rhee proposed to re-establish that boundary, Dr. Oliver replied that Rhee had written that when the general conflict began, South Korea should take the initiative and seize the northern part of Korea.

He said that Vishinsky must have got a copy of the letter from President Rhee's files when the city of Seoul fell to the Communists. Rhee was writing as a personal friend and not in an official capacity, according to Oliver.

Oliver said that his copy of the letter had not been tampered with and that it was not accessible. Vishinsky quoted it only in part, and did not falsify the quotes, but used them to create a false impression, according to Dr. Oliver.

He said he would furnish the complete text if the UN asked for it but said he had not yet been asked. According to an Associated Press story, North Korea has also (Continued on page two)

Education Council Lists Appointments

Perry Posocco was elected vice-president of the Education Student council at a recent meeting. Clarke Young, president of the council appointed Ralph Egolf delegate to the "Education Edits," and Jane Stieber to prepare revisions for the constitution of the Council.

A committee to supervise the election of freshman and sophomore members to the council includes Carol Mermelstein and Tony Serge, co-chairman; Jane Stieber, Roselyn Beard, and Ruth Jean Diehl. Those appointed to work on the Education Handbook are George Demshock, chairman; Fred Kuhne, Bert Cushman, Ralph Egolf, and Ruth Eddy.

Dairy Cattle Judging

The Penn State dairy cattle judging team, coached by Max Dawdy, placed third in the national intercollegiate contest in competition against 23 other teams at Waterloo, Ia. They had previously placed fourth at the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass.

Eugene Harding, James Fish, Howard Davis and Paul Anderson who comprised the winning aggregation placed first in Guernsey, fourth in Ayrshire, fourth in Holstein, and fifth in Jersey cattle judging. James Fish placed fourth in the show.

LA Elections Set Oct. 18-19

Elections for the Liberal Arts student council will be held in the lobby of Sparks building Oct. 18 and 19. Information concerning the election code, qualifications for nomination, and number of members to be elected will appear in the Collegian at a later date.

All schools of the College, except the School of Agriculture, will hold their student council elections on these dates.

At the last meeting of the council, Edwin Lefkowitz was appointed chairman of the elections committee by Edward Shanahan, president. A completely revised constitution was read to the members for approval, but discussion was tabled until the next meeting.

Plans for publishing a newspaper for the School of Liberal Arts was discussed, and Jack Boddington was named editor. The paper, which will be similar to the IFC Newsletter in format, will be called "L. A. Angles."

College Receives Portrait

An oil portrait of James Milholland, president of the Board of Trustees, was presented to the College yesterday, at a special luncheon held for President and Mrs. Eisenhower, their families, and the Board of Trustees and their wives.

It is customary for the Board to have a portrait of the Board president presented to the College while the president is in office.

West Dorm Elections To Be Held Today

Elections for West dorm floor presidents, vice-presidents, and secretary-treasurers will not take place as originally scheduled because of the President's inauguration. Instead, each floor election will be held today at the convenience of the resident floor adviser.

All results must be in by midnight tonight. Ballots may be obtained in the resident adviser's suites.

The presidents and, the floors where there are two advisers, the vice-presidents, will be representatives on the West dorm council. The officers of the council will be members of the board of governors of the Association of Independent Mer

Philotes To Hold Special Meeting

An open meeting of Philotes, a social organization for independent women on campus, will be held in the playroom of White Hall 7 p.m. Monday. Ruth Aaron, president, will conduct the special meeting, which is held each semester to welcome all independent coeds into the club.

The only necessary qualification for candidates is that they have a one average. Symbolized by the phi, the club furthers social activities and friendship among independent women. Last year Philotes sponsored a booth at the Spring Carnival and held several semi-formal dances and cabin parties.

Jazz Ivory Boy Needed

Walter Walters, dramatics staff member, is looking for a Negro boy who can play boogie-woogie on the ivories. The second Centre Stage play this season will be William Soroyan's "Time of Your Life" and a Negro boy is needed to play the role of Wesley, the pianist. Rehearsals for the play begin Oct. 18, with the first presentation scheduled for Dec. 1. Any one interested may get in touch with Walters in the Drama Office, extension 2418.

fog and frost is expected early in the morning, but the weather should be ideal by the time the ceremonies get under way.

However, if a decision is made to cancel plans for the outdoor program and move it into Schwab Auditorium, an announcement will be made by 9 a.m. over radio station WMAJ.

Seating Limited

In the event that the ceremonies must be moved indoors, only those guests and visitors who attended last night's reception at White hall for President and Mrs. Eisenhower will be accommodated because of the limited seating facilities.

The academic procession, which will open the ceremonies at Beaver field will start at 10:30 a.m. with more than 300 delegates from colleges and universities, learned societies and educational associations participating.

Duff To Appear

College chaplain James T. Smith will then deliver the invocation, then Robert Davis, All-College president, will extend greetings from the students. David C. Duncan, professor of physics at the College, will deliver greetings from the faculty. Dr. George D. Stoddard, '20, president of the University of Illinois, will extend greetings from the alumni and Gov. James H. Duff will speak for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Milholland will express the appreciation of the College to the delegates, and then will deliver the charge to President Eisenhower, and invest him as the new President of the College.

Afterwards President Eisenhower will deliver his inaugural address.

Offices Close

The program is scheduled to last for approximately 90 minutes, and in order that students and College employees may attend the affair, the 10, 11 and 1 o'clock classes have been cancelled. College offices will be closed the same hours.

An honor guard is being provided to surround the speaker's platform by Scabbard and Blade, senior military honor society.

Tonight, at 9 o'clock, the students will present an inaugural ball in honor of the new president at Rec Hall. Freshman customs have been lifted for the event and all women have received 12:30 permissions.

Bryson Craine, chairman of the decorations committee asked that all decorations from the activity groups be at Rec Hall no later than 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Raschi 2-Hitter Tops Phils, 1-0

Big Vic Raschi put the New York Yankees one up on the Philadelphia Phillies in the World Series yesterday with a 1-0 win.

Raschi, who won 21 games for the Yanks this season, allowed the Phils just two hits and one walk, and was master of the situation the entire route.

His mound opponent, peerless relief pitcher Jim Kon stanty, was nearly as effective as was Raschi. Jim pitched eight innings and gave the Yanks their one run on four hits. He also walked four and several times pitched himself out of trouble. Russ Meyer pitched the ninth for the Phils and was touched for an infield hit by Hank Bauer.
