

1200 Meet President At Formal Reception

By ROSEMARY DELAHANTY

Twelve hundred faculty members and out-of-town guests stood in line for one and a half hours in White hall Wednesday night to shake hands with President Milton S. Eisenhower.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower and Mr. and Mrs. James Milholland stood at the entrance to the playroom for the two-hour formal reception. During the entire evening the receiving line stretched the length of the building. After guests had been introduced, they went through the Modern Dance room to the large gymnasium, where refreshments were served.

Key, Wife Present

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower appeared shortly after the reception began at 8:30. They remained for the entire evening and were whirled from one group to another for introductions.

Mrs. Milton Eisenhower wore black velvet, and Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower wore black and white taffeta. Mrs. James Milholland also wore black.

The lobby of White hall was painted pearl gray for the reception, and red-orange draperies were hung at the windows. The gymnasium was decorated with more than 30 pine trees, and pieces of aluminum foil, cut in various crystalline shapes, were hung from the ceiling.

Sprays of rhododendron were used on the tables and against the walls, along with chrysanthemums donated by the College greenhouses.

Refreshments Served

Refreshments were served at six tables located at various spots in the gymnasium. Hosts at these tables were the College deans.

Among the guests were representatives of more than 300 universities. Mrs. Milton S. Eisenhower's parents were also guests of honor. Fred Waring was also present.

Members of Chimes and Mortar Board were aides, and members of Skull and Bones and Parnianos served as ushers. Students in home economics and hotel administration prepared and served the refreshments.

Miss Marie Haidt was general chairman. Other committee members were Mrs. B. K. Wham, E. L. Mattil, Miss S. D. Emerson, Miss E. A. Atkinson, W. Reed, Mrs. George Free, Paul Flick, and Yar Chomichy.

Coeds Select Suits, Velvets For Weekend

By PEG KING

With the Army game only a few hours away, Penn State's luckier coeds are doing some heavy cramming in the wardrobe department to get all essentials for the weekend into one small suitcase.

Suits will play a stellar role in the clothing agenda, both for travelling and for wear at the game. And the new suits being shown this fall appear in everything from dark shades of gray to brilliant combinations of striped jackets and plain dark skirts right down to the all-time favored English tweeds. Skirts are shorter and straight this year. A style that should appeal to men. To defy a changeable weather forecast and present a good looking appearance, smart gals will plan to appear in suits set off by attractive accessories.

Accessories Are Assets

Speaking of accessories, colorful jersey blouses help any dark-colored outfit to become a knock-out. Add to that a little hat, perhaps a cloche which is appearing everywhere after being brought back from the late 20's. And, to complete the ensemble, how about a shining pair of calf pumps and matching shoulder bag.

Those extremely fortunate females who're lucky enough to own a fur coat won't neglect the opportunity to take it with them hoping they'll have a chance to wear them. If a new fur is in line—they're even more lucky. The new straight fur coats look slim and they too have been relegated from the fabulous twenties. Also, according to the October issue of Mademoiselle, colored furs such as jewel colored, sea-dyed lapin—shockers just a few years back—are now quite as acceptable as conventional grays, blacks and browns.

In the dress-up department for a wonderful Saturday night in New York, basic dresses with contrasting cover-ups will dominate the scene. Bright red and green velvets, halter-backed and just a trifle bare, come with matching jackets. Minus the jackets, you're set for any semi-formal occasion. Even wool jersey is an eye-catcher when it's styled in this manner. Or perhaps black boat-necked jersey blouses are combined with pale blue or champagne satin to form an innovation in date clothes.

But regardless of what she wears, here's to the Penn State coed—may she have a wonderful weekend. What's more—let's beat Army!

Sprengle Names WSGA Nominees

Nominees for the vacant WSGA offices, freshman senator and treasurer, were announced yesterday by Barbara Sprengle, WSGA president. The nominees are Barbara Werts and Jane Mason for freshman senator, and Frances Wolf and Mary Fisher for the treasurer's office. These girls represent the slate submitted by the WSGA nominating committee composed of senior senators and are chosen on the basis of leadership ability, scholarship and extracurricular activities.

The nominating committee of the Women's Recreation Association will meet today to select their nominees for two freshman representatives, one sophomore representative, and a secretary-treasurer.

Mass Meeting To Be Held

A mass meeting will be held in McElwain hall Tuesday at 7 p.m. at which time nominations will be opened and accepted from the floor. Any girl may be nominated who has a 1.5 all-college average, an outstanding activity record, and no major judicial record. A list of the nominees activities and qualifications together with her picture must accompany the nomination.

Preliminary elections will be held Thursday, October 12 and final elections, October 17. Polls will be in the lounges of Atherton hall, Women's building, McElwain hall, and Simmons hall. Polls will be open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. this year to give everyone a chance to vote, announced Lois Evans and Betty Lou Jones, co-chairmen of the elections committee.
