Stoddard Says Oaths Quell Subversives

Chapel Hill, N.C.—Dr. George Stoddard, president of the University of Illinois said yesterday that he can see nothing objectionable about requiring teachers to take loyalty oaths.

"They do not serve to catch communists," Dr. Stoddard said, in a speech at the inauguration of Gordon Gray as president of North Carolina University. "But they may be useful as a means of reducing questionable practices and as a means of establishing perjury in advance of overt, subversive acts," said the speaker.

Americans Stalled

Korea — Communist troops in North Korea have stalled the first American drive across the 38th parallel. Part of the First Cavalry Division, which penetrated the North Korean border on Sunday, were forced to dig in only a mile beyond the border.

South Korean troops, however, have stormed into the big North Korean port of Wonsan, a key objective on the East coast.

U. N. Can Protect Peace

Los Angeles — Louis Johnson, former Defense secretary, said yesterday that America and her allies have proved to the world that the United Nations will and can protect the peace. "Let us hope," said Johnson, "that the results in Korea will convince the Soviet satellites everywhere that there is no glory in 'dying for dear old Kremlin'."

U. S. To Be Alert

Washington, D.C. — John McCormack, democratic representative of Mass. said yesterday that America must be alert for military invasions of other world areas. He warned that such invasions might be similar to the Communist attempt to seize South Korea.

"Witch Hunt"

New York — William O'Dwyer, former mayor of New York, who had called the Brooklyn crime probe a "witch hunt," apologized yesterday for his remark. He said he had been angry because a Grand Jury was calling policemen before it to testify about possible payoffs from gamblers. Since then, the Grand Jury had uncovered a gambling ring that paid $1,000,000 each year for police protection.

Debaters Beat West Point

West Point did not altogether dominate Penn State—Army relations over the weekend as the College varsity debate team defeated the Cadets Saturday night at West Point.

Marvin Brenner, debate manager, and Clair George, debating the proposition: "Resolved, that the non-communist nations should form a new international organization," won the three-judge decision over what was described as a strong Army team. The victory gives Penn State a 4-2 margin over the Cadets in the seven times the two teams have met.

Army was the first opponent of a busy 1950-51 season which faces the debate squad. Next on the schedule is the annual International Debate Tuesday, Oct. 17, in Schwab auditorium, when George and Brenner will meet a combined British team from Birmingham and North Wales Universities.

The team roster will this year include twelve veteran debaters in addition to 22 new men selected in tryouts last week. Under the direction of Professor Joseph F. O'Brien, debate coach, the squad is pointing for a repeat of last season's successes in national tournament events.

La Vie Ag Proofs Due

Proofs of seniors in the School of Agriculture must be turned in at the Penn State Photo Shop no later than tomorrow, William Zakor, editor of La Vie, announced. Tomorrow is also the last day for seniors in the school of Education to have their pictures taken.

Students Hurt In Auto Crash

Two students at the College were reported in fair condition at Philipsburg State hospital yesterday after their car went out of control and struck an embankment.

Miss Joan Suppes and Charles W. Bert were traveling on Route 220, Sunday three miles south of Port Matilda at the time of the accident. Bert was driving. The car was demolished.

Miss Suppes suffered a fractured skull and lacerated left eye. Hospital officials reported her semi-conscious yesterday. Bert received a fractured wrist and head injuries in the accident.

Police reported the crash occurred at 12:30 a.m. Passing motorists took the couple to the hospital.

Miss Suppes is a graduate student in psychology. She recently transferred to the College from George Washington university.

Bert is a senior in mechanical engineering.

Book Written By Profs To Be Contest Prize

A copy of "Walt Whitman of the New York Aurora," written by two professors at the College, will be given to the winner of a slogan contest sponsored by the Walt Whitman Society of America.

The book, written by Dr. Joseph J. Rubin, associate professor of English composition, and Charles H. Brown, assistant professor of journalism, will be given to the person submitting the best slogan or declaration defining the attitudes and objectives of the armed forces in Korea.

Duff Praises Eisenhower And College

Governor James H. Duff and his traveling party ignored politics completely in their flying visit here yesterday afternoon, and spoke on the College and its new President, Milton S. Eisenhower.

Speaking of the inauguration, Duff said, "I have never seen a ceremony of this type that was more impressive. I could feel an air of good will, confidence, fine spirit, and encouragement for the future."

He had high praise for President Eisenhower and said that the College "could not have made a selection that has been so thoroughly approved by everybody concerned."

Lloyd Wood, Republican candidate for Lt. Governor, described State College as the "No. 1 ward of the Commonwealth," and the College as one of the leading educational institutions of the country.

William S. Livengood, secretary of the Department of Internal Affairs, and candidate for reelection, congratulated the College on the choice for President and also on the choice for football coach.

Said Livengood, "I used to live next-door to Rip Engle in Somerset county, and know that he comes from fine timber, and that he himself will carry the high standards of football from where Bob Higgins (head football coach until 1948) left off."

Livengood sounded the only political note of the day, concluding his speech with "I know you must be tired of listening to speeches, but bear with us, keep your friends interested, and let's go all out for a Republican victory in November."

Conference Chairman

George N. P. Leetch, director of placement at the College, will serve as chairman for one of the sessions of the career conference to be held at Bucknell university tomorrow and Thursday of this week.

Alumni, Trustees Plan SU Fund Contribution

Plans for alumni contribution to the Student Union fund are being studied and some sort of contribution will be made, President Eisenhower has announced.

The President said approval for proposed alumni participation in the Student Union fund was given last Wednesday at a brief meeting of the executive committee of the Alumni association. The

Concert Drive Reaches Goal

Memberships in the Community drive were all sold out by noon last Saturday, Wilmer E. Kenworthy, chairman of the board, announced yesterday.

An overwhelming number of memberships were sold to faculty members and towns people as compared to the ones sold to students, according to Kenworthy.

The drive was climaxed last Thursday with the announcement that the 95-piece Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra was signed to appear on Feb. 9. Fabian Sevitzyk will be the conductor.

The other three concerts that will be presented this year will be discussed and possibly chosen this afternoon by a committee comprised of student and faculty leaders.

The number of memberships sold was determined by the seating capacity of Schwab auditorium, Kenworthy said. A series ticket entitles the holder to any seat in the auditorium and tickets for individual performances will not be sold.

The Community Concert series replaces the old Artists' course which was discontinued last year. The series operates on a no-profit-no-loss basis by selling memberships then booking concerts on the amount raised.

The series is international in scope and has over 1000 American and Canadian communities listed as members. Headquarters are located in New York City and Chicago.

Papers Praise New President

Compliments and praise for the new College President, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, made the editorial pages of many Pennsylvania newspapers over the weekend, following President Eisenhower's inauguration last week.

The Philadelphia Inquirer noted that President Eisenhower "typifies the new sort of leader—the man who combines scholarly attainments with insight into world problems—to whom one great institution of learning after another is turning."

The editorial went on to comment on the President's achievements in government, and stated, "These qualifications that augur well for the development of the Pennsylvania State College."

The Harrisburg Patriot noted, "Penn State has meant a great deal to the youth of the state through the years . . . so it is proper that Penn State acquires the best possible leadership available in the nation. The leadership is personified in Dr. Eisenhower."

Said the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, "The new President does not intend the institution to rest on either past or present achievement. Education in his view has never caught up with the times. If there are some who lack the mental capacity for college work there are many more who are capable and denied the opportunity."

Froth Meeting

Promotion manager, William Brady, asks all candidates for the Penn State Froth promotion staff to report for a meeting in 100 Carnegie at 7 p.m. tonight.

Board of Trustees executive committee also has agreed to go along with the plan, he said.

Action followed a move in which All-College cabinet instructed All-College President Robert Davis to broach the question of alumni participation to the executive committee.

Alumni participation in the Student Union fund program will be the first step toward setting up a general alumni fund campaign for various purposes, President Eisenhower said.

Fund Campaign

Committee meetings were held during the inauguration rush and there was no time to work out details, according to the President, who said the fund campaign would be developed by a joint alumni-trustee committee which will be in charge of the general fund-raising program.

H. Ridge Riley, executive-secretary of the Alumni association, said yesterday that support of the Student Union would be included in the first project of the alumni fund drive, but that nothing could be done at the moment to set such a drive in motion. Additional funds would be needed to set up a continuing fund campaign, he said.

Proposal for alumni participation was presented by three cabinet members at the last cabinet meeting in an effort to find additional methods of financing the Student Union building. The Student Union committee was instructed last spring to investigate further financing methods.

College Budget

President Eisenhower also reported that preliminary work on the proposed College budget, to be presented to the state General Assembly, had been completed, but that he did not know how soon it could be made public.

Dilworth Hits Republicans

HARRISBURG — Richardson Dilworth, Democratic nominee for Governor, charged in a campaign speech Friday that the Republican party had made Penn State a "political football."

Successful Republican administrations have placed the institution under political domination, he said. This action has retarded the College from developing as one of the greatest farm schools in the country, Dilworth continued.

Trustees of the College are appointed by the Governor.

"I am hopeful that under Penn State's new president, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, it can wipe out this political domination and set up the greatest farm school in the country," Dilworth added.

He maintained that the College had to take a back seat to Cornell university and Iowa State university as a result of the Republican party's manipulations.

Dorm Residents Must Store Guns in PUB

Any student living in the Nittany-Pollock area who plans to keep a gun in the area for hunting season must store it in the gun room of the PUB.

Gun owners must register firearms with James Simpson, recreation director, in dormitory 34, room 7. No guns can be permitted in the dormitory area without this registration.

Keys for the gun room and copies of the regulations will be given to each student who registers.
