Tribunal Tries 6 Frosh, Fines Traffic Violator

By BOB SCHOOLEY

One traffic violator and six freshmen appeared before Tribunal last night. The freshmen were charged with violations of the freshman customs code. The traffic violator was fined $1 for a parking violation.

Most of the freshmen were apprehended by hatmen for violation of freshman dress customs. Four frosh were given sandwich signs to wear, and additional penalties will be imposed later by Tribunal. Another freshman was reprimanded by Tribunal. The sixth frosh's case was postponed until the next Tribunal meeting when additional information on the case will be presented.

Robert Kauffman was apprehended by hatmen on Oct. 2 when he refused to button, according to the complaint. His case will be postponed until the next meeting. Richard Davold was caught without proper customs dress, but due to unusual circumstances he was not penalized by Tribunal.

The four frosh directed to wear sandwich signs were David Moorehead, Irving Shulman, Russell Wasser, and Thomas Helper.

The traffic violator was fined $1 for the first offense. Neil See, Tribunal chairman, said that the violator had been warned by the campus patrol on at least two previous occasions for violating the parking regulations, and that further infractions would be dealt with more severely. Tribunal regulations provide for a fine of $1 for the first offense, $3 for the second, $5 for the third, and $10 for the fourth. Persons who violated the parking code will be sent to the dean of men's office after the fourth offense.

See said the freshman dating restrictions would be lifted for the open house at the West dorms to be held Sunday. He also said, referring to customs "Customs have been very lax lately. I would like to call on every upperclassman to revive their concentration on enforcement."

The next meeting of Tribunal will be held Monday night.

UN May Act Against Veto

LAKE SUCCESS—A veto-proof plan to stop aggression any place in the world is expected to receive formal approval today by the United Nations political committee.

The American backed plan includes the use of force if necessary. It would give the general assembly military power to combat aggression when the security council is deadlocked with a veto.

Only the Soviet bloc voted against the key provisions of the proposal yesterday.

Connie Mack Retires

PHILADELPHIA—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics for 50 years, yesterday resigned. He became manager of the Athletics in 1901, the same year that the American League was formed.

Red Defense Stiffens

Advance elements of the United Nations forces are battling stiff Red Korean resistance about eight miles from Pyongyang, the Red capital. An Eighth Army spokesman yesterday said that the Red defense is strictly a rear guard action and that Pyongyang is deserted.

Philipsburg Police Find Stolen Car

Philipsburg police returned the 1950 green Ford sedan reported stolen last Tuesday to the owner, Jay England.

The police reported the car was found in the vicinity of that community Tuesday evening.

Limb Blames Conflict On Yalta Compromise

By PAUL POORMAN

If the main objectives of the second World War had been considered at the Big Powers conference at Yalta in 1945, the Korean war might not have been necessary, Colonel Ben C. Limb told the Community Forum audience in Schwab auditorium last night.

Col. Limb, foreign minister for the Korean government, said that sometimes, in eagerness to get a war over quickly, the primary purpose of fighting the war may be forgotten. World War II was fought to do away with axis tyranny and to promote democratic ways of life, he said. If these long-range objectives had been considered at Yalta, he went on, Korea might not have been divided. It was division of the country at the 38th parallel which caused the war, according to Limb.

Col. Limb explained that in terms of the agreement, the United States would receive Japanese surrender in the South, and the Russians in the North. Then these countries were to evacuate their military forces and let the Korean government run itself.

Refuses To Leave

Russia, however, refused to leave, and maintained an extended "iron curtain" at the 38th parallel, according to Limb.

After repeated Russian-American talks in attempt to reunite the Korean people, which all ended in failure, the United Nations took over the problem. In 1947, Col. Limb said, a UN commission held elections in Korea, from which the present recognized Korean government was chosen.

Limb claimed that Russia, however, through her puppet government in North Korea, had been trying to undermine this growing republic, and failing in all subversive attempts, started all-out war. "The rest," Col Limb added, "you all know."

Recently Returned

Col. Limb, who is at present chief of the Korean delegation to the United Nations, returned a month ago from the battlefields in his country. He told of the suffering he had witnessed, both of troops and refugees, and of the immense help Korea is receiving from the UN. He stressed that this help, however, is slow in coming, and the immediate future for many Koreans looks very black.

Dining Hall To Open Nov. 1

Construction of the new men's dining hall adjacent to the three new dormitory units will probably be finished by Nov. 1, according to George W. Ebert, director of the physical plant.

Ebert said that the original deadline for completion of the building was Sept. 15, the deadline for work on the new dorms. Ebert stated that the Korean situation created a shortage of manpower and materials that the contractor could not be held responsible for, and the deadlines had to be moved back.

Usual procedure in the case of a contractor's failure to meet a construction deadline is forfeit of part of the fee, but Ebert said no penalty will be inflicted because it was beyond the realm of the contractor's control.

Included in the new dining hall's facilities are three dining rooms, which are capable of seating approximately 1000 men, a large recreational lounge, a snack bar, a number of public telephones throughout the building, a post office for the dormitories and a lobby.

Ebert said the entire basement will be taken by the equipment needed to prepare and store food.

Dr. Eisenhower To Speak To County Grads Tonight

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of the College, will speak to the Centre County alumni in 121 Sparks at 8 o'clock tonight.

This will be Dr. Eisenhower's first meeting with the Penn. State Club of Centre County. The President will outline some of the major problems which confront the College, and will suggest how the local alumni may help solve them.

Tug Of War Approved; Date Set For Tuesday

By PAUL BEIGHLEY

The tug of war between freshmen and hatmen will be held Tuesday night at 7 o'clock, David Mutchler, president of Blue Key, told the organization at its meeting last night.

Mutchler said that the plan, originally proposed by Robert Fast, Hat Society council president, had been approved

Mass Meeting Begins IFC Workshop Plan

By ERNIE MOORE

When you become a fraternity member you take on new responsibilities, H. K. Wilson, dean of men told approximately 400 fraternity men at the kickoff meeting of the fraternity workshop in Schwab auditorium last night.

"Proper fraternity living centers greatly around the developing of personality," he said.

He went on to praise the workshop program as a constructive one in which fraternity critics can find no fault.

Kenworthy Present

Wilmer E. Kenworthy, assistant to the president in charge of student affairs, told the fraternity men that he thought the workshop a "wonderful idea."

He said that after setting goals it was good to stop and do a little self analysis once in a while. "This workshop is your opportunity to take stock of your progress."

Leinbach Speaks

After Interfraternity Council President Harold Leinbach gave the welcoming address, Harry Kondourajian, workshop committee chairman, outlined the five-day program.

Tonight and tomorrow night, the workshop will hold panel discussions on problems confronting every fraternity. Eight different topics will be discussed.

Apple Bobbing Is Back

9 Coeds To Vie For Cash Prizes

The old American institution of apple bobbing will be revived as a climax to the Hort show, with nine eager coeds dunking wildly over three large tubs of Jonathans next Wednesday night.

Mrs. Milton S. Eisenhower will officiate and award prizes to the coed who can absorb the most apples in the given time. An orchid and $5 will go to this most talented of collegiate women.

The nine finalists for the contest will be chosen from 15-word essays defining the apple. These essays must be submitted by would-bob bidders. Deadline for entrants is Monday, and entries should be addressed to Box 63, Hamilton Hall.

The contest will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in 100 Hort. This outstanding athletic event is open to the public.

Three contestants will operate over each of the three tubs which will contain the largest apples available. Judging will be on the basis of grace, dexterity, poise, and the number of apples retrieved.

Debaters Change Majority Opinion

A sway of opinion ballot taken at Tuesday night's international debate showed that the debaters succeeded in swaying 74 opinions toward favoring the question, caused 181 to change their minds against the question, and left 96 unchanged.

The debate, featuring mixed British and Penn State teams, was on the question, "Resolved, that the United Nations is a good debating society but a poor pattern for world government."

by the dean of men and by other campus authorities. He said that Fast had appointed Blue Key to make arrangements for the event.

The contest will be held between opposing teams of 50 freshmen and 50 hatmen, and probably will take place either on Beaver field or Holmes field. Under present arrangements, the prize, a barrel of cider, will be awarded to the team which pulls its opponents through a stream of water placed midway between them.

Must Turn In Names

Mutchler said that freshmen desiring to compete in the tug of war should turn in their names to Robert Davis, All-College president, in 249 Hamilton hall, and that each hat society must have 10 members in the contest. These names should be submitted to Fast.

Mutchler then appointed Edward Monahan chairman of the committee to make arrangements for the event.

Other business at the meeting included a speech by Herbert Axford, chairman of the Campus Chest drive, who explained purpose of the drive and asked for the co-operation of Blue Key. Several members volunteered their services.

In addition to the tug of war committee, Mutchler also appointed a permanent award committee with James Wharton as chairman, a constitution revision committee with Ronald Bonn as chairman, and an initiation and tapping committee with David Smith as chairman. Shingles were awarded to members.

Oct. 'Engineer' Now Available

The first issue of the Penn State Engineer was on sale yesterday.

The October issue contains the usual technical articles and features, and includes a story by H. P. Hammond, dean of the School of Engineering.

Editor-in-chief Robert Bailey contributes an article extolling the features of "Opposed-Piston Diesels," "Higher Quality at Lower Cost With S.Q.C.," an article by Vincent Cavanaugh concerns Statistical Quality Control.

The magazine also contains a story by Gordon Bywaters, "New Horizons in Converter Practice," one by Rudy Marrasso entitled "Domestic Comfort Through Insulation," Robert Goodman's "The Key to Effective Air Conditioning," and "New Commission for Mercury" by Fames Banham.

Pre-Legal Society To Sponsor Lecture

Donald M. Cunningham, assistant dean of the University of Pennsylvania law school, will speak tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in 217 Willard hall.

Dean Cunningham will speak on the legal profession and law schools throughout the country.

Pi Lambda Sigma, pre-legal honorary society on Campus, will sponsor the meeting. The program will be given for the benefit of all pre-legal students, but anyone may attend.
