

Nebraska Mark

pass receivers who must be watched.

Center Joe McGill and guard Joe Strasheim are the only non-lettermen on the offensive line, but both are seniors with two years of varsity experience. Charley Toogood, a 220-pound, three-year award winner, and Walt Spellman, a 200-pound converted guard, fill the tackle positions, while Art Bauer, a fifth senior, works with Strasheim at the guard slots.

Defensively the Cornhuskers are sparked by Ron Clark, the 165-pound speedster well-remembered hereabouts for the 82-yard punt return which accounted for Nebraska's only touchdown last year. Glassford's defensive line is heavy, tipping in at 207. Biggest man on the front wall is Don Boll, 6-foot 2-inch, 240-pound sophomore tackle. The other tackle is veteran Dick Goeglein, with sophomore guard Dick Goll, senior end Bill Maxe, and sophomore end George Prochaska rounding out the line.

nellsville, Pa., and sophomore Tom Harper back up the line, while lettermen Nick Adducci, and Don Bloom man the half-back slots.
