Spirit Absent At Pep Rally

A small unenthusiastic crowd was present at the "Welcome Alumni" pep rally for the Homecoming Temple football game in front of Old Main last night.

Unlike other pre-game rallies, this one had no guest speakers. Robert Davis, All-College president, and Charles "Rip" Engle, football coach, were expected to appear, and their absence was conspicuous.

A parade down Allen street by the Blue band started the rally. The band crossed College avenue, and marched to Old Main. Hank Glass emceed the program, and with Rudy Valentino, head cheerleader, and the band comprised the program of the abbreviated meeting.

The band played some "jazz" versions of school songs, and the cheerleaders performed a new cheer, which will be used tomorrow for the first time at home. A majority of the crowd were freshmen, and few alumni were present. Most of the crowd seemed anxious to leave in time for the Thespian show, so the rally lasted only a half hour.

Plane Wreck Sighted; Thought Missing Prof's

Wreckage believed to be the plane flown by Dr. Elliot R. Alexander, professor of chemistry at the University of Illinois, and his wife was sighted yesterday noon near Rummel in Somerset County by a Civil Air Patrol member. There was no indication of life. Ground rescue crews were dispatched to the scene. The couple were en route to the College where the professor was scheduled to give a lecture. At the time of the issue of the paper there was no further information regarding the finding of the plane's occupants.

Alumni, Temple Invade State For Homecoming

Lions Seek End Of Three Game Losing Streak

By MARV KRASNANSKY
Anything will go and no holds will be barred when Penn State and Temple clash on Beaver field this afternoon.

A Homecoming crowd of almost 25,000 is expected to fill Beaver field by kickoff time at 2 p.m.

Victims of three stunning defeats after a successful opener, Coach Rip Engle's Nittany Lions will be shooting the works in an effort to regain the winning formula. Always up for the Owls, the Lions are especially anxious to snap their three-game losing streak and put on a show for visiting alumni, who are expected to number 10,000.

Owls Determined
The Lions, however, can expect to face a Temple squad no less determined to win. The Owls have not been able to hang one on the Nittanians since 1941, Penn State having won the past seven engagements. To add insult to injury, Coach Al Kawa's herd has not been able to push across a single point against the Lions in four previous engagements on Beaver Field.

State last dropped three in a row in 1936. Engle has been suffering with more than the usual difficulties a first-year coach can expect, and he figures his luck can't get much worse.

Unable to cash in on what opportunities that have presented themselves, the Lions have managed to score but two touchdowns in the past three weeks.

Last-Minute Changes
In an effort to boost the touchdown production, Engle has come up with two last-minute changes in his starting line. As he disclosed yesterday, Engle will send Bill Mathers to answer the opening whistle in place of Jim Barr at right guard. Yesterday, however, Engle came up with another surprise when he named Tom Pevarnik, 190-pound junior guard, to start on the other side of the line, replacing Len Bartek. (Continued on page four)

No Flashcards At Homecoming Football Game

Flashcards will not be in use for homecoming game with Temple today, Rudy Valentino, head cheerleader, said yesterday.

The new cards have not been marked as yet, he said. He expressed the hope that they would be completed in time for the next home game.

Valentino said that Temple is bringing several hand balancers with them to the game. These will be in addition to Temple's cheerleaders. He said that quite a contest may develop between the Temple acrobats and Penn State's gymnasts.

In addition to the four gymnasts and Valentino, the College will be represented by eight cheerleaders, the Lion, and Frothy, who this week is clad in a new suit.

Valentino also promised spectators a surprise this afternoon.

Davis Limits Poster Size

All-College President Robert Davis asked yesterday that groups posting notices on the cabinet bulletin board at Carnegie hall limit size of posters to 11 inches by 8½ inches.

First Annual Chest Drive Begins Campaign Today

The first annual Penn State campus chest drive officially opens its weeklong campaign for funds today.

The chest, a combination of ten agencies, will be the only fund-soliciting drive on the campus this year. It was devised to minimize the duplicated efforts involved in the separate fund raising drives of the agencies in former years.

3 Judges Scan Lawn Displays

Three judges braved a chilly wind and threatening rain last night as they made their way around to each fraternity house casting an artistic eye over the lawn displays.

The winning display will be announced at half-time of the Penn State-Temple football game this afternoon.

The theme for this year's displays is "The New Era—Eisenhower, Engle, and Prohibition." And last night the judges saw everything from a stork ushering in the New Era carrying figures of President Eisenhower and Rip Engle at Phi Kappa Sigma to a grave at Theta Chi symbolizing the death of the single-wing at Penn State.

Alpha Tau Omega, winner for the past two years and out to make it three in a row, had a large football figure kicking at a huge whiskey bottle, depicting removal of drinking from the College.

Pi Kappa Phi illustrated the New Era and the return of freshmen to the campus with a huge lion dressed as a cheerleader carrying the figures of President Eisenhower and Rip Engle, dressed in diapers, dinks, name cards, and bow ties.

Delta Tau Delta used its initials (DTD) as a scale. On one side stood a bar, a figure of a president with no face, and a wing (symbolizing the single-wing).

The goal of the Campus chest is $14,000. To meet this goal each student on campus will be asked to contribute $2. Although the drive starts today, probably very little soliciting will be done before Monday. During the drive solicitors will contract nearly every student at the College.

President Milton S. Eisenhower opened the drive yesterday with his personal contribution. He is honorary chairman of the drive. All but eighth semester students may contribute to the chest in either one of two ways. They may make an immediate donation of cash or sign a pledge card authorizing the bursar to add whatever amount the student wishes to contribute to his fees next semester.

Eighth semester students will be asked to make an immediate cash donation.

'Antigone' Tryouts

Tryouts for "Antigone," Players' second Schwab auditorium show, will be held in Little theatre Monday and Tuesday for men, Wednesday for women.

Antigone is a classic Greek play by Sophocles. The script being used by Players is a translation from the original Greek, not from the modern French revival which has been played frequently during the last few years.

Warren S. Smith, director of the show, points out that there are far more male than female openings for "Antigone." He urges students with no previous experience to try out for the play, since its large cast makes it impossible to fill all the places with experienced actors.

College Expects 10,000 Alumni For Big Weekend

By GEORGE GLAZER
A crowd of about 10,000 alumni is expected to invade the campus before the weekend is over to take part in the festivities of the annual Homecoming celebration.

Things were comparatively quiet yesterday afternoon at Rec hall, where the "old grads" register. The big influx of visitors will probably take place this morning, although the advance guard did start moving in late last night.

In the first scheduled alumni event, the golf tournament on the College links, 23 had entered by late afternoon. Play and registration will continue until the luncheon for the guests at 11:30 this morning at Rec hall.

About 75 alumni members of Lion's Paw dined at the Nittany Lion inn last night and 175 ex-lettermen, members of the Varsity S club, had a dinner at the Centre Hills country club.

Eisenhower Speaks
President Milton S. Eisenhower will meet with the members of the alumni council this morning at 10 o'clock in 121 Sparks where he will report on the "State of the College."

The President will then attend the alumni luncheon in Rec hall and address the group.

Other guests at the luncheon will be all-College president Robert Davis; Harry Little, soccer team captain; Homer Barr, president of the Athletic association; Joseph Tocci, freshman basketball coach; Robert Higgins, former head football coach and Steve Suhey, assistant freshman football coach, both former All-American football players; and Jay S. "Tiny" McMahan, Jr., son of the erstwhile football and wrestling (Continued on page two)

Burgess Hoffman Plans To Resign

William S. Hoffman, Burgess of State College, has asked to be relieved of his duties effective Monday, November 6.

Mr. Hoffman, who has been serving as dean of Lycoming college in Williamsport, declared that his duties as dean have forced him to conduct Burgess' affairs only two days each month, the first and third Mondays when he meets with the council. He added that from the "many letters and phone calls I have received," it is necessary for the "Burgess to be more accessible to the borough."

It is expected that council will act on Mr. Hoffman's resignation request at its next meeting, November 6.

Mr. Hoffman is registrar and dean of admissions emeritus of the College.

In his letter to the council, he said, "I greatly appreciated the honor of being Burgess of the town." He also praised members of council for their handling of borough affairs.

Hillel Tryouts Sunday

Students who wish to try out for the next Hillel hour broadcast will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Hillel foundation. The script, "Days of Life," is a dramatization of the experiences of new immigrants to Israel. It will be broadcast Tuesday at 8 p.m. over WMAJ.
