

Predict Crowd Of 25,000 To Witness Lion-Temple Clash

Otherwise the offensive platoon will remain unchanged. Engle, however, intends to stick with the defensive shifts he announced earlier in the week, with but one exception. Don Barney will go at defensive guard, spelling Don Millhouse in a last-minute change, but tackle Con Brown, line-backer Paul Anders, and halfback Owen Dougherty will all start.

Dougherty, an inspirational leader as team captain, is the only man slated to see action on both platoons. Quarterback Vince O'Bara, halfback Tony Orsini, and fullback Jim Pollard will team with the hustling Irishman in the backfield. John Smidansky and Art Betts, two accomplished pass-catchers, will go at the flanks, while Ed Hoover and Chuck Godlasky will start at tackle. Veteran Ken Bunn will be over the ball at center.

Engle, Owls Old Pals

Penn State football coach Rip Engle is not a newcomer to the Temple Owls. Engle played against the Templars twice in his undergraduate days at Blue Ridge College and Western Maryland.

Engle was playing for Blue Ridge in 1927 when—according to the record books—the tiny Maryland school absorbed a 110-0 loss. Two years later, however, Engle blocked a punt to score a safety and intercepted a lateral for a touchdown as the Green Terrors went on to a 23-0 victory.

Defensively, the Lions will line up with ends Pat McPoland and Chuck Wilson, tackles Stew Scheetz, Brown, and Barney. Len Shephard, scheduled for some offensive duty at quarterback, and Anders will back up, with Bob Pollard, Bill Leonard, George Jacob, and Dougherty in the backfield.

Starts Second Year

In his second year at the helm, Kawal has come up with a team far superior to the 1949 version of the Temple Owl which won five and lost four.

Kawal has a spirited club, a team which has plenty of speed up the middle and around the ends, a team that charges fast and tackles hard. The Templars opened their season by dumping tiny Albright and then upset Syracuse, 7-6, only to be upset by Rutgers, 26-20, in the final seconds of play.

The Temple machine sputtered for three periods against harmless Wayne before the Owls got rolling in the final stanza to gain a 26-0 victory last week.

Bateman Offensive Star

Temple's first-line T-flinger is Gaven White, a converted half-back who is only a fair passer, but a good runner. Much of Temple's offensive punch is centered around fullback Ed Bateman, whose running mates are halfbacks John Wuzzardo and Gene Caterina, a fleet-footed left-handed passer.

On the line Kawal will probably start Al Kille and Bob McCracken, ends; Steve Timko and Capt. Andy Skladany, tackles; Ron Barbeck and John Edwards, guards; and Bob Daley, center.

McCracken, Skladany, Daley, White and Caterina will see double duty, playing defensively. End Sam McDowell, tackle Ted Zygmunt, guards Hugh Boyd and Dale Reese, line backer George Heil, and halfback John Florence round out the defensive contingent.

Grandelius Steps High

The late-arriving spectator to a Michigan State football practice hustled through the field gate just as a freshman griddler was leaving with a slightly rearranged nose. "What happened to you?" the sideler asked. "Aw," the youngster muttered. "Sonny Grandelius (the varsity's piston-legged left halfback) suddenly discovered I was in his way. He's got the highest knees I ever saw."

Soccermen Risk Victory String Against Colgate

Bill Jeffrey's soccermen will carry a 19-game unbeaten string into competition when they engage the Colgate Red Raiders this morning at 10 o'clock on the Beaver Field baseball diamond.

The Lions, co-champions of the nation in 1949, will be heavy favorites to add the visitors to their log of victims. Four of the wins have been recorded this year while the rest go back to the 1948 season.

The latest report on Joe Lane, prolific scoring center forward, indicates that he may not be able to play although there is a possibility that he will be in uniform.

Lane, who holds the all-time scoring record for one game on the strength of his seven-goal performance against Bucknell early this year, has been sidelined with an ankle injury. Either Ed Smith or Gary Nugent, both sophomores, may get the assignment if Lane does not play.

Captain Harry Little, 1949 All-American, will lead the team from his inside right position. Ron Coleman will play inside left, and Clarence Buss, second to Lane in scoring, will be at left wing.

Gus Bigott, an All-American in 1938, will perform at right wing.

National Interest Centers On Lion, Mich. St. Clash, Meet Rated As Toss-Up

Coach Chick Werner sends his cross country team out today in quest of its third straight dual meet victory against a power-laden Michigan State squad.

In a match rated as a toss-up, two of the top harrier contingents in the nation will meet for early supremacy of the sport. Coach Karl Schlademan's Spartans, paced by two of the nation's outstanding marathoners, Warren Dreutzler and Don Makielski, will be the first stiff opposition Werner's harriers have encountered this year.

Nittany Veterans

A veteran group of State thinclads consisting of Bill and Don Ashenfelter, Al Porto, Dudley Foster, Bob Freebairn, Bob Parsons, Jack St. Clair, and Bill Gordon will toe the starting line against the Spartans.

Dreutzler, probably the nation's outstanding collegiate long distance runner, and his running mate Don Makielski will be the feature runners of a revamped Spartan team.

Schlademan's charges, last year's NCAA titlists and winners of the triple crown of cross country in 1948 by capturing the NCAA, senior AUU, and IC4-A crowns, will still field a formidable array.

Mack, Dianetti Gone

Gone from the championship teams are Bill Mack, Jack Dianetti, Clark Atcheson, Bob Sewell, and Red Maloney. Replacing this crew of stars is a new group of harriers who have already brought the Spartan name into foreground of the thinclad sport with easy victories over Ohio State and Purdue.
