

Medlar OK's Orsini, J. Pollard For BC

Although banged up in last week's tussle with Temple, halfback Tony Orsini and fullback Jim Pollard will be ready for Saturday's battle with Boston College, trainer Chuck Medlar announced yesterday.

Orsini, who turned in the best performance registered by a Nittany back this season in gaining over 100 yards against the Owls, was sidelined in the fourth period with a shoulder injury, while Pollard was put out of play with a back injury.

Orsini Leads

Both Orsini and Pollard have been running through plays with the squad, but have not been allowed to participate in scrimmages. Orsini gained 105 yards in 21 attempts against the Owls to bring his total for the season to 265 yards and push him past Vince O'Bara in total offense. All his yardage being accounted for via the land route, Orsini is also the leading runner on the squad.

O'Bara is still the top passer on the team, having completed 17 passes in 61 attempts for 235 yards, while ends Bud Smidansky, who has caught 12 passes for 148 yards, and Art Betts, who has been on the tail end of 7 passes for 112 yards, are the leading receivers.

Pollard picked up 52 yards against Temple to move into the number two spot among the runners. Orsini maintained his status as the leading scorer by notching the Lions' only score. The scabbard now has three six-pointers on the ledger.

Soccermen Face Crucial Weekend

Bill Jeffrey and 17 of his soccermen leave tonight for the toughest weekend trip of the year.

The agenda includes a game on Saturday morning with North Carolina and a Monday meeting with undefeated West Chester State teachers.

Should both the Tarheels and West Chester fall victims to the Jeffrey men, the current undefeated string would be run to 22.

Joe Lane, center forward and leading scorer of the Penn State team, is still a question mark as far as availability is concerned. The speedy Baltimorean hurt his ankle in the Western Maryland game early in the season and it has not responded to treatment as expected.

Lane may be ready by Monday for the game in West Chester, but is almost certain to miss the North Carolina contest. He holds the Penn State scoring record for a single game by virtue of his seven goals in the season opener with Bucknell. Otherwise the squad will be at top strength.

Cross Country Team Preps For N.Y.U. Meet In New York

With three easy victories already under its belt Coach Chick Werner's cross country team is preparing to make N.Y.U. victim No. 4 in a match scheduled for Van Cortland Park in New York, Saturday afternoon.

The State harriers, with victories over Pittsburgh, Cornell, and Michigan State, will probably go into the meet with the Violets as slight favorites.

Coach Emil Von Elling, one of the top track mentors in the east, has a veteran team returning to action for him this year. Last year's Violet team turned in a mediocre 3-2 record, but with six lettermen returning, N.Y.U. harriers are expected to give the Nittany hill-and-dale men plenty of competition.
