

Reede, CA, Profs Play Circular

The circular quoting old Collegian articles to attack Arthur H. Reede, Democratic candidate for Congress, brought vigorous protests yesterday both from Reede and from several groups on campus.

Distributed by mail, the circular was published by a group calling itself the "Ex-Servicemen's Civic League of Blair County, Penna." It carried six reproductions of the Daily Collegian and old Penn State Collegian nameplates, and implied that Reede was "subversive," a "pacifist," a "radical," and a "Communist." It quoted articles as far back as 1935.

Charge Big Expenditures

Another election development was the announcement by the Democratic state committee that it would submit figures on Republican campaign expenditures in Centre, Blair, and Clearfield counties to a Senate investigating committee. The Democrats charged expenditures "at least five times more than normal" in the primaries.

Reede, professor of economics and commerce at the College, released a statement citing the pamphlet for what he called "libelous references to me." Other protests against the circular included a bi-partisan statement from 85 of Reede's colleagues at the College, one from the Penn State Christian association, and one from the Daily Collegian.

Reede's statement condemned James E. Van Zandt, his incumbent.

(Continued on page two)

Cwens Convention ...

— Collegian Photo by De Ancona

CWENS members registering for the three-day National Cwens convention. Registration was held in McElwain hall Lounge yesterday from 2 to 4:30 P.M.

Formal Dinner Ends Cwens Convention

A formal dinner at the Nittany Lion inn tonight will climax the three-day National Cwens convention being held at Penn State.

Approximately 100 women will attend the dinner. This includes 31 visiting delegates; local active and alumnae Cwens; Pearl O. Weston, dean of women; Mary Brewer, local Cwens advisor; and national officers.

Mrs. Edward Raymond, national vice-president, will speak in the absence of Mrs. Robert Foot, national president. The Witan, Cwens' ritual, will follow the dinner. Afterward, there will be light entertainment and refreshments in McElwain hall lounge.

Workshop discussions will take place this afternoon in first floor, McElwain hall lounge. The first session will be divided into two panels. Joan Kramer, Beta chapter, will present "Program of Selections" to alumnae Cwens. In the second panel, the actives will discuss "Chapter Records," led by Mary Dowling of the Kappa chapter.

In the second session, Dorothy Harrod, Theta chapter, will lead a discussion on "Chapter Program Services and Projects." Another panel will consist of "Chapter and National By-Laws," led by Shirley Estermyer of the Epsilon chapter. Mary Jo Roe, Eta chapter, will present a report on "The Tfd," which is Cwens' national publication.

Joyce Harkins, president of the local Cwens, led plans for the convention. It is being partially financed by receipts from the recent Dungaree Drag.

Campus Chest Officials May Extend Campaign

Campus chest officials said yesterday that the drive would probably be extended into next week.

Originally scheduled to end today, the campaign leaders now plan to hold the drive open to include the first three days of next week.

The reason given was so that the solicitors would have an opportunity to contact students they missed this week.

Axford Unavailable

The goal of the drive is $14,000. The last estimate available on the progress of the drive was the $4000 reported Thursday. Herbert Axford, chairman of the drive, was out of town yesterday and could not be reached for later figures on the progress of the drive.

The funds collected in the drive are to be distributed among ten agencies on and off campus. By Thursday, the average contribution was $1.67. Each student is being asked to donate $2.

Beta Sigma Rho was the first fraternity to report 100 per cent solicitation. Its 50 members gave $100 to the drive.

The $4000 figure of Thursday did not include the faculty funds or many of the fraternities. Pledge totals outnumbered cash contributions by about 3 to 1.

The organizations which will benefit from the drive are the Penn State Christian association, the World Student Service fund, the Women's Student Government association, Christmas fund, the Scholargram fund, the Heart drive, the Cancer Fund, the Tuberculosis fund, the March of Dimes, the Salvation Army, and the State College Christmas fund.

Final Lion Frosh, Soph Nominations Tomorrow

Final nominations and election of freshman and sophomore class officers to represent the Lion party will be held tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in 121 Sparks.

Clique membership cards were distributed this week. Ray Evert, chairman of the public relations committee, said that it will be necessary to show the cards in order to vote for the class officers. He said that if prospective members of the clique had attended one previous meeting, attendance at the meeting tomorrow night would fulfill the voting requirements.

Norman Duffy, a representative of the all-College elections committee will attend the meeting and will see that all voting regulations are carried out, Evert said.

Nominations

Officers to be elected for the freshman and sophomore classes will be president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer.

Preliminary nominations were held last Sunday night, and the freshman candidates nominated were Kenneth Parker, John White, Augustine Ormrod, James Dunlap, president; David Hyman, Edwin Forney, vice-president; and Guy Woodward, secretary-treasurer.

Nominated for sophomore class officers were Paul McWilliams, William Bair, Arthur Rosfeld, president; no nominations for vice president; and Josephine Waterhouse, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Lazaron, Rabbi Emeritus, To Speak At Chapel Tomorrow

Dr. Morris S. Lazaron, rabbi emeritus of the Baltimore Hebrew congregation, will speak at chapel in Schwab auditorium tomorrow at 11 a.m. The Chapel choir will provide special music entitled "The Lord Is My Light," by Gretchaninoff.

During the years of his recent retirement, Dr. Lazaron has been teaching and addressing conferences and groups throughout the East and South.

Rabbi Lazaron received his public and preparatory schooling in Savannah, Ga. and his B.A. and M.A. degrees at the University of Cincinnati. He then trained for the rabbinate at the Hebrew Union college in Cincinnati.

Active Leader

Dr. Lazaron, an active leader and a member of the executive board of the National Conference of Jews and Christians, received the Doctor of Letters degree in 1936 from Rutgers university for his "great contribution over the years to religious thought and to the spiritual wealth of the nation."

In behalf of a better understanding between Christians and Jews, Rabbi Lazaron made a tour of 35 states in the company of a Catholic priest and a Protestant minister. In recognition of this work, he was awarded the Gottheil medal, an award made annually for the greatest contribution to the welfare of American Jewry.

State Party Meeting

State party clique members will elect their candidates for sophomore and freshman class officers tomorrow at 7 p.m. in 119 Osmond.

200 Educators Attend PSEA Conclave Today

Two hundred Pennsylvania educators will attend the third annual state conference sponsored by the Pennsylvania State Education association commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards. It will open at the College today at 10 a.m. in the Plant Industries building.

Addresses for the two-day sessions will be delivered by Dr. Finis E. Engleman, State Commissioner of Education, Hartford, Conn.; Dr. Ralph McDonald, executive secretary of the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards, National Education association; and Dr. Francis B. Haas, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Dr. Thomas P. North, dean of Bloomsburg State Teachers college and chairman of the P.S.E.A. commission, will preside at the meetings.

Workshops, set up for the delegates to enable them to discuss a variety of problems, have been arranged by Dr. C. O. Williams, professor of education and acting dean of admissions at the College.

Workshops, set up for the delegates to enable them to discuss a variety of problems, have been arranged by Dr. C. O. Williams, professor of education and acting dean of admissions at the College.

Senior class president John Erickson, speaking before cabinet Thursday night, called the NSA student congress held in August merely "an intellectual discussion of political philosophies."

Erickson's charge resulted when NSA representative William Klisanin stated that in his opinion Penn State "missed something" by not sending its allotted seven delegates to the nine-day convention in Michigan.

Cabinet had previously passed a report on the convention presented by Klisanin.

Accusations

Erickson based his accusation on the report as discussed by Klisanin, which he said, did not list achievements of the type which would have warranted spending money to make the trip.

Erickson said that, for his part, he was glad cabinet had not appropriated money to send a delegation to the convention.

To Acquaint Students

All-College President Robert Davis estimated that approximately $350 would have been required for the seven delegates.

Davis also pointed out that cabinet agreed last spring to allocate money for projects on this campus which would acquaint students with the NSA instead of spending the money for the convention trip.

According to Klisanin's report, some of the topics discussed by the delegates were student rights and cooperation with foreign students through the World Student Service fund and other means. The convention also condemned the taking of loyalty oaths as a prerequisite to teaching, etc.

Amendment Proposed

Dean Gladfelter, chairman of the Board of Publications, proposed an amendment to the All-College constitution which would give the editor of the Penn State Farmer membership on the Board.

Committee members named by Davis Thursday night are: campus radio station committee, Milton Bernstein and David Mutchler; inter-collegiate colloquy on religious ideals and political affairs committee, John Hartley and W. David Lewis; Religion-in-Life Week committee, All-College secretary-treasurer Emerson Jones.

Further appointees to the College enrollment committee are Hardy Williams, Ella Louise Williams, George Avery, William Yerkes, Raymond Miller, and Herbert Blough.

Wesley Foundation Sends Delegates

Fourteen Penn State students will represent the local Wesley foundation, today and tomorrow at the Cowan conference of the Eastern States Methodist student movement, being held at the Bucknell university Christian association cabin, near Lewisburg.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, members of the local Wesley foundation will leave for Lewisburg where they will join the conference for the evening worship service.

La Vie Pictures

No pictures for the 1951 La Vie will be taken on Tuesday. Bill Zakor, editor of the publication announced yesterday.

Late AP News Courtesy WMAJ

Red Attacks Stall UN Drive

KOREA—Heavy counter attacks by Communist forces in North Korea have stalled the advance of the United Nations Forces on the north central front and threw them back to the north western front. The Reds trapped parts of two regiments of the American First Cavalry division and isolated a Marine battalion far to the south of Mahon.

Truman To Speak

ST. LOUIS—President Truman will deliver a campaign speech here at 10 o'clock tonight. Six hundred policemen have been assigned to take special precautions to guard the President's life after the attempted assassination this week.

Erickson Opposes Appropriations For Delegates To NSA Congress

Senior class president John Erickson, speaking before cabinet Thursday night, called the NSA student congress held in August merely "an intellectual discussion of political philosophies."

Erickson's charge resulted when NSA representative William Klisanin stated that in his opinion Penn State "missed something" by not sending its allotted seven delegates to the nine-day convention in Michigan.

Cabinet had previously passed a report on the convention presented by Klisanin.

Accusations

Erickson based his accusation on the report as discussed by Klisanin, which he said, did not list achievements of the type which would have warranted spending money to make the trip.

Erickson said that, for his part, he was glad cabinet had not appropriated money to send a delegation to the convention.

To Acquaint Students

All-College President Robert Davis estimated that approximately $350 would have been required for the seven delegates.

Davis also pointed out that cabinet agreed last spring to allocate money for projects on this campus which would acquaint students with the NSA instead of spending the money for the convention trip.

According to Klisanin's report, some of the topics discussed by the delegates were student rights and cooperation with foreign students through the World Student Service fund and other means. The convention also condemned the taking of loyalty oaths as a prerequisite to teaching, etc.

Amendment Proposed

Dean Gladfelter, chairman of the Board of Publications, proposed an amendment to the All-College constitution which would give the editor of the Penn State Farmer membership on the Board.

Committee members named by Davis Thursday night are: campus radio station committee, Milton Bernstein and David Mutchler; inter-collegiate colloquy on religious ideals and political affairs committee, John Hartley and W. David Lewis; Religion-in-Life Week committee, All-College secretary-treasurer Emerson Jones.

Further appointees to the College enrollment committee are Hardy Williams, Ella Louise Williams, George Avery, William Yerkes, Raymond Miller, and Herbert Blough.

Wesley Foundation Sends Delegates

Fourteen Penn State students will represent the local Wesley foundation, today and tomorrow at the Cowan conference of the Eastern States Methodist student movement, being held at the Bucknell university Christian association cabin, near Lewisburg.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, members of the local Wesley foundation will leave for Lewisburg where they will join the conference for the evening worship service.