Red-Hot Race Ends For Congress Seat

Pennsylvanians will go to the polls and vote today in contests that may well be an indication of national political sentiment in 1952.

A red-hot fight is in evidence in the local 22nd congressional district fight between Arthur H. Reede, Democrat, and James Van Zandt, Republican.

Thirty-three seats in the House of Representatives and one in the Senate, as well as the governorship and five other state posts will be filled by the voters today.

The contest between Reede and Van Zandt has been a knock-down-drag-out fight from the beginning.

Winds Up Campaign

Reede wound up his campaign with a statement Monday denying charges leveled against him by the Republicans. He charged that Hugh Manchester, who has been campaigning against Reede, "misrepresented the truth about me."

The DuBois Courier Express on Friday carried an advertisement telling of a broadcast that night featuring Hugh Manchester, "president of student council at Penn State college."

The same identification appeared in a news story in that paper, and it was stated that Manchester, due to his position, was in a good spot to know about the issues of the election.

Davis Amused

Robert Davis, All-College president, said that the statement "amuses me," and he didn't think "he had the nerve to pull something like that. He has nothing whatsoever to do with student government."

Edward Shanken, president of the Liberal Arts student council, said that while Manchester is a student in that school, he was at "no time a member of the council, and certainly not the president."

A Liberal Arts school official said that, while Manchester had a one average, the requisite for the student government associations on the campus, he was on probation because of his failure in summer school. Since he is in the division of Intermediate Registration, he is not permitted to take part in student government activities, he explained.

Solo Soprano To Present First Concert

Dorothy Sarnoff, soprano, will present the first concert of the 1950-51 Community Concert series tomorrow night at 8:30 in Schwab auditorium.

Miss Sarnoff, a native of New York City, attended Berkeley institute in Brooklyn and Cornell university, where she majored in dramatics and appeared in numerous plays and musicals ranging from Chekhov to Gilbert and Sullivan. Following her graduation she studied in Europe, when war threatened she returned to this country to continue study in New York.

Contrary to her teachers' wishes, she began her career with an eight-week engagement in an all-girl ensemble at Radio City music hall.

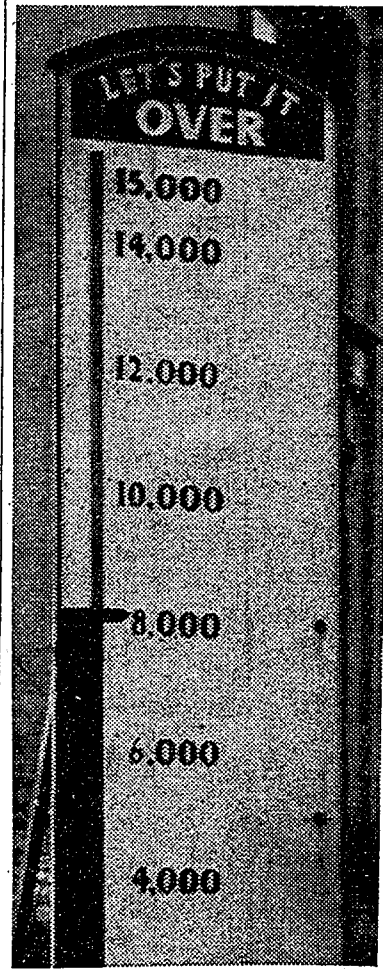

The start of her opera career soon followed when she signed a contract as leading soprano with the newly formed Philadelphia Opera company. Her performance in "Die Fledermaus" led to the leading feminine role in the New York Opera company's version of the Johann Strauss operetta, "Rosalinda."

Her most recent success was scored as the soprano lead in the world premiere of the operetta, "Magdalena," in Los Angeles, a performance which she has repeated in San Francisco and New York.

Miss Sarnoff has appeared with the symphony orchestra of Kansas City, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Baltimore, Connecticut, Dayton, and the National Broadcasting company.

Drive Continued For Second Week

Going Up . . .

Herbert Axford, chairman of the Campus chest committee, announced yesterday that the chest drive would be extended until Friday.

Axford said that the drive was being held over so the solicitors would have more time to contact the students they have missed thus far. The extension is particularly in favor of fraternity men, he explained, because very few of the fraternities have reported.

$8,000 was turned into chest headquarters by late yesterday, Axford said. He added that the independent men and women were running evenly in contributions.

Pledges Outnumber Cash

The goal of the chest is $14,000. About one-fourth of the contributions thus far have been in cash, and the rest in pledges.

Faculty contributions total about $1200 with less than one-half of the group reporting. Faculty members are not included in the percentage plan set up for students, and they are being asked to contribute to only four of the ten agencies included in the drive.

They are being asked to donate to the PSCA, WSGA, WSSF and the scholargram fund. Also they may choose the amount of money they wish to give to each group.

To Present Report

The chest committee met in the Old Main lounge last night to discuss the drive and compile a report to be submitted to All-College cabinet at the conclusion of the drive.

The agencies included in the drive, besides those already mentioned, are the Heart drive, the Cancer fund, the March of Dimes, the Tuberculosis fund, the State College Christmas fund, and the Salvation Army.

54 Register For Draft

Fifty-four students have registered for Selective Service at the office of the dean of men.

For the convenience of students, they may register with Mrs. A. W. Case in the Office of the Dean of Men rather than go to the Local Board in Bellefonte or their home community.

Names of students registered are sent to the Local Board of their home communities. Men who become 18 are required to register.

West Dining Hall To Open After Xmas

The West dormitories dining hall will be opened following Christmas recess, S. K. Hostetter, assistant to the President in charge of business and finance, said yesterday. This is the third time a deadline has been set for opening the hall.

The original date for putting the dining hall in operation was Sept. 15. Later, in October, George W. Ebert, director of the physical plant, said that the hall would probably be ready for use on Nov. 1. Yesterday, it was announced that construction work will be completed in late November and the hall will be ready for use after Christmas vacation.

Fixtures Installed

The building has to be cleaned up following the construction, and furniture and fixtures will then be installed. Some of the equipment, temporarily in use in MacAllister hall, must be moved to the new dining hall.

Most of this needed work will be started after the Thanksgiving holiday, Mildred A. Baker, director of food service said, but some will get underway as early as next week. Another job to be completed, she explained, is the organizing and orienting of the staff that will operate the new unit. Completion of these tasks will enable the new dining hall to be operating on a permanent and efficient basis when the students return in January, Miss Baker said.

Until the dining hall is opened, the men in the West dormitory area will continue to eat in MacAllister hall.

Union Leader To Give Talk

An international representative of the United Mine Workers is scheduled to speak at a public meeting of the student chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management at 7:30 tomorrow night in 121 Sparks.

Lester Thomas will speak on "What transpires, policies and procedures followed within the union leading to formal wage negotiations."

Thomas entered the coal mines in the anthracite region at the age of 15. He was elected a member of the Mine committee of local union No. 20, United Mine Workers of America. In 1930 he was appointed district representative and was elected secretary-treasurer of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor four years later. He held the position until 1938.

Thomas was secretary-treasurer of the Pennsylvania Industrial union council, from 1938 until the time he was appointed international representative of the UMW in 1942. He holds this position now.

Oliver To Appear On TV

Dr. Robert T. Oliver, head of the Speech department at the College, will appear on a New York television program, "Court of Current Issues," at 8 o'clock tonight.

"Should the Government of the Republic of Korea Be Extended over All of Korea?" is the subject of the program.

Honorary Initiates Two

Alpha Epsilon Delta, pre-medical honorary, initiated Eugene Bouch and Lawrence Marcella Oct. 15.

State Party Chooses Wiggins And Maurey

By ROSEMARY DELAHANTY

United inter-clique factions dominated the election of State party candidates for sophomore and freshman class officers Sunday night in one of the closest voting sprees in party history.

Glenn Wiggins, forestry major from Yeadon, edged out his only opponent, Frank Coladonato, by six votes to take the party's nomination for sophomore class president.

Joseph Simone, of Philadelphia, landed the vice-presidential nomination by a margin of three votes over his nearest competitor, Edward Brenner. State party candidate for sophomore secretary-treasurer is Nancy Showers, of Williamsport, who won by a clear majority.

Unanimously Named

Gerald Maurey was unanimously named freshman presidential candidate after his two opponents, Kenneth White and Robert Wylie, withdrew their names from the list of nominees.

Maurey is a brother of varsity wrestler Donald Maurey and former Eastern intercollegiate wrestling champion James Maurey. His home is in Clearfield.

Bernard Kelley of Pittsburgh, won the freshman vice-presidential post, and Neida Fralich of Limestone, N.Y., was nominated secretary-treasurer.

Platform Approval

The State party platform will be released as soon as it receives the approval of the elections committee, probably within the next 24 hours.

Murray Goldman, State party campaign chairman, said that formal campaigning would begin tomorrow with candidates scheduled to speak at fraternity houses and dormitory living units.

Publicity chairman Carl Lichowitz stated that a campaign stunt would be run off at the West Virginia football game Saturday, but he declined to give any more information.

Date Not Set

As yet, the date has not been set for the State party election parade, which will take place sometime before actual voting begins Nov. 16.

Other campaign procedures named thusfar will include use of posters and contacting of students through the newly-organized State party ward system.

Under this system, every living unit and town area is divided into a ward, with a ward leader to serve as middle-man between candidates and students.

Ormrod, Bair Head Slate Of Lion Party

By BOB SCHOOLEY

Augustine Ormrod was elected freshman class presidential nominee, and William Bair was chosen sophomore class presidential candidate by the Lion party Sunday night.

The all-College election for freshman and sophomore class officers will be held Nov. 16.

Other candidates elected for class officers of the freshman class are John White, vice-president, and Guyla Woodward, secretary-treasurer. Sophomore class officer candidates elected are Arthur Rosfeld, vice-president, and Josephine Waterhouse, secretary-treasurer.

Large Majorities

All of the candidates were elected by large majorities of the approximately 400 members of the party who voted.

Secretary-treasurers of both classes were unopposed in the voting.

Ormrod, in accepting the freshman presidential nomination, said he would "represent the freshman class and the Lion party to the best of my ability." Bair, sophomore class presidential nominee, said he will "work for the good of student government and the Lion party."

Huber Stevens, Lion party clique chairman, asked clique members to make "honest and wise choices" prior to the voting. He explained the voting procedure to the members of the party. John Harris, Lion party elections committee chairman, was in charge of the voting.

Nominations Declined

Both freshman and sophomore class vice-presidential candidates, John White and Arthur Rosfeld, had previously declined nominations as freshman and sophomore class presidential nominees, respectively.

Defeated candidates for freshman class offices were Kenneth Parker and James Dunlap, president; David Hyman and Edwin Forney, vice-president. In the sophomore class, defeated nominees were William Bair, president, and Thomas Judge, vice-president.
