Sarnoff Concert

Tonight in Carnegie hall, Miss Dorothy Sarnoff will give the first in a series of five concerts sponsored here by the Community Concert association, which was formed last spring to replace the defunct Artist Course series. Unfortunately, we cannot urge interested students to rush out and purchase tickets, inasmuch as the series is operated on a membership subscription basis, and the membership quota has been filled.

HOWEVER, we would like to point up the fact that, in future years, students interested in the programs will have to sign up quickly if they don't want to be left out in the cold. An overwhelming number of the memberships were sold to faculty members and townspeople this year—a fact that does not speak well for the cultural interest among the student body.

So, as the Community Concert series opens, we have two hopes:

That its patrons will find it worthwhile and will continue to support it as one of the major cultural fronts at Penn State.

And that in future years the student body will take a more active interest in the major source of musical enjoyment on campus.

Hard To Lose

Losing is not a thing that comes easy to an athletic team, but it is especially hard for a team that does not lose often.

IN SUFFERING the first defeat since 1948, the Penn State soccer team has been introduced to a new side of the sport. It is not an aspect of soccer that Coach Bill Jeffrey will allow them to become very familiar with. Losing is not included in his philosophy of the sport.

Perhaps it will establish in the players a new incentive, since knowing defeat, they will be anxious to win more than ever.

One thing is certain, anyone who comes out to see the Lions play Syracuse on Saturday will see the beginning of a new string. It may be a long one or it may be short, but we can be sure that it will be a winning one.

— Bud Fenton

AT THE MOVIES

CATHAUM: Sleeping City
STATE: Dark City.
NITTANY: Captive Girl.
STARLITE DRIVE-IN: Tarzan and the Slave Girl.

The word "hazing" has been used by a good many people on campus recently with varying connotations. Just so everyone will know what he's talking about, we'd like to quote Webster:

Hazing—"A harassment by abusive or ridiculous treatment."

To haze—"To harass or annoy by playing abusive or ridiculous tricks upon."

Explanation

TO THE EDITOR: In your article in the Collegian of Saturday, Nov. 4 about the Cwens there was no explanation of what the phrase means. None of the fellows I asked knew what it meant. Please do not assume that we are already well educated. Yours is an excellent paper. Keep up the good work.

— W. G. S.

Ed. note—Cwens is a national sophomore woman's honorary society. The actual meaning of the term is secret and known only to its members, as in many of the Greek letter societies on campus.

Recourse To Law

TO THE EDITOR: From last Friday's issue it appears that the recently printed circulars in several ways violated copyrights of your paper, particularly in printing a facsimile of the Collegian name plate without any authorized permission whatever. Under the circumstances it is not only a right, but a duty of the paper to take this matter to court to at least prevent any repetitions of this kind, particularly since this is only one of the numerous dirty political tactics used by a certain political candidate. Please state your policy on that matter.

— Name withheld

Ed. Note—From what we have been able to learn, Collegian would have no legal recourse against such action. Even if we did, the newspaper would not be in a position to fight a costly court suit.

Read It And Wince

TO THE EDITOR: One quick surmise of the Daily Collegian today and I winced quite visibly. Typical Saturday issue I said to myself, still wincing.

This occurred in the dining hall and I was asked if I found myself in disagreement with the policies of the paper again. No, said I, I think the Collegian should publish a newspaper. My only question was when would they do it.

ROTC Schedules Parade Today

Army ROTC units on campus will hold a ceremonial regimental parade in front of Old Main at 4:10 p.m. today.

In the parade, last for the fall semester, the infantry, engineers, and signal corps battalions will pass in review for Brigadier General Arthur R. Walk, their commandant.

Before the review the ROTC band will sound a salute to the general. That will be followed by retreat ceremonies and the playing of the national anthem.

About 1,200 men will participate in the review. Parades held during the semester are part of the training given the cadets.

Newman Club Elects

Geraldine Lalli was elected corresponding secretary, and William O'Malley, second vice-president at a recent meeting of the College Newman club.

The membership committee has established a goal of 1,000 Newmans to be accepted into membership before the end of the year. Present enrollment is 400.

SAE Representatives To Attend Convention

Two representatives from the Penn State chapter of Sigma Alpha Eta, national speech and hearing honorary, will serve on the national council of their second annual convention to be held today at Columbus, Ohio.

Ernest Tryer and Andrew Long will serve as members-at-large on the council, while John Hutchinson will be a delegate to the convention.

In addition, an all-senior staff from the Speech department will attend the convention, which is being held in conjunction with the American Speech and Hearing convention to meet tomorrow through Saturday.

Hort Honorary

Pi Alpha Xi, national horticulture fraternity, initiated ten pledges last night. A banquet followed the initiation at the Eutaw house.

Those initiated were: Dr. John R. Bracken, professor of landscape horticulture; Edwin S. Price, floriculture extension; Elmer Cook, senior, ornamental horticulture; Thomas Gabel, senior, landscape; Harold Kreiser, junior, landscape.

New Wing Additions To ME Lab Started

Construction was started Monday on two new wings for the Mechanical Engineering laboratory at the corner of Burrowes road and West College avenue.

The work is being done by the Henry E. Baton construction company of Philadelphia, which recently completed construction of the West dorms.

This latest addition in the College expansion program will be used principally as laboratory and classroom space, with some provisions for office room.

No estimate was made concerning time required to complete construction.

Roy To Speak Tonight

Rustum Roy, India, will be guest speaker of the PSCA sophomore round table at 7:30 tonight in 304 Old Main. The topic of his speech is "India's Relation to the United States."

Officers elected at the last meeting were Allen Marshall, president; Rachael Witherow, vice president; Ann Fleming, treasurer; and Audrey Dodds, secretary.
