

Class Presidential Candidates:

Lion Party

Soph Pres.

William Bair

Frosh Pres.

Gus Ormrod

Bill Bair, Lion Choice, Likes Politics

Hailing from Emporium, Bill spent his frosh year at the Edinboro center. He has a 1.8 all-College average and was salutatorian of his high school class of 84 members.

First Fling

The blond, blue-eyed candidate is taking his first fling at politics. As he explains it, he thought he needed an extra curricular activity so he selected politics because it offered him not only a chance to meet people but a way of serving the student body. He believes in "good student government with every group represented."

In high school, Bill was on the basketball team for two years, in the band as a drummer for six years, and a photographer for his high school yearbook. He is a lacrosse manager at the College. He likes to hunt and fish and likes to camp out.

50-50 Chance

"People are interesting" says the soph presidential candidate. He gives this as one of the reasons he entered politics. He likes campaigning despite the fact that it takes up a lot of his time. Bill believes that he has a 50-50 chance of winning the election.

All in all, Bill Bair impresses one as an earnest and well meaning candidate with some definite ideas toward better student government.

Student Offices Held By Ormrod, Frosh Candidate

Augustine "Gus" Ormrod, the Lion party's candidate for freshman class president, is a likeable, and personable physical education major.

Gus spent two years prepping for college at the Mercersburg academy. There, he was president of the senior class, a member of the glee club, an officer in the debating society, a member of the student athletic board, and most important to him, captain of the cross country and track teams during his senior year.

At Penn State, the frosh presidential candidate is a member of the freshman cross country team. He is the unofficial holder of the national record for the prep school mile run.

Has 'Fair Chance'

The 21-year-old freshman likes to swim and spent last summer as a lifeguard in his home town, Atlantic City, N.J. He also likes rowing, although he admits he is not too good at it.

If elected, Gus hopes to "make the freshmen the outstanding feature of the new era." He believes that he has a fair chance of winning. The frosh candidate likes campaigning and believes that he can put across some good ideas. He thinks that by campaigning he can discover the needs of the freshman class and "will try to fulfill these needs if elected."

Gus likes Penn State and feels that the bigness of the College does not hinder a spirit of friendliness.

State Party

Soph Pres.

Glenn Wiggins

Frosh Pres.

Gerald Maurey

State Choice, Wiggins, Leads Active Life

Glenn Wiggins, State candidate for president of the sophomore class, has led an active life since his high school days in Yeadon.

His high school activities range from membership in the Honor society and presidency of the student council, to capturing lead roles in both his junior and senior class plays.

Choir President

Glenn was also president of the high school choir, business manager of the yearbook, and an Eagle Scout.

At the Penn State center in Mount Alto the soph candidate was a columnist for the Seedling, the student paper, and a member of the Glee club. During his freshman year he compiled a 2.26 average and was awarded a NROTC scholarship.

Since coming to the college, Glenn has become a member of the sophomore unification committee and is an Alpha Gamma Rho pledge. He is a forestry major in the School of Agriculture.

Needs Change

The presidential nominee says he joined the State party because he feels the College needs a change in politics. He feels politics become stagnant when one party is in power for too long a time.

Local Foundations To Hear Talks

Two men formerly connected with Penn-State-in-China will be speakers at two of the local student foundations tomorrow night.

C. Weidman (Daddy) Groff, who was graduated from the College in 1906, will show a Kodachrome travelogue, "40 Years as a Plant Breeder in China and America" to members of the Westminster foundation. The former agriculture missionary will speak in the foundation's Fellowship hall at 6:20 p.m.

Richard Pride, former professor at Penn-State-in-China, will speak to members of Wesley foundation on "You and World Missions" after their supper meeting at 5:15 p.m.

The United Student fellowship will meet at 6:30 p.m. to begin a series of discussions on world religions. Tomorrow night they will discuss Judaism.

The Lutheran Student Association is going to have a "surprise party" meeting at 6:30 p.m.

The Roger Williams fellowship and the Young Friends will meet for a joint supper meeting at the Friends' Meeting house at 5:15 p.m. Rev. Robert Eads of the Baptist church will speak on the origins of the Scriptures and their bearing upon intellectual college lives.

There will be an Episcopal student supper at 5:30 and the Can-

Maurey Shows Active Career In High School

The soft-spoken manner of Gerald Maurey, State party freshman presidential candidate, belies his active career in high school and in his short time at college.

While in high school Gerry won four consecutive state PIAA wrestling titles and captured a National Junior Amateur Athletic Union championship. He has wrestled in every weight class from 112 to 145.

Two of Gerry's brothers have made wrestling history at the College. Jim Maurey was last year's 145-pound Eastern Intercollegiate wrestling champion and is now coaching wrestling at State College high school. Don Maurey is an outstanding member of this year's squad.

Having held a class office in Clearfield high school every year except his last one, Gerry continued his political activities upon arriving at the College. He was elected Watts dorm vice-president and is a member of the Liberal Arts student council.

In addition to his favorite sport of wrestling, Gerry won letters in football and track. He also displayed musical ability, playing in the high school band and orchestra for three years.

In his senior year, he was president of the Hi-Y club, Varsity club, Key club and Chess club. He was graduated in the upper tenth of a class of 243, and was on the commencement committee.

Gerry is now a candidate for the freshman wrestling squad and plays in the Air ROTC band.

terbury club will meet at 6:30 tomorrow night.

The student fellowship of the Evangelical United Brethren church will meet at 6:15.

'Age Crisis' Talk To Be Presented By College Prof

William B. Edgerton, assistant professor of Russian at the College, will speak on "The Crisis of the Age" in Chapel tomorrow morning at 11 a.m.

Prof. Edgerton is a member of the leader's group in the colloquy on "Religious Ideals and Political Affairs" sponsored by the PSCA this weekend and was selected by the colloquy committee to present the Chapel sermon.

Born In N. Carolina

A native of North Carolina, Prof. Edgerton received his BA degree from Guilford college, North Carolina, and his masters degree from Haverford college near Philadelphia. He is now a candidate for the Ph.D. degree in Russian literature at Columbia university.

Last week Prof. Edgerton returned from a six weeks' trip abroad, during which time he spent five weeks in Yugoslavia and one week in Greece. He traveled as a member of a special observation team sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee which was given permission to interview Marshall Tito and other leaders of Yugoslavia as well as those of Greece.

From 1944 to 1946 Prof. Edgerton represented the AFSC in its work with displaced persons in Egypt, Germany and Poland. Recently he co-authored a book, "The United States and the Soviet Union" after much research and travel.

Committee To Investigate Details Of Lawn Display

Presidents of IFC, Panhel, AIM and Leonides were named to a committee appointed at cabinet meeting Thursday night to investigate building and cost details of a proposed Christmas lawn display for the front campus.

AIM President Richard Bard suggested that cabinet assume responsibility for the project, which was previously sponsored by the AIM. According to the plan put forth by Bard, art classes would handle the actual design and construction of the display under the supervision of IFC, Panhel, AIM and Leonides. Cabinet would pay the bills.

Will Report

Committee members Harold Leinbach, Nancy George, Richard Bard, and Joan Wentzel will report to all-College secretary-treasurer Emerson Jones on the amount necessary to complete the project.

All-College president Robert Davis said he hoped the display could be built this year and used annually.

Cabinet approved elections committee chairman Edwin Barnitz's request that use of voting prizes be outlawed in all-College elections.

Approval was also given to amendments by Emerson Jones to the All-College constitution. These amendments, now a part of the constitution, concern interclass finance.

Beginning this week, schedules of all meetings in which cabinet members participate will be available in the student government room for those who care to use them.

Additional members of the College enrollment committee appointed Thursday night are William Hirsch, Nancy Saylor, David Fix, Perry Possoco, Charles Ammon, and Edward Shanken.

David Bronstein, Ray Evert, John Lee, and Joseph Lenchner were appointed to the men's activities card committee.
