State Party Parade Plans Restricted For Car Use

By BOB SCHOOLEY

Edwin Barnitz, chairman of the all-College elections committee, said yesterday that the State party would not be able to hold their campus parade tomorrow night as originally scheduled because of "the use of automobiles in a campaign parade Saturday at the football game."

Barnitz said the parade held between halves of the Penn

State-West Virginia game was "recognized as the State party's parade on campus." The State party used three cars to help promote their candidates Saturday. According to the elections code, Barnitz said, cars are not allowed to be used for campaigning on campus except for one parade. The State party was to hold their campus and town parade tomorrow night.

Misinterpretation

Harry Cover, clique chairman of the State party said the use of automobiles in Saturday's parade was a "misinterpretation of the elections code." He said the State party was under the false impression that the use of cars at Beaver field would not be a violation of the elections code.

Cover said the State party would hold a parade tomorrow night but that it would not be on campus. He said that he believed that the parade Saturday afternoon was as effective as a campus parade would be Wednesday night. The parade will tour the fraternity and town sections. He added that the parade would follow the elections code restrictions.

The Lion party will hold their parade tonight starting at 7:30 ternity houses. During the visits, in front of Rec hall. Huber Stevens, Lion party clique chairman, said that the parade will cover all dorm areas and the town and fraternity sections. He said the candidates would ride in convertibles and there will be a brass band accompanying the parade.

Campaigning

Campaigning is continuing by both parties' candidates. The freshman candidates are covering all of the West dorm area and the sophomore class officer candidates are campaigning in the dormitory areas and at the frathe candidates are explaining the party platforms and are answering questions asked them by the voters.

The State and Lion parties have continued distribution of posters and campaign tags. Flashcards with "Vote Lion", and "Vote State" appeared at the football game Saturday.

Robert Davis, all-College president, said that he has noted an increase in spirit in the freshman and sophomore classes this year. He believes that there will be an increase in the voting percentage this spring because of the increased recognition these two classes have of the importance for their vote.

CA To Dramatize Confab Subjects; To Hold Service

An all-CA meeting will be held by the Penn State Christian Association in 304 Old Main at 7:30 tonight. The main theme of the meeting will be a skit dramatizing the issues to be discussed at the National Assembly which will meet at Miami University, Ohio, Dec. 27 to Jan. 2.

Hugh Chapman of the romance language department will talk on his experiences at the National Assembly of 1941-42. The Assembly is a national meeting of YMCA and YWCA groups from 706 American universities which meets every four years.

After the discussion, Harold Campbell, president of the PSCA, will conduct a worship service.

Timetables Available About Dec. 2

Timetables for the spring semester will be available about Dec. 2, Ray V. Watkins, scheduling officer, said yesterday. Watkins said that the schedules were at the printers now, and completion date was tentatively set by the printer as two weeks after receipt of the schedules.

The release date of the schedules assumed added importance after the announcement that classes would be suspended Dec. 4 and 5 so that the first phase registration could be completed by all students on campus this semester.

Classes Called

Wilmer E. Kenworthy, assistant to the president in charge of student affairs, said that the Council of Administration felt that by calling off classes for the two days, an end would be put to the "spare moment" counseling and registration that went on under the old system.

Dr. C. O. Williams, acting registrar, pointed out that the new system would put an end to the long, drawn out first phase registration process which is "so wearisome to both students and faculty members."

According to the new plan, there will be no chance for students to complete first phase registration after Dec. 5. Regular registration for new students, and completion of final registration for all students now on campus, is scheduled for Feb. 1, 2 and 3.

If students do not register on Dec. 4 and 5, they must go through the board of control in the Armory. Kenworthy pointed out that if the student completes first phase registration this semester, it will take him approximately 15 minutes to finish registration in February. A trip through the board of control can be an all day affair in certain cases, he said.

Students will register according to an alphabetized list which has been released. It is similar to the list used in final registration. Hour intervals are scheduled for each alphabetical group.

Chest Totals Expected Soon

Campus chest chairman Herbert Axford said yesterday that final figures on the campus chest drive will not be available until late this week or early next week.

Axford said that additional money had been received in chest headquarters since the last figure of $9000 had been announced last Thursday. However, he said, it is doubtful if the chest reached its goal of $14,000.

Meanwhile, Luther Harshbarger, executive secretary of the

Archduke Otto To Speak

Archduke Otto of Austria-Hungary will present the second regularly-scheduled Community forum lecture tonight in Schwab auditorium at 8 o'clock.

The Archduke's topic will be "World Danger Zones." Tickets for the talk may still be purchased at Student Union today at $1 each. Season tickets will be honored at the door.

Otto was born in Austria-Hungary in 1912, the son of Charles, Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary. He was educated in Europe, and was graduated from the University of Louvain at the age of 21 as a Doctor of Political Science.

He has since been active in inner politics in Austria and Hungary, and has been an outspoken foe of totalitarianism in all forms. Recently he has concentrated his attacks against communism and, as a result, has been regularly attacked by the Russian press.

Maintaining residences in Paris and Washington, D.C., the noted world traveler has given lectures before many university audiences, forums, and discussion groups throughout the country. Archduke Otto is preceded in his forum appearance by Ogden Nash, comic poet, and Col. Ben C. Limb, United Nations envoy from the Korean republic. Colonel Limb appeared as an added feature to the regular forum schedule.

The next regular Community forum talk will be in January, and will feature Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture association.

versities representing north-eastern United States.

Both the affirmative and negative teams from the College won three decisions and lost one. Harry Kondourajian and David Lewis, affirmative team, defeated the University of Vermont, N.Y.U. Heights, and Champlain college, but lost to Rhode Island. Clair George and Marlin Brenner, negative team, defeated Clark college, Georgetown university, St. Johns university, and lost to Williams college.

This was the first tournament the team competed in this year, although they defeated Army in a dual meet and debated a combined British university team. Prof. J. F. O'Brien, debate coach, accompanied the team.

Two Head 'Life' Week

Jo Hutchon and Emerson Jones were elected co-chairmen of the General committee for the 1951 Religion-in-Life-Week at a meeting of the committee last Thursday.

Two committees were set up, a theme adopted and other officers were named at the meeting held in the Hugh Beaver room in 304 Old Main. The week will officially open with the chapel service on Feb. 18, 1951 and will close Feb. 22.

Theme for the week will be "Mature Persons in World Crisis." It was suggested by the faculty committee and adopted by the general committee. The committees set up at the meeting were the scheduling committee and the speaker committee.

Scheduling Committee

Windcrest To Go

Windcrest, the College's unique borough-within-a-borough, will probably cease to exist by June, 1951.

Present plans call for complete dismantling of the self-governing trailer colony by that time, according to R. E. Clark, director of housing.

The area was set up after the late war in order to help keep Prexy Ralph Dorn Hetzel's promise to provide housing for returning veterans and their families. The last of those students to whom Prexy Hetzel made this promise will be graduated in June.

Founded in 1945

Windcrest was so named by the residents of the community soon after its founding in the autumn of 1945. The inhabitants established a full-fledged borough government with a chief burgess and a seven-man council as the chief governing body.

There were 99 trailers in the first group. Later the colony grew to include more than 250, including a few which were privately-owned. A public playground was set up and a nursery was operated, during the winter months. Trailers were heated by Windcrest municipal officers named a fire chief and deputy policemen, and signs were erected by borough members to warn motorists to drive carefully through the area.

Over 50 trailers were removed from the area last year. The College has been losing money on trailer rental since the inception of Windcrest, according to Clark. Those removed would have cost more for repairs than their rental would bring in this year, Clark said.

Trailers were acquired from the federal government under an

Today . . .

The Nittany Lion Roars

FOR Charles A. "Rip" Engle and his hardy band of Nittany gridders. Leo shakes his shaggy mane in approval and emits a thunderous growl of praise for their 27-0 conquest over the Mountaineers of West Virginia. The sharp tackling, crisp blocking, and all-around "heads-up" play gave not only the Lion, but the whole Nittany vale something to roar about.

The Lion always roars proudly for his grid proteges, but a special one today for "Rip" and the boys.
