West Dorm Men Vote For AIM Representatives

Balloting for three representatives-at-large from the West dorm area to the board of governors of the Association of Independent Men was completed at 11 o'clock last night. Results were not tabulated in time to appear in today's issue.

Eighteen nominees waged a hotly contested campaign for the offices, but, until 5:30 yesterday afternoon, voting was light, according to Thomas Durek, West dorm council president.

Placards, banners, and qualification sheets were splashed over the entire West dorm area and were posted in McAllister dining hall. Propaganda sheets were slipped under many of the room doors over the weekend.

Several candidates combined to campaign together and other nominees placed classified ads in the Daily Collegian.

Each men's dorm area is allowed one representative-at-large for every 500 residents. The AIM constitution permits each dorm council to choose its own method for electing the representatives.

West dorm council called for petitions carrying 50 names to be submitted last Friday. Any undergraduate in the area was eligible to vote for three candidates yesterday.

Nittany dorm council last week elected Michael Hanek, a council member, to represent that area on the AIM board. Pollock dorm council will select an area representative at its next meeting.

Zonta Establishes Scholarship Fund

A $1000 Amelia Earhart scholarship for women who desire to take graduate study in engineering has been established by Zonta International, international organization of executive and professional women.

The scholarship will be awarded annually in honor of Amelia Earhart, a former Zontian, to encourage women to undertake graduate work in the field of aeronautical engineering.

Applications for the Amelia Earhart scholarship should be filed with Zonta International by March 1, 1951. Applications should be sent to Miss J. Winifred Hughes, Syracuse university. A committee comprised of members of Zonta International will consider the applications and make the award.

In order to be eligible for the scholarship a woman must have a bachelor's degree and a recommendation for fine character and high ability. It may be used in any graduate school approved by the scholarship committee. Preparatory work is to be such as required by the school where the applicant intends to register. Therefore, an undergraduate course in general engineering or a major in mathematical physics may be accepted as prerequisite for graduate work instead of an undergraduate course in aeronautical engineering.

State Wins IC-4A Title

Penn State's cross country team yesterday won the IC-4A meet in New York. Story on page four.

'Ike' Eisenhower Buys Penna. Home

The Eisenhowers are coming back to Pennsylvania. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, president of Columbia university, became the third of the Eisenhower brothers to take up permanent residence in the Keystone state when he purchased a 200-acre family home near Gettysburg over the weekend.

"Ike" joins his two brothers, Milton S., president of the College, and Earl, an engineer in Charleroi, as residents of Pennsylvania.

General Eisenhower was born in Texas, but his family has its roots in Pennsylvania. Elizabethville, near Harrisburg, is the old Eisenhower homestead. It was built about 1860 and was the birthplace and childhood home of the General's father, David J. Eisenhower.

Senior Section Handles Cards

Flashcard displays were used at the Rutgers football game Saturday, but seniors instead of freshmen manned them.

The cards were distributed in senior sections EK and EJ between the 15 and 30 yard line. At the West Virginia game the previous week, when the cards were used for the first time, freshmen in the curved stands behind the goal post had manned them.

Co-eds from Cwens and Chimes, women's hat societies, and Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's scholastic honorary, had volunteered to help the cheerleaders with the cards on Saturday. However, the 15 girls, who reported to the freshman sections, could do nothing but watch when the location for the displays was changed.

Beaver, Mason, Schulte, Tilles Star In 'Life'

Starring roles in Players' "Time of Your Life" have been assigned to Jim Beaver, Howard Mason, Charles Schulte, and Sonya Tilles, W. H. Walters, director, announced yesterday.

The play will open a six-week-end run at the downtown theatre Dec. 1.

Walters, directing his first Players production, said Beaver will play Joe in the Saroyan play; Mason will play Tom; Schulte, Nick; and Miss Tilles, Kitty Duval.

Other roles include Kathleen Aagard as Killer, Joe Bird as Kit Carson, Don Barton as a newsboy, Fred Dewitt as Krupp, Miriam Dewitt as Mary L., Eleanor Forman as a society lady, Stanley Ginsburg as Wesley, Pat Hale as Elsie, Richard Harsch as Dudley, Mesrop Kesdekian as a drunkard, Joe Marko as Willie, Bob Maitland as McCarthy, Corinne Mittelman as Lorene, Nick Morkides as Harry, Richard Neuweiler as a society gentleman, John Price as a sailor, David Schultz as Arab, Peter Twaddle as Blick, and Connie Weinsweig as Killer's sidekick.

Ag Hill Council Holds Ball Dec. 2

The Ag Hill student council has adopted the theme "Join the Round-Up" for its Harvest ball on Dec. 2 in Rec hall.

This is the second year that the Harvest ball has been classed as a "big" dance. Formerly the dance was informal and held in the PUB or in the TUB. Tickets are $2 and can be purchased from members of the Ag Hill student council or at Student Union.

Joseph Breisch and David Stabler, co-chairmen, asked that no corsages be worn. Refreshments will be served.

'New Look' Dominates 50th Lion-Pitt Encounter

By MARV KRASNANSKY

Penn State and Pittsburgh will meet on the gridiron for the 50th time Saturday afternoon in Pitt Stadium, but any resemblance between this game and the 49 that have preceded it will be strictly accidental.

Hidebound adherents of the single-wing formation since the paleolithic days of football, both the Lions and the Panthers have abandoned the old power-conscious offense for the lightning-like maneuvers of the T-formation. Both the Lions and the Panthers are also under the leadership of new head coaches in Rip Engle and Len Casanova.

Lions Favored

With a season's mark of four wins, three losses, and a tie, the Lions should rate as a pre-game favorite over the Panthers, who have managed to win but one of their eight previous engagements.

Approximately 600 student tickets are still available for the Pitt game. They will be on sale at the ticket office, Old Main, for $3.50 until tomorrow night. 1400 student tickets have already been sold.

Pitt has played one of the toughest schedules in the East, however, and while the Panther attack has shown need for vast improvement, the defensive play has been strong.

Pitt holds a wide edge in the series, having won 29, while losing 18, and tying 2. The Panthers have won the last two encounters, including a 7-0 victory in 1948 produced by tackle Nick Bolkovac on a 17-yard pass interception. Bolkovac, a senior, will see action against the Nittanies for the third and final time Saturday.

Pitt Rough Team

Anxious to avoid any Penn State laxness, assistant coach Joe Bedenk, who has scouted the Panthers, has warned the squad that "Many a good Penn State team has gone to Pittsburgh for the final game of the year and returned with their tail between their legs."

Group To Investigate Racial Discrimination

A committee to investigate racial discrimination in the motels of State College was formed at the meeting of the campus chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Tuesday. Those named include: Russel Minton, chairman; Donald Baytips, Marget Selig, and Betty Phillips.

Beaver Field Goal Posts Down After 11 Year Stand; Flags Go

For the first time since 1939, at least as far as most people can remember, the Penn State goal posts became victims of students. They were torn down after Saturday's 18-14 victory over Rutgers.

According to James Coogan, assistant director of Public Information, the last time the goal posts went down was in 1939 after State's 10-0 win over Pittsburgh.

Pennants Missing

But the goal posts and Rutgers' Ed Monahan weren't the only casualties of the day. Also missing, according to Captain Philip Mark, of the campus patrol, are 29 of the 34 pennants from various schools that decorated the top of the Beaver field stands.

Several campus patrolmen, who were busy defending the goal posts in vain, saw some members of the Rutgers' band snatch the flags. Mark said that he would ask the Interraternity council to aid the campus patrol in recovering the flags that still remain on campus. Mark said that there probably were some flags in fraternity houses.

Flag Disappears

The big flag of the College, which flew from the east flag pole at the south end of Beaver field, was taken down and whisked away.

Campus patrolmen saw three men come over to the flag pole and calmly haul the big blue banner down, while the mad fight was going on for possession of the goal posts. The patrolmen told Mark they didn't stop them because they thought they were taking care of the flag.

Vain Battle ...

Penn State students, aided by the Penn State jesters, make a vain attempt to save the blue and white goal post following Saturday's Rutgers game.

The flag was returned by students yesterday.

The press box atop the west stands took up the position as a rooting section, and as the posts tipped from one side to the other, the weavings were accompanied by groans and cheers from the scouts, telegraphers, newspapermen, and radio broadcasters assembled in the second tier.

Head cheerleader Rudolph Valentino got the biggest cheer from the press box as he attempted to stop the crowd, but it might have been mistaken for a hiss if one didn't know better. The press box agreed that it was a good fight.

ICG Holds Test Run On Balloting

In an effort to ready themselves for the annual state-wide convention to be held in Harrisburg next spring, members of the Intercollegiate Conference on Government received actual practice in the use of the preferential ballot last night in their bi-weekly meeting.

The group is to participate in a model legislature in the state capital, the feature of the convention to which 56 cooperating schools will send some 550 students.

Also featured at the meeting were two talks. David Fitzcharles, past secretary, explained the process of preferential balloting, and William Klisanin, assistant regional director, talked on the regional executive committee meeting to be held in Hershey on Dec. 9. The plans for the regional assembly will be set up there along with the general policy for regional action at the spring convocation.

Plans were made to have professor Joseph O'Brien of the speech department lecture on parliamentary procedure at the next meeting.

Last Issue Today

This is the last Collegian before Thanksgiving. The next issue will appear Tuesday, Nov. 28.
