Cooperation Sought For Administration And Staff

By RON BONN

Calling for more effective cooperation between administration and staff, President Milton S. Eisenhower outlined a series of proposed reorganizations at the second annual faculty-trustee dinner last night.

The dinners are sponsored by the faculty-trustee committee of the American Association of University Professors. Special guest at last night's banquet, held at the Nittany Lion Inn, was Martin D. Whitaker, president of Lehigh university and of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities.

Groups Review Collegian Boost

Heads of organizations represented on All-College cabinet were asked yesterday to consult their groups concerning the Daily Collegian's proposal for an increase in its student assessment.

The Collegian will ask cabinet at its next meeting for an increase in the assessment of a 35 cents per semester in order to expand its news content.

Dean Gladfelter, editor, called for a discussion of the proposal within the various organizations so some student opinion will be available when the proposal is brought before cabinet. He said the proposal must be passed at two cabinet meetings and students have two chances to appear before cabinet to express their opinions.

The proposal is being announced before it is presented to cabinet meeting so that students will have time to think over and discuss the proposed increase, according to Gladfelter.

The Collegian will ask cabinet to recommend to the College board of trustees that the present assessment of 75 cents per person each semester be increased to $1.10.

Enlarging the assessment should pay for increasing costs of publication and permit publication of an eight-page paper daily, Gladfelter said.

'Criminalistics' Lecture

Dr. Mary L. Willard, of the School of Chemistry and Physics, will give an illustrated lecture at the Liebig Chemical society business meeting in 105 Frear, at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday.

The lecture on "Criminalistics—The Science of Crime Detection" will begin at 8:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

President Eisenhower, in explaining the need for better cooperative procedures between faculty and administration, pointed out that proposed draft and universal military training measures might affect the lives of college-age men for a generation to come. He outlined the possible dangers of this system to American life.

Enrollments Decrease
"I fear university enrollments permanently would be a fraction of what they are now, and I am completely convinced that it would be this fact, and not military service in itself, which would lead to the most serious consequences," he said.

A partial remedy for this threat, advanced by the President, would be to allow men to select which two years between 18 and 26 they would prefer to give to UMT. Present tentative plans call for automatic service from 18 to 20.

To facilitate the cooperation required by this and other problems, President Eisenhower proposed setting up a faculty group of between 15 and 25 members to counsel the administration on major legislative, policy, and administrative matters.

Advisory Council
"This group—possibly named the 'College Advisory Council' and probably elected by the faculties of the schools on a basis of proportional representation—should make studies and formulate recommendations on its own motion or at the request of the administration," he said.

President Eisenhower also advocated a series of inter-school committees, each operating in a single major field, to recommend changes required by the College's education program, and to define educational goals.

Lions Invade Forbes Field In Third Try To Meet Pitt

By MARV KRASNANSKY
(Special to The Daily Collegian)

PITTSBURGH — The strangest football game in the 58-year relationship of Penn State and the University of Pittsburgh, cancelled twice and to be played one week later than scheduled at another site, will finally be run off this afternoon—maybe.

Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m. The game will be broadcast from Forbes field over WMAJ, air time being 1:15.

The Panthers and Lions will be meeting on the gridiron for the 50th time, but not since the first game of the series in 1893 has it been necessary for a cancellation. Rains postponed that game, scheduled to be played in State College on a Saturday, to Monday. State won the game, 32-0.

Forbes Field Clear
Forbes field was cleared of snow by Thursday afternoon, according to the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, and the snow flurries that have been falling in the Smokey City all week came to a halt yesterday. Freezing temperatures are expected to prevail, however, throughout the game.

With the game shifted to Forbes field because of the failure to clear Pitt stadium, the Lions will not have to worry about the stadium jinx that has plagued them down through the years. Although 41 of the 49 games played to date have taken place in Pitt stadium, the Lions have won but 11. Two have ended in ties.

Penn State, trailing in the series with only 18 wins against 29 losses, will be seeking its first victory over the Panthers since 1947, when the Cotton Bowl-bound Lions defeated Pitt, 7-0.

First Year Coaches Meet
The Forbes field site of the encounter will not be the only "first" the game will produce. It will also be the first meeting between Nittany Coach Rip Engle

Cabinet To Hold Thursday Meeting With Eisenhower

All-College cabinet will hold a non-business meeting at the home of President Milton S. Eisenhower Thursday night, according to Emerson Jones, All-College secretary-treasurer, speaking for Robert Davis, All-College president, who has not yet returned from the Thanksgiving vacation.

President Eisenhower had originally invited cabinet to his home for last Thursday night but the meeting was canceled because weather conditions last weekend had kept many cabinet members from returning to campus.

Cabinet will bring the President up to date on past cabinet actions and discuss future plans with him. The group had a similar meeting with the President in October.

Jones could not say when cabinet would hold its next business meeting. He said, however, that two things definitely on the agenda would be the request by the Daily Collegian for an increase in its student assessment from 75 cents per person each semester to $1.10 and a report by the Christmas lawn display committee.

New Students Gather Jan. 30

President Milton S. Eisenhower will open spring semester orientation at a mass meeting of all new students Tuesday, Jan. 30, according to Wilmer E. Kenworthy, assistant to the President in charge of student affairs, who is chairman of the Orientation committee.

Approximately 400 students are expected for the new term, according to C. O. Williams, acting dean of admissions. Williams said about 275 would be freshmen. This will be the first spring semester freshman class since 1946.

The orientation program for incoming men will be conducted by a committee set up last spring by All-College cabinet, according to the dean of men, who is committee chairman.

A meeting from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 31 will complete the men's orientation. The group will meet together and will then be divided into sections and counselled by the members of the committee in charge.

Orientation for women will continue from Jan. 31 to Saturday, Feb. 3, according to Patricia Thompson, assistant to the dean of women, who is in charge of women's orientation. Members of Mortarboard, Chimes, Cwens, and Alpha Lambda Delta will conduct the program.

No Calendar Changes

No changes will be made in the College schedule to make up the two days lost because of the storm, the Council of Administration announced yesterday.

The council said it would be "impractical" to alter the calendar.

General Leaves For Marshalls, Praises ROTC

Brigadier General Arthur R. Walk, professor of military science and tactics at the College, leaves today for Eniwetok in the Marshall islands.

In a prepared statement for the Collegian, General Walk expressed his appreciation to members of the Army ROTC for their excellent performance of duties. He said that the progress and standards attained by the Cadet corps are both a credit to the College and to the students themselves.

General Walk, recently promoted from the rank of Colonel, became commander of the Army ROTC last January. Previously, he had commanded the Fifth Armored division at Camp Chaffee.

The General participated in both world wars. He served in Europe in 1918 and in the Pacific in World War II. His new assignment will take him to areas with which he is somewhat familiar.

Jazz Is Theme For Art Exhibit

An exhibition of 20 brilliant color plates of the album, Jazz, opened yesterday in the lounges of Simmons hall.

The plates, designed by Henri Matisse, a noted French painter, will be shown until Dec. 20. The exhibit is being sponsored by the department of architecture at the College. It is being circulated by the Museum of Modern Art of New York.

The designs for Jazz have been created by the 80-year-old artist with intensely vivid papers cut, pasted, and pinned in bold, dancing patterns. The album was completed in 1947 and was printed in by the pochoir stencil process.
