AIM Postpones Vote On Assessment Rise

By MARV KRASNANSKY

The AIM board of governors voted last night to postpone consideration of the proposed increase in the Daily Collegian assessment until next week. The vote was ten to four.

The assessment will be discussed next Wednesday.

The motion to postpone consideration was made by Paul Kulp, an alternate representative of the West dorm council. Kulp pointed out that Nittany dorm council had taken no action on the matter and that the West dorm council had voted to instruct the AIM all-College cabinet representative to vote against the assessment unless a student referendum is held.

Before this, Thomas Durek, president of the West dorm council, reported the action of his group to the board. Durek added that the action of the West dorm council had been prompted by the question: "What right does Cabinet have to levy an assessment?"

Degler Replies

Stanley Degler, an ex-officio member of the board, pointed out that cabinet does not have the power to levy an assessment. It only has the authority to recommend one, he said. Final approval rests with the board of trustees.

In the view of the misinformation presented to the West dorm council as well as other circumstances, Kulp moved that consideration be postponed one week.

A project committee report recommending, among other things, a dating code for the West dorms was approved, as was an AIM-sponsored Christmas carol sing on Dec. 17.

An informational reading of the budget was held. The budget, calling for expenditure of $2500 by AIM during the current year, will come up for a final vote next week.

Richard Mills, chairman of the social committee, reported that the recent AIM-Phi Sigma Sigma dance had netted $300 for the rheumatic fever fund.

Hillel To Celebrate Chanukah At Party

Hillel will sponsor a party to celebrate Chanukah this Saturday evening after the basketball game at the Hillel foundation. The party, open to all, will feature games, songs, refreshments, and dancing. Natalie Adler and Stanley Myers, social co-chairmen, are managing the affair.

Players Cautious Before Production

Nick Morkides, an old-timer on the Schwab-Center stage circuit who plays "Harry" in "Time of Your Life," uses his nationality to ward off stage fright.

As Nick is about to go on he looks in a mirror, throws out his chest, grits his teeth, and shouts, "Oh, you Greek, you!"

Hence no stage fright.

Whether or not an actor is a slave to superstition on opening nights is a question brought up occasionally, and one for which the cast of "Time of Your Life" has an answer—it all depends.

With "Time" beginning its belated run at Center stage Friday night, cast members with pet eccentricities are shining them up for the event, while others state they have no temperamental quirks at all.

Take Howard Mason and Charles Schulte for example, both of whom have important roles. Mason always wears the same shirt in every play, usually under his costume, although this may not be necessary in "Time" since the play takes place in 1939

Two Students Barred From Thompson Hall

Two residents of Thompson hall were locked out of their room yesterday pending explanation of destruction of property in their room.

Russell E. Clark, director of housing, locked the two men, Paul Kichline and Carl Reynolds, both freshmen, out of their room, 229 Thompson, on charges of destroying College property.

Clark and F. E. Robinson, key supervisor of the physical plant department, were told by housekeepers in Thompson, that the bedding in room 229 was found hanging out of the window. The housekeepers also reported that one bed frame was found in the wardrobe closet of the room, and the spring and mattress were tied together and stood upright, with a chair on top.

The screen in one of the windows of the room was ripped in the lower corner. Both men said that it had been damaged by a snowball from outside.

Clark pointed out that the screen was pushed out from the inside, and that a sliver of wood had been chipped from the frame inside the room.

Clark said that he felt he was within his rights in locking the boys from their room so that he could, "keep my house clean."

Also in Thompson hall yesterday, a bed was removed from Room 109 and was placed in the bathroom across the hall, and the bedclothes were hung out of the window. One of the occupants, John Dillon, said that when he returned to his room about 5:30 yesterday morning, he found the bed gone. Dillon said that he had lost the key to his room, and apparently someone had found it and entered his room while he was out. Clark took no action.

President's Aides Given New Titles

Because of the broadened responsibility of their offices, the titles of the four assistants to the President have been changed by the Executive committee of the board of trustees, President Milton S. Eisenhower announced yesterday.

Other major action taken by the committee in its week-end session includes approval of two new $250 scholarships in agricultural engineering or farm mechanics and approval of agreements with private industry for $44,000 in research grants.

Under the new titles, A. O. Morse, assistant to the President in charge of resident instruction becomes provost of the College, and is in charge of the College's educational program. S. K. Hostetter, assistant in charge of business and finance becomes comptroller. He continues as treasurer of the College corporation.

New Titles

J. O. Keller, assistant in charge of extension, becomes director of general extension, and Wilmer E. Kenworthy, assistant in charge of student affairs, becomes director of student affairs. G. S. Wyand, administrative assistant to the President, becomes assistant to the President, and Richard C. Maloney, executive secretary, office of the President, becomes administrative assistant, office of the President.

Dr. Eisenhower said the new titles were necessitated both by the greater responsibilities of the assistants and the fact that in the future each will work more exclusively in his own field.

Scholarships Given

The agricultural scholarships have been set up by the James F. Lincoln Arc Welding foundation, of Cleveland, and will be known as the Albert S. Mowery and David R. McClay scholarship and the Joseph E. Simon scholarship.

Mowery, assistant professor of agricultural engineering, and McClay, assistant professor of agricultural education won a $1775 first award in the foundation's $25,000 Agricultural Award and

Home Ec Students Given Scholarships

Marie T. Stankewitz and Nancy Ferguson, juniors in home economics at the College, were recently awarded scholarships from the State Federation of Women's clubs.

These scholarships, worth approximately $50 each, are awarded annually to upper class women selected by the faculty of the School of Home Economics in consultation with the dean of women. Miss Stankewitz is a member of Omicron Nu and Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honor societies, and president of the Home Economics club. Her all-College average is 2.37. Miss Ferguson's all-College average is 2.27.

Jane Ifft and Jeanette Ibbotson, sophomores in the school, were awarded the Kroger scholarships, worth $200 each. Miss Ibbotson's average is 2.83, and Miss Ifft's is 2.76.

Nittany, Pollock To Give Revue

The Nittany and Pollock dorm councils will sponsor the "Splinterville Revue," a free talent show, at the TUB, Dec. 13.

The affair will begin with dancing at 7:30 p.m. The talent show will begin with acts contributed by the men of Nittany and Pollock dorms at 8 p.m. After the revue, there will be more dancing.

The councils have scheduled a Christmas party for the Windcrest children at the TUB from 1:30 to 4 p.m. on Dec. 15. This affair is annually sponsored by the councils.

Councils Hits Collegian Fee, Rebuffs Clark

West dorm council Monday night opposed the proposal to increase the student assessment for the Daily Collegian and announced it would sever relations with Russell E. Clark, director of housing.

The 18 representatives present voted 17 to 1 for a motion instructing Richard Bard, chairman of the AIM board of governors, to oppose the assessment unless a student referendum is held.

A letter severing connections between the council and Clark was voted unanimously. It states that because of lack of cooperation on the part of Clark, there will be no further business between that office and the West Dorm council, and until cooperation between the two is resumed, the council will do its business with other administration offices.

Ping Pong Tables

This letter is the result of a dispute between the housing director's office and the council over the returning of ping pong tables to the West Dorms. These tables were taken from the dorms because of damage to the floors.

John Clark, representative from Hamilton hall, presented the resolution on the Collegian assessment and called for a referendum. He said he thought All-College cabinet, asked by the Collegian to recommend the assessment, has "no authority from the constitution for making student assessments."

Referendum Vote

Clark said that any assessment of the students should be done only by a referendum vote of the whole student body. He said that

IFC To Discuss Christmas Party

The Interfraternity council will hold its weekly meeting in 219 EE at 7:15 tonight. IFC President Harold Leinbach said the main topic of the meeting would be discussion of the annual Christmas party to be sponsored jointly by IFC and Panhel.

The council will also formulate plans for a banquet to be held Tuesday. Guests expected to attend are President Milton S. Eisenhower and Arthur R. Warnock, dean of men emeritus. Dean Warnock was recently elected president of the National Interfraternity conference in New York.

Frosh Permissions

Freshmen women have been granted a 12 and a 1 o'clock permission to be used either night this weekend, according to Barbara Sprenkle, WSGA president.
