Total Mobilization May Be Necessary

NEW YORK — Dwight D. Eisenhower, addressing more than 20,000 troops in training at Camp Pickett, Va., said yesterday that the United States may find it necessary to mobilize all its young men because the rulers of aggressor nations have decided that all free people of the world are their enemies.

The White House, however, revealed yesterday that although there have been discussions within the administration on the subject of all-out mobilization and emergency executive orders, nothing definite has been decided upon. Stephen Early, President Truman's acting secretary, added that he could not see any such action occurring in the immediate future.

Lion Debaters Leave For Pitt Debate Tourney

Four men from the College debate team will leave State College at 1:30 p.m. today to participate in the annual Pittsburgh Cross-Examination debate tournament at the University of Pittsburgh tomorrow.

An affirmative team comprised of David Schmuckler and Jack Boddington, and a negative team, Nathan Finestine and Donald Yenko, will debate this year's intercollegiate question, "Resolved: That the non-communist nations should form a new international organization." Each team will take part in two debates tomorrow morning and one in the afternoon.

No Decisions

No team decisions are rendered at the Pitt tournament, but each speaker is rated individually by his opponents on a score basis and those scores are tabulated to determine his final rating. Top rating is "superior."

This is the fourth major event of the semester for the squad under the coaching of professor Joseph F. O'Brien.

Opening the season with a win over Army at West Point, the team went on to register a tie for second place in the annual Vermont debate tourney. Last weekend, newcomers to the squad won 12 of 16 debates at the Temple Novice tournament in Philadelphia.

Two Women's Teams

Two teams from the women's debate squad will also enter the tournament. An affirmative team, consisting of Lois Pulver and Peggy Fahringer, and a negative team, Sylvia Silver and Phyllis Kalson, will compete.

They will be accompanied by William Hamilton, assistant professor of speech. Coach of the women's team is Clayton H. Schug, associate professor of public speaking.

Dorms Pick AIM Representative

Earl Brubaker, a sophomore, was elected AIM representative-at-large from the Pollock Circle dorm area by Pollock council at its meeting Wednesday evening.

Brubaker was chosen from a group of candidates for the office that appeared before the council.

The decision on whether or not the council would support the recent assessment asked for by Collegian was referred back to the dorm units for a vote.

In conjunction with the Nittany dorm council, the Pollock council will sponsor seven sound movies on the music, dances, and customs of India in 105 White hall next Thursday. The movies, open to all students, will begin at 8 p.m. and will run to approximately 9:30 p.m.

Residents of the Nittany-Pollock dorm area are also being offered bridge instruction by the recreation department. The general principles of bridge, with emphasis on the Goren system, will be taught. Sessions are held each Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the PUB.

Reds Threaten UN Line

KOREA — The Chinese communists have not yet attacked the new American Eighth army defense line in northwestern Korea. This new 70 mile defense wall is between Pyongyang, the former North Korean capital, and the 38th parallel, the former dividing line between North and South Korea.

About 100,000 Chinese Reds are facing the new front, with some 80,000 reserves right behind them, and hundreds of thousands more grouping farther north in Korea and Manchuria.

Rent Controls Extended

WASHINGTON — Congress yesterday voted for a temporary extension of rent controls.

The Senate agreed to extend controls for 60 days beyond Dec. 31; the House voted for a 90-day extension. A compromise will have to be worked out before the legislation can be signed by President Truman.

The idea of the extension is to give the next Congress an opportunity to decide what to do about rent controls themselves.

Claude Thornhill Featured Tonight At Military Ball

The familiar strains of "Snowfall," theme song of Claude Thornhill and his orchestra, will be heard in Recreation hall tonight at the Military ball.

Thornhill, who does his own arranging, will bring a 15-piece group and two vocalists to the dance. The orchestra, led by Thornhill at the piano, has played at such famous spots as the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago and the Palladium in Hollywood. Thornhill has received a "Band of the Year" award from Look magazine.

Highlights of the 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. dance will be the receiving line at 9 o'clock, the grand march at 10:15 o'clock, and the crowning of the queen at 10:30 o'clock.

The receiving line will be composed of the cadet commander and head of the ROTC department for each of the three services and George L. Haller, dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics, representing the College.

Immediately following the grand march, led by the cadet commanders of the air, army, and navy ROTC, the queen will be crowned. The five finalists for the title are: Helen Costello, Mrs. Nancy Frech, Pat Kelly, Sally Miller, and Lolita Robinson.

Judging will be done by the heads of the ROTC departments.

Unique Yule Cards Now On Exhibition

How would you like to receive a postage stamp Christmas greeting? Or a ration card, or newspaper or theater ticket?

These and many other unique ways of saying "Merry Christmas" are now displayed in the Fred Lewis Pattee library and will be on exhibition until Dec. 20. The display is a collection of Christmas cards by faculty members of the College, showing their originality in expressing their season's greetings and good wishes through the years.

The exhibit illustrates a number of methods of reproducing the cards. These include woodcuts and linoleum block prints, some done to simulate wood cuts, multigraphed greetings, and those produced from zinc etchings or halftones made from line drawings or sketches by individual faculty members.

Faculty members, including retirees, who are represented include William A. Broyles, David Campbell, Andrew W. Case, Ellwood B. Cassel, Edith P. Chace, Harold E. Dickson, William S. Dye Jr., Helen S. Galbraith, Philip F. Hallock, William S. Hoffman, Warren B. Mack, Milton S. Osborne, Lawrence Perez, John Young Roy, and William S. Smith Jr. Also included are cards by the late J. Burne Helme, professor of fine arts until his death in 1945, and by Henry Varnum Poor, noted muralist.

Froth On Sale; Education Theme

With "education" as its theme, Froth goes on sale today. The Penn State monthly gag magazine features a parody on blue books, great teachers, and a story on the Psychology department.

Replete with illustrations and cartoons, the humor magazine displays two pictures of the Froth girl-of-the-month.

The regular features of the Dope Sheet, Frothing at the Mouth, Going Around in Circles, and Mug and Jester are all included.

'Life' Starts 5-Week Run At Center Stage Tonight

By ROSEMARY DELAHANTEY

An ordinary fellow determined to seek virtue in the time of his life takes over Center stage tonight as Players' third production of the year begins a five-week run at the downtown theater.

Tickets for "Time of Your Life," priced at $.90 for tonight's performance and $1.25 for tomorrow night's, may be purchased at the Student Union desk. The play begins at 8 p.m. and will be over a few minutes after ten.

In "Time of Your Life," which ran on Broadway from 1939 to 1940, author William Saroyan uses a waterfront saloon in San Francisco to introduce some typical Americans who are influenced in one way or another by the central figure, "Joe."

Original In New York

"Joe," played by Eddie Dowling in the original New York production, cultivates kindness and gentleness in his own life yet has no qualms about murdering another when he feels it is necessary to do so.

James Beaver, "Paris" in "Romeo and Juliet" last spring, plays the role of "Joe" in the Center stage production.

"Nick," owner of the Pacific Street Saloon, Restaurant, and Entertainment Parlor, is portrayed by Charles Schulte, who has appeared with Players for the past three years.

Tilles Is "Kitty"

Sonya Tilles is "Kitty Duval," a lady of questionable character with a reputation to match, and "Tom," a slow-thinking, kind-hearted man who falls in love with her, will be played by Charles Williams tonight and Howard Mason tomorrow night.

Joseph Bird portrays "Kit Carson," one of those rustic individuals left over from the days of the old west, while Nick Morkides is "Harry," a sad-hearted guy who wants to be a comedian and make people laugh.

'News' Deadline To Be Extended

The deadline for returning questionnaires for "Who's In The News at Penn State" will be extended to Friday, Dec. 15. The change was necessitated because of the delay in the original mailing of the forms due to the two-day vacation earlier last week, according to Arthur Benning, editor.

The date of publication, however, will not be altered, and the booklet will be available for distribution through the Student Union in Old Main before the end of the present semester. The mailing list compiled by the selections committee has reached completion, and mailing will be completed this week.

The cover for the 1950-51 publication will be designed by Henry Progar, art director of Froth, and one of the leading student artists at the College. A self portrait by Progar entitled "Conflict" is now being shown in student art exhibits throughout the country.
