

WSGA Retreat To Begin At 9

The WSGA retreat will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. in Hemlock cottage, located beside Grange dormitory.

The purpose of the retreat is to educate the girls in student government and to produce better understanding of the constitutions of the various women's organizations on campus. Members of WSGA, WRA, Panhel and Leonides will attend the retreat.

During the morning sessions the constitutions of the women's organizations will be read and two joint meetings will be held. WSGA and WRA will meet to discuss women's elections, and Panhel and Leonides will discuss the orientation week program.

The afternoon sessions will be devoted to general discussions of two major subjects, "how to create interest in women's student government" and "should we have a training program for leaders?"

At 4:15 p.m. Miss Mary Brewer, assistant dean of women, will summarize the day's activities.

Kids See Movies, Play Games, Give Santa Rough Time

Christmas wrappings and empty dixie cups were scattered on the floor of the White hall lounge after the annual WRA party.

Approximately 75 children between the ages of three and six from Windcrest trailer camp attended. Two Mickey Mouse and one Donald Duck cartoons were shown.

The gymnasium which was to be the scene of a group of games provided a lot of space for the energetic tots who just wanted to run around.

While awaiting the appearance of Santa Claus, Anne Forrest told stories when the children were grouped around the Christmas tree.

Paul Beighley played Santa Claus and handed out presents to the audience. Santa had to think fast when one of the older children present said, "I don't believe you are Santa Claus."

"I'm not the real Santa Claus but I'm one of his helpers," was the reply. The answer was satisfactory.

Air ROTC Plans Women's Program

Coeds at the College may soon get a chance to take an ROTC course leading to a reserve commission in the Women's air force.

Lt. Col. Jack W. Dieterle, professor of air science and tactics at the College, said that the Air ROTC department wants to know how many women students would be interested in such a course.

Colonel Dieterle pointed out that the survey is being conducted for planning purposes, and no such program has as yet been authorized.
