

Players' 'Time' Surprises—

(Continued from page one) emphasizes every fourth or fifth word she speaks, and as a result some of her best lines in the first act are lost.

Otherwise Miss Tilles performs well and is beautifully at ease on the stage.

Two of the brightest spots in the entire play are Joseph Bird's portrayal of "Kit Carson" and Charles Schulte's "Nick." Bird, who has the complete attention of the audience whenever he's on, seems almost too good for an amateur production, while Schulte, in addition to keeping the dialogue moving, manages to keep his Italian-American accent throughout the five acts.

Charles Williams played "Tom" last night, and Howard Mason will take over the part tonight. Mason, judging from the Wednesday rehearsal, doesn't have the stage presence of Williams, but both do an adequate job.

In the principle supporting roles, Fred de Wit is convincing as the cop who wants to know what's the matter with the world, and Nick Morkides, as a would-be comedian, both acts and dances well.

Richard Harsch gives an excellent portrayal of "Dudley Bostwick," a confused, not-too-intelligent young man, but his girl friend, Patricia Hale, as "Elsie Mandelspiegel," seems to have been miscast. Miss Hale is sophisticated and very well-dressed—not what one would expect in an Elsie Mandelspiegel.

A longshoreman with an Irish brogue, "McCarthy" is played by Robert Maitland. Like Schulte as "Nick," Maitland doesn't lose his accent, which makes the role more realistic.

Peter Twaddle is Vice Squad Chief "Blick." Twaddle, weak in his first-act appearance, improves considerably later on.

Others in the cast, all of whom perform well are David Schulte as an "Arab," Joseph Marro as Willie; Donald Barton as the newsboy; Mesrop Kesdekian as the drunkard; Stanley Ginsburg as "Wesley"; Corinne Mittleman as "Lorene"; Miriam DeWitt as "Mary L."; John Price as the sailor; Kathleen Aagaard as "Killer"; Mary Ann Tyo as "Anna"; Constance Weinsweig as "Killer's side kick"; Elinor For-
