

TODAY'S WEATHER:
CONTINUED COOL,
LIGHT SNOWS

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER
PENN STATE

VOL. 51 — No. 61

STATE COLLEGE, PA., FRIDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 15, 1950

PRICE FIVE CENTS

Lions Hopeful For Third Win; Play Rhode Island

By ERNIE MOORE

Penn State's basketball team will go after its third win of the season tonight when the Nittany Lions entertain Rhode Island State in Rec hall at 8 o'clock.

Coach Joe Tocci's freshman team will play Altoona center in a 7 o'clock preliminary.

The Rhode Island State squad will probably be the most colorful basketball team to appear in Rec hall this season.

Fast Break

Coached by Robert "Red" Haire, the Rams employ a fast-break which has gained them national popularity as one of the highest scoring teams in the country.

Should Lion coach Elmer Gross use Penn State's now famous zone defense against the run-run-run game of the Ram quintet, Penn State basketball fans should be in for a treat tonight.

Another interesting sidelight tonight will be the expected clash between the Rams' Captain Johnny Mitchell and the Lions' Captain Lou Lamie.

Mitchell is the Rams' ace defensive man and he will probably draw Lamie, the Lions' ace point maker, as his man.

Both have been mentioned as candidates for All-American and tonight's clash should put them both to the test.

Gross, still hunting for men to spell his first team, will string along with his five "iron men," Lamie, Ted Panoplos, Tiny McMahan, Hardy Williams, and Junie Moore as the starting squad against the Rams.

RISC

The starting five for Rhode Island State will probably be Mitchell, Charlie Stewart, Fred Congleton, Fred Lennon, and George Handler or Ed Hole.

After tonight's tilt, Gross' cagers must take on the Presidents of Washington and Jefferson tomorrow night in Rec hall.

The Prexies are the sleeper on the Lions' schedule this year. Although not a large school, W & J perennially comes up with a classy basketball team and this year is no exception.

No Losses

Coach Adam Sanders' Jaymen have five wins to their credit and are without a loss. The Presidents have downed Buffalo, Akron, Akron Goodyear, Ohio Wesleyan, and Thiel.

Last season, Penn State eked out a one point victory over the Prexies on the W & J court. Bolstered by a host of sophomores from last year's crack freshman team which also beat the W & J varsity by one point, the Presidents lay claim to one of their best teams in years.

Paced by their ace point setter, Andy Mestrovic, the Presidents will probably employ their famous Washington and Jefferson two platoon system against the Lions.

The big question in the minds of Gross and Penn State rooters

(Continued on page five)

Collegian To Make 4 Senior Changes

Four changes in position on the editorial and business senior boards of the Daily Collegian for the spring semester have been made because of midyear graduations.

Herbert Stein has been named news editor, succeeding Stanley Degler, and John Ashbrook has been chosen editorial director, succeeding Stein.

Norma Gleghorn has been named to succeed Hugo Mandes as local advertising manager, and Sue Halperin will succeed Loretta Stempinski as office manager.

In addition, David Mehall has been named head photographer. Photo Editor Wilson Barto also is being graduated. Morris Shanker has been promoted to the business sophomore board.

Ram Captain

Johnny Mitchell

Student Grants Now Available

Dr. Robert L. Weber, chairman of the committee on scholarships and awards, has announced that scholarships are now available to qualified students.

Dr. Weber reminds interested students that applications for these scholarships must be filed before Saturday, January 6.

Any application may be obtained and filed with any committee member. It must include a photograph of the applicant and his parent's or guardian's signature.

Two letters of recommendation are required, one from a faculty member of the College.

The awards are made on a competitive basis to those candidates who seem best to satisfy the essential requirements of scholastic merit, financial need, good character, and general promise. A description of the awards can be found on pages 103-105 of the 1950-51 edition of the General Catalogue.

Members of the committee are Mary Brown Allgood, 107 Home Economics building; E. E. Ambrosius, Mechanical Engineering laboratory; Dr. R. Adams Dutcher, 110 Frear laboratory; Dr. John D. Lawther, 304 Moffatt cottage; Dr. E. F. Osborn, 221 Mineral Industries building; Dr. Seth W. Russell, 132 Sparks building; Dr. Kinsley R. Smith, 202 Burrowes building; and Dr. Weber, 211 Osmond laboratory.

Coed Debaters Ranked High

The four members of the women's debate team were rated high by their opponents at the annual Pittsburgh cross-examination debate tournament.

The numerical scores of the girls were between 70 and 90, denoting "good" and "excellent" ratings. The negative team, consisting of Sylvia Silver and Phyllis Kalsen, scored 86.5 and 82 respectively. The girls debated Mount Mercy College for Women, Grove City college and California State Teacher's college.

The affirmative debaters, Lois Pulver and Peggy Fahringer earned ratings of 79.5 and 78.5. This team debated Seton Hill college, Slippery Rock State Teacher's college and the University of

Cabinet Tables Proposed Fee Increase For Collegian

By MOYLAN MILLS

All-College cabinet last night voted 21-2 to table discussion on the proposed 35-cent increase in the Daily Collegian student assessment until the next cabinet meeting, Jan. 11.

The action was taken before any motion to have the increase considered was put on the floor. It was suggested by David Ludwig, president of the Mineral Industries student council, who asked that a financial statement of the newspaper be published before cabinet acts.

Barbara Sprenkle, president of WSGA, made the motion to table.

Explains Proposal

Dean Gladfelter, Collegian editor, outlined to cabinet the expected revenue increase, should the assessment be passed, and explained what the additional money would be spent for.

Revenue totaling $14,000 from the present assessment is listed in the current Collegian budget, which calls for publication of one eight-page paper for every two four-page papers, Gladfelter said.

Increasing the size of the paper to eight pages daily would necessitate additional printing costs estimated at $5,616, he said. This is based on present per-issue costs. An additional estimate of $1000 to cover increases due to expected rises in the cost of publishing each issue also was included in the figures, he said.

Other Costs

Other new costs would include $400 more for photography and engraving and $200 for an Associated Press news wire, bringing to $21,616 the minimum needed for expansion, he told cabinet.

On the basis of present enrollment figures, the increase would bring in an estimated total of $22,380 per year, the remainder of which could be applied toward increased circulation, he said. Gladfelter pointed out that increasing circulation by 500 issues would entail an annual additional expenditure of about $900.

Enrollment Drop Seen

All-College President Robert Davis pointed out that a large drop in enrollment was predicted for next semester, and Gladfelter said that such a drop would affect total Collegian revenue.

John Erickson, senior class president, said he thought the increase was justified because he thought the Collegian had incurred expenses similar to those which had forced commercial newspapers to increase their price from three to five cents.

According to a revision in the all-College constitution last spring, cabinet must pass recommendations for additions to student activities fees by a two-thirds vote on each of two consecutive meetings.

Education student council, in a straw vote taken yesterday afternoon, voted to support the measure when it comes before cabinet.

Social Changes Theme Of Pre-Med Lecture

Dr. Clarence R. Carpenter, Ph.D. discussed the necessity of individuals adjusting themselves to changes in our rapidly moving society, in a lecture sponsored by the Pre-Medical society and Alpha Epsilon Delta Wednesday night.

NSA Delegates To Assemble At Penn Today

Representatives of the local National Student association will leave today to attend the regional NSA convention at the University of Pennsylvania, Dec. 15-17.

Theme of the meeting will be a work session, intended to familiarize all with the "how, why, and what of NSA."

Highlights of the meeting include speeches by Dean Althea Hottel, U of P dean of women, and Dr. Patrick Malin, president of the American Civil Liberties union; an informal panel session; and four workshops.

Bill Klisanin, chairman of the local NSA, and regional vice-president will be in charge of one of the workshops.

At the convention the local group will submit a bill or an amendment providing for absentee voting for all those qualified voters absent from the county or state where they are registered. This measure would provide that their votes be returned by mail to be counted in the election district in which they reside.

At previous conventions the NSA favored the idea of absentee voting; now the local NSA will submit a concrete plan.

Those expected to make the trip in addition to Klisanin are Barbara Lehn, NSA secretary; Jack Garretson-Butt; David Fitzcharles, chairman of the absentee voting committee; Edward Shanken; and Murray Goldman, who will attend as chairman of the central sub-region.

Druids To Tap Sophs, Juniors

Druids, sophomore men's hat society, will begin tapping second, third, and fourth semester men immediately after Christmas, Gene Kolber, rushing chairman, announced yesterday.

Twenty men who, in the opinion of the society, are outstanding in athletics will be tapped.

Requirements for tapping are the winning of freshman numerals or better at the College or at an extension center, or a good chance of earning a letter this year. The latter would be in the opinion of the coach of any particular sport.

An additional list of men with possible tapping qualifications will be obtained from coaches at the centers, as well as from athletes and coaches on campus.

Kolber said that any men who think they qualify for Druids' tapping should send their name, sport, accomplishments in that sport, semester, all-College average, and complete college address to the society.

Mailing address for applications is: Gene Kolber, Pi Lambda Phi, Borough.

'Who's In The News'

Today is the deadline for "Who's In The News at Penn State" applications, Editor Arthur Benning announced. The questionnaires and fees can be turned in any time today to 115 Carnegie hall.

Chapel Choir Schedules Christmas Story Music

Traditional and familiar Christmas music, chosen as appropriate to the Christmas story of the Bible, will be presented by the College Chapel choir under direction of Willa Taylor at its annual Christmas services tomorrow and Sunday.

As a major portion of the program, the choir will tell the Christmas story through music and the biblical text. Spoken passages will be under the direction of W. W. Hamilton, assistant professor of speech at the College. Gay Brunner, Isabel Cooper, Donald Carlson, and Bryson Craine will assist the choir as solo narrators.

Brasses To Play

Before the program, a brass choir, directed by James W. Dunlop, will play traditional carols and chorales from the tower of Old Main. Members of the brass choir are Eugene Gona, James Colonna, John Leister, and Thomas Strayer, trumpets; and David Fishburn, Harry Newhard, C. Richard Brewer, and Theodore Godshall, trombones. The chorales were transcribed for the brass choir by Donald Smith, '51.

The program will begin with the organ prelude "In Dulci Jubilo" by Bach, played by George Ceiga, chapel organist. Next will be the chorale "From Heaven High to Earth I Fare," arranged by Schein with a cornet solo by Eugene Golla, after which the audience will join the choir in the singing of the Christmas hymns "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," and "Adeste Fidelis."

As an offertory, Mr. Ceiga will play two chorale preludes by Bach, "A Babe Is Born in Bethlehem," and "To Shepherds as they Watched by Night."

(Continued on page two)

Large Crowd Hears Debate

About 100 people heard the College debaters oppose a team from Bucknell last night in a no-decision meet in 305 Sparks.

The College team defended the negative side of the question Resolved: That the non-communist nations should form a new international organization. William Nicholls and Ernest Kessler represented Bucknell while Paul Litwak and Gene Bouch argued for State. The chairman for the debate was professor Cole Brembeck of the College speech department.

After the debate the audience participated in an open forum.

The affirmative side claimed that a new world order is needed to combat Russian federation and propaganda. The Bucknell debaters proposed that military and economic councils be set up in this new world order.

The negative team replied by saying that there must be proof the UN has failed and also proof that communism has caused this failure.

Tuberculosis Tests

Students who were given tuberculosis tests on Tuesday should report to the Dispensary today in order to get a valid reading.

Only
8
Shopping
Days
till
Christmas