Sailer Speaks On Red China

Friendly feeling between China and the United States would have resulted if this country had given up the Nationalist party and accepted the Communists when General Marshall's attempt to form a coalition government failed.

This was the essence of a talk by Dr. Randolph Sailer, on leave in this country from the University of Peking, before 100 persons Tuesday night at an open PSCA meeting. Dr. Sailer lived under the Communist government 18 months.

"Contrary to popular belief, Communists do command a very large proportion of popular support in China," he said. "Many thoughtful people, including the very powerful group of students, welcome the Reds."

The communists appeal to the people because the "new officials live simply, work hard, do not graft, and immediately entered into all sorts of constructive activities," he said.

"Sending the American fleet to Formosa was a fatal step," Dr. Sailer said, "because it was continuing a very unfortunate policy."

Crossing the 38th parallel was also a fatal step, because we then approached Manchuria, and China naturally entered the war, he said.

We must not say "no appeasement" or "no withdrawal" in the East, the educator said. The Chinese do not want America to force anti-Communist leaders on them, he said.

Hatmen Discuss Frosh Customs

Hat societies council discussed freshman customs for the spring semester at a meeting Tuesday night, and decided to recommend to All-College cabinet that custom become automatic for all incoming freshmen.

The decision was unanimous from all members although a quorum was not present to do official business, Robert Fast, president of the group, said. The council agreed that since automatic customs had been the procedure before the war, it should be the same now.

The council also agreed that customs rules should be revised in part and the period of time shortened. Fast named a two to three week period as a possibility.

In addition, the council talked over proposed constitutional changes. No action was taken, however, due to the absence of many of the members. Attendance at the council meetings has been very poor. Fast added.

'Antigone'

has the quiet dignity the role requires.

Especially impressive are Robert Klein as the oracle "Tiresias" and Peter Farrell as the "Chorus." Others who performed satisfactorily are Moylan Mills as the sentry and Robert Flick as the messenger, and Sonya Goldstein as a boy.

A combination of everything—the play itself, its formal structure and presentation, George Geiga's "mood music" on the organ, the lighting and costumes, and above all the chorus, which was superb—these elements made "The Antigone of Sophocles" much more than the mere theatrical experiment it started out to be six weeks ago.

Educators Urge Deferment Plan

The Association of American Colleges unanimously recommended Wednesday that draft-age students be permitted to complete the current school year and that deferments be granted students who have completed two years of college by the end of the current academic year.

The educators, representing 900 Colleges, urged Congressional action to stop a "panic" exodus of students from campuses. The exodus was brought on, it was said, by the desire of students to enter the branch of service they wanted. Under present regulations, a student may not enlist after he has been called for a physical.

Accordingly, the educators urged Congress to amend the present law to allow students to enlist when their deferments expire.

The association also recommended:

1. The deferment of medical, theological, and some graduate students.

2. That students who are not inducted before the opening of an academic year should be notified that they will be allowed to finish that year.

3. That college training of capable young men after they have been inducted.

4. Immediate planning for the proper utilization of college-trained men and women.

Rev. Korte Asks IFC's Support

The Rev. Edwerth Korte of the Lutheran Students' association, explaining the Religion-in-Life program to the Interfraternity council Wednesday night, asked fraternities to cooperate by inviting visiting speakers to live at the fraternity houses during the four-day period.

Harold Leinbach, IFC president, asked fraternities to cooperate in the housing and feeding of the 22 speakers.

Curtiss Wessner, vice-president of IFC, told the council that Ray Anthony had been contracted for the IFC-Panhellenic council ball to be held April 6. IFC decided to have a commercial company do the decorating for the ball.

IFC decided to have an informal open house for freshmen Feb. 18 to acquaint freshmen with fraternities.

Plans were also discussed to sponsor a displaced person at one of the fraternity houses. Exchange students from seven foreign countries are available to come to Penn State through special State Department visas, Leinbach said.
