The Short, Short, And Long Of How To Kiss Farewell

By BETTINA DePALMA

Hostesses in the women's dormitories are very broadminded women. One such modern housemother realizes that there comes a time when young men like to kiss their young dates a fond farewell. With the best interests of a crowded lobby in mind, the hostess recommended that the kisses be limited to two short and one long.

The recommendation was made very simply and innocently; carrying out the command was a more involved task.

The question arose, "How long is the long one?"

Honor System

At first, the couples were put on the honor system. The hostess thought they would hold their breath; she didn't expect the kisses to be longer than a minute.

But the couples were ingenious. They breathed.

In balmy weather, the order was easy to keep. The lobby and lounges catered only to newcomers. Winter came in. So did the rest of the couples. Furtively did the oldtimers sneak in a few more short, several more long ones.

The hostess became panicky. Something Had To Be Done. Timers were placed in the lobby. When a couple was ready, the Timer would stand and count, "one, two, three-ee-ee-ee."

Underwater Swimmer

Some Timers became more popular than others. One, who was a champion underwater swimmer, was in great demand. Her three-ee-ee-ee was longer than any other.

The situation was still not solved. Petitions flooded the hostess' office, asking for just one more long. She remained firm.

Now the case is being put before the student government. They will debate the psychological, sociological, philosophical, and human aspects of the problem.

Time-Clocks

One suggestion offered by a student council member was that timeclocks be placed in lobbies. He claimed this would eliminate the prejudices against certain Timers, and keep an accurate check on the couples.

WRA Chairmen Announced By Dance Head

Committee chairmen for the WRA Sweetheart dance were named by Nancy Worthington, dance chairman, at a meeting of the WRA executive board Tuesday night.

The committees and their heads for this girl-ask-boy affair are: tickets, Nancy Showers; invitation, Marilyn Porter; decoration, Margaret Beck; coat checking, Jean Berg; refreshment, Betty Lou Jones; finance, Janet Herd; and publicity, Carolyn Barrett.

Tickets for the dance, which will be held Saturday, Feb. 17 from 9 to 12 p.m. in White hall, will be on sale at Student Union and at the door the night of the dance. The $1.50 admission charge per couple will include refreshments and dancing to the music of Jack Huber and his orchestra. Polly Potter will be the featured vocalist.

This semi-formal dance is sponsored annually by the Woman's Recreation association. This year some of the proceeds, along with contributions from Cwens and Chimes, will be sent to a ten-year-old Dutch girl, Theodora Buurman, who is a war orphan adopted by WRA last year.

Meanwhile, a truce has been called. The hostess sits in her office and despairs the lack of organization in the lobby. The couples kiss away.
