LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 12 (AP)—The 38th parallel in Korea became politically hot again today just as the U.N. finally completed the good offices committee that will try to stop the fighting.

U.N. observers predicted the issue of crossing the parallel, the old border between North and South Korea, would be the first major headache of the committee. Red China already has announced she would ignore the body.

Davis Appoints Committee For Spring Week

The formation of the committee for Spring week was completed at last Thursday's meeting of All-College cabinet by President Robert Davis.

Curtis Wessner and William Zakor were named co-chairman of the committee at a previous meeting.

Davis also reactivated the committee of the recently completed Campus chest drive. The group, headed by Herbert Axford, will begin preparations for next year's fund campaign.

The vice-president and secretary-treasurer of the freshman class were inaugurated at the meetings. Bernard Kelly and Neida Fralich were installed in those offices by Davis.

Appointees to the Spring week committee were: Harold Leinbach, business manager; Marlin Brenner, assistant business manager; Dave Shemukler, publicity and advertising manager; and Milton Bernstein, arrangements manager. Robert Fast was appointed booth director; Barbara Sprengle and Edward Shanken will be special events directors; and parade and coronation directors will be Clair George and Jane Ashenfelter.

Alpha Phi Omega will be in charge of the general clean-up after the celebration. The clean-up director will be Herbert Axford.

Debaters Reach Team Semi-finals

Members of the College Men's debate squad were defeated in the semi-finals of the team division of the Boston university debate tourney last week-end. More than 50 college teams competed.

In the tournament each team entry took part in a preliminary six rounds, alternately defending the affirmative and negative positions of this year's national inter-collegiate debate question, "Resolved: That the non-communist nations should form a new international organization."

Marlin Brenner and David Lewis, representing Penn State tourney, won four of their preliminary six rounds in order to qualify for the semi-finals.

They defeated New York university, the University of Vermont, the Massachusetts institute of technology, and Providence college, but Tufts college and Brooklyn college won decisions over them.

After the preliminary six rounds, the four teams which qualified for the semi-finals were Notre Dame, Yale, the University of Pennsylvania and Penn State. Penn State was defeated by Penn, which lost in the finals to Notre Dame, defending champions of the tournament.

Robert Alderdice of the College squad represented Penn State in the extemporaneous speaking division of the meet. He was eliminated in the preliminary bouts.

J. F. O'Brien, professor of public speaking and coach of the squad, accompanied the team members to Boston.

Successor To Myers

John J. Schanz, instructor in mineral economics, has been named acting chief of the division of mineral economics. He succeeds Prof. William M. Myers, former chief of the division, who died Jan. 25.

Activity Cards Will Be Filed In Dean's Office

The approximately 6000 activities cards filled out by male students during registration will be sent to the dean of men's office for filing early this week, according to James Worth, chairman of All-College cabinet's male activities card committee.

Worth said the card files would be open for one week in the near future to enable male students to add information to them. The files will then be closed to individuals and groups except school councils and organizations screened by the dean of men's office, Worth said.

The committee has drawn up a tentative plan for the future organizations and management of the files. The dean of men's office, which will administer the files, will make out an activity card for all new male students beginning with the next fall semester, according to Worth.

TO BE FILED IN SU

Worth said campus organizations would then send a list of their members to Student Union where the school councils would obtain the information and note it on the cards in the dean of men's office. Worth said the committee was intending to explain this set up to all organizations before it is put in effect.

Each male student's advisor will note his all-College average on the cards, according to Worth. He said the advisors will get the cards from the school councils which will take them from the dean of men's office for that purpose.

Worth said the cards will be placed permanently in alumni files when the male students graduate. The files will give the dean of men a record of the activities and all-College average of each male, he said. Worth added that a complete report of the committee's work would be given to cabinet in the near future.

Script Awards To Total $1000

Prizes totaling more than $1000 will be awarded to winners in the annual National Script contest, according to Dr. Sherman P. Lawton, University of Oklahoma radio professor and contest chairman.

All students in accepted colleges are eligible to compete and must submit their entries by March 31. Dramatic or non-dramatic scripts written for radio or television will be accepted.

Scripts should be mailed to Dr. Lawton at the University of Oklahoma, Norman, Okla.

The contest is sponsored by the Association for Education by Radio, the Protestant Radio commission, station WJJD of Chicago, World Book Encyclopedia, Audio Devices, Inc., and A.E.R. chapters.

Special additional awards were established for scripts that are of educational value, suitable for home or school recording, based on American history, or concern religion. Contest winners will be announced about May 1.

NSA Discusses Schwab Concert

Plans for a jazz concert on Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. in Schwab auditorium, with music by Gene Whitmer, were discussed at the meeting of the National Student association Thursday night.

Profits from the concert will be used to further the NSA educational film program. Ella Lou Williams will head the committee which will present motion pictures and speakers on various phases concerning students.

Edward Shanken, chairman of the committee on student transportation, said that improved bus service in getting students home for Christmas vacation was a step in the right direction. After a discussion the committee was instructed to write to the traffic managers of the bus depots in the larger cities to ask them to have more buses ready to take students back to the College.

Murray Goldman, faculty and course rating committee chairman, said that he was ready to publish booklets concerning course re-evaluation.

The campus travel bureau will give information to students planning to take summer tours abroad and aid them in making preliminary contacts for their travel.

Newly installed officers of Phi Sigma Sigma sorority are Regina Friedman, archon; Judy Lippman, vice-archon; and Shirley Nast, scribe.

Announce Rules For Snack Bar Naming Contest

Rules governing the contest to select a name for the West dorm snack bar were announced yesterday. A $5 prize in merchandise at the snack bar is being offered by the West dorm council and the College Food service.

The judges are Mildred A. Baker, director of the Food Service department; Samuel K. Hostetter, College comptroller; Frank J. Simes, chief resident adviser for the men's dormitories; Marian Knepper, food supervisor of the snack bar; and Thomas Durek, West dorm council president.

The winner and the name for the snack bar will be announced Feb. 21.

The rules:

1. Each entry must be submitted on the reverse of a snack bar receipt.
2. Only one entry may be submitted per receipt. A contestant may, however, submit an unlimited number of entries.
3. Each entry must bear the name, address, and the date of submission.
4. In case of duplication, the earliest entry will be chosen.
5. Entries must be placed in the box inside the snack bar entrance that will be provided for the purpose.
6. The contest will run from 10 a.m. today to 1 a.m., Friday.
7. The decision of the judges will be final.

Cork Co. Signs Norton, McMahon

Negley Norton and Harry McMahon, 1950 graduates of the College, have been assigned to the Buffalo and New York district offices of the Armstrong Cork company, respectively.

While at Penn State, Norton was co-captain of the football team. McMahon was All-College vice-president.

Bar Bell Club To Meet

Muscles may be left at home, but all persons with weight-lifting ambitions can attend the Penn State Bar Bell club meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Recreation room of McKee hall.

George Heller will head the meeting which is open to all interested persons including those with previous experience.

Hillel Group To Meet

The Hillel Folk Dance group will have its first meeting of the semester at 7:30 tonight at the Hillel foundation.

Mrs. Jane Shepperd is director of the group, which specializes in Jewish and Israeli folk dancing.

Parallel Reported Crossed

Official reports from Korea, later contradicted, said a South Korean force had crossed the parallel again.

Prime Minister Attlee told the House of Commons that Gen. Douglas MacArthur, U.N. Commander in Korea, should not send troops across the old border until there has been "full consultation with the United Nations."

Some U.N. delegates have said MacArthur has enough authority under existing U.N. resolutions to pursue the Communists into North Korea—if the U.N. forces can do so. But others have said that the crossing of the 38th parallel last fall by the U.N. soldiers brought Red China into the Korean conflict. They favor having the armies stop in the vicinity of the parallel in an effort to establish an atmosphere more favorable for peace.

Red China Called Aggressor

The resolution creating the good offices committee also branded Red China an aggressor in Korea and set up a 14-man committee to study how the U.N. could punish her for aggression. But many delegates indicated they were pinning hopes on the good offices committee before considering punishments.

Communist China attacked the Assembly resolution and made it plain it would have nothing to do with the three-man group.

The General Assembly will meet tomorrow at 3 p.m. Before it will be a report from the political committee that Russian resolutions hitting at the United States were rejected in the committee.

One resolution charged the U.S. with aggression against Formosa and the other asked the U.N. to stop American planes from bombing Chinese territory.
