Stalin Says U.S. Leads UN To War

MOSCOW, Feb. 16 —(P)— Prime Minister Stalin said tonight the United Nations is dooming itself to disintegration, with the United States leading it toward war. He declared American forces face defeat in Korea unless Washington and London accept Communist China's terms for a Far East settlement.

Stalin pictured the Korean War as extremely unpopular with American soldiers, and said this explained western defeats there.

First Big Statement

The Soviet leader made these statements in his first major announcement on international affairs since early 1949. He attacked as "shameful" the U.N. decision branding Communist China an aggressor in Korea. The U.N., he said, has become an organization for Americans which is being turned into "a means for unleashing a new war."

"The United Nations organization is taking the inglorious road of the League of Nations," he declared. "In this way it is burying its moral prestige and dooming itself to disintegration."

War Not Inevitable

Stalin said a new world war "at least at the present time cannot be considered inevitable." At the same time, he asserted war may become inevitable "if the warmongers succeed in entangling the masses of the people in lies." As for the Soviet Union, he said it will follow a policy of averting war and maintaining peace.

Senators Attack Stalin Statement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 —(P)— Senators tonight labelled as "propaganda" Prime Minister Stalin's pronouncement that Russia seeks peace and the West seeks war.

At the State Department, top officials began an immediate study of the long Stalin interview published in Pravda.

Initial reaction of authorities as to why it came just now was cautious, but inclined to the theory that Stalin intended primarily to give a new lift to Russia's "peace" offensive.

The purpose of this offensive, according to officials here, is to confuse and split the Western allies.

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Ia.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said the Stalin statement was "just the same old Communist malarkey and propaganda."

"If he really wants peace all Stalin has to do is lift the iron curtain and deal with other nations on a basis of peaceful intentions," Hickenlooper said.

Phys Ed Council Discusses Paper

The Physical Education student council discussed plans Thursday night to republish the now-defunct Physical Education student paper, Discobolus.

The publication, which was discontinued two years ago, will be edited by regular physical education students. The first date of issue was not known.

The council also announced that the school's placement booklet, which will contain the names and special aptitudes of approximately 80 graduating seniors, should be ready for distribution by the second week in March. These pamphlets are sent out to different school principals throughout the state.

Brown To Talk On Religion Week Theme In Chapel

Using the theme selected for Religion-in-Life week at the College, "Mature Persons In World Crisis," Dr. Kenneth Irving Brown, director of the Danforth foundation, will give the keynote address for the week at the chapel service in Schwab auditorium tomorrow at 11 a.m.

Other leaders for the week will be speaking in the churches of the community as the annual observance of Religion-in-Life week at the College gets underway.

Rochester Alum

The Chapel choir will present music entitled "Cantate Domino," (Pitoni). The choir is under the direction of Mrs. Willa Taylor of the Music department and is accompanied by George Ceiga at the organ.

Kenneth Irving Brown

Dr. Brown is an alumnus of the University of Rochester which later conferred upon him an honorary degree. He received both his master's and doctor's degrees from Harvard university. After teaching English for a time at Harvard, he accepted the position of Biblical literature at Stevens College, Columbia, Mo.

Hiram President

Between 1930 and 1940 he served the president of Hiram college and from there went to Denison university as its president. In 1950 he began his present work.

Receipts At BX

Students can pick up receipts or book turned in at the BX, Monday to Saturday, from 8:30 a.m. to 12 p.m. and from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Books left after Monday, March 12, become the property of the used book agency, BX officials said. There is a charge of ten cents for the selling of the books.

Deadline Is Set For Pivot Poetry

Poetry contributions to Pivot, student verse magazine scheduled for publication in April, must be turned in by March 20, James Heffley, editor, said Thursday night.

All efforts may be placed in J. L. Grucci's mailbox in 231 Sparks, he said. Grucci, assistant professor of English composition, is the magazine's adviser.

The magazine will be 6 by 9 inches in size and will contain 16 pages, Heffley said. It will sell for 25 cents.

Heffley defined the poetry to be used in the magazine as any effort at humor or seriousness. The poems should be short, he said.

Staff members elected at the meeting were Peter Whelan and Marilyn Levitt, assistant editors; Paul Beighley, secretary-treasurer; and Yvonne Carter, business manager.

Awards Available For Oslo School

Four scholarships worth approximately $350 each for a summer session at the University of Oslo, Norway, will be made available to American and Canadian students. The Association of Electro-Chemical and Electro-Metallurgical Industries of Norway is sponsoring the awards which are to be known as the Ralph Bunche scholarships.

The scholarships will be awarded by the association in honor of Dr. Bunche who was recently presented the Nobel prize.

Candidates should apply to Dean Norman Nordstrand, Oslo Summer School for American Students, St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

The 1951 session of the summer school opens June 23 and closes Aug. 4.

Eisenhower To Deliver Religion-In-Life Speech

President Milton S. Eisenhower's speech in Schwab auditorium Monday night will be the highlight of Religion-in-Life week which begins tomorrow morning.

In his address, President Eisenhower will discuss the religious backgrounds of American democratic institutions. He will trace the main streams of the development of democracy and statism and will contend that the significant difference between the two is the issue of belief in God.

The five-day program is Penn State's part of National Brotherhood week. The campus program will officially open with an address by Dr. Kenneth Irving Brown at the College chapel services tomorrow morning.

Special Services

Special Religion-in-Life services will be held at the regular church services tomorrow morning, and at student religious group meetings tomorrow night. Tomorrow afternoon a reception for guest speakers will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. in Simmons lounge. All program leaders, faculty members, and students are invited.

Tonight a special radio program will be broadcast over WMAJ from 6:15 to 6:30 p.m. Joan Hutchon and Emerson Jones, co-chairmen of the program, and Ralph Cash will answer questions concerning the five-day program on the campus. William Klisanin, chairman of the radio committee, will preside during the program. A religious concert will be broadcast over WMAJ from 7 to 7:30 tomorrow night. Religious music of all faiths will be played, Klisanin said. Fifteen minute programs with guest speakers will also be broadcast every morning at 8:30.

ICG Will Enter Model Congress At Harrisburg

Penn State's Intercollegiate Conference on Government will participate in a model congress in Harrisburg in April, Richard Bard, chapter president, announced yesterday.

The congress will be part of the 15th annual convention of ICG.

Bard said the congress will be unicameral, and congressional committees will be established to receive and report on bills submitted by member school delegations. A speaker and clerk will be elected by the participating delegates.

50 Members

ICG is composed of about 50 member colleges throughout Pennsylvania, Bard said. Each year the colleges have a model convention, he said. Last year a model state constitutional convention was held.

The Penn State chapter, a member of the central region, will hold a regional meeting at Hershey Junior college March 3, Bard said. This will be a full dress rehearsal for the main convention, he said.

Congress Committees

Committees established for the model congress are agriculture, commerce, education, foreign affairs, health and welfare, judiciary, labor, military affairs, taxation and finance, veteran affairs, natural resources, and governmental organization and civil service.

The local chapter meets every Monday at 7 p.m. in 107 Willard hall, Bard said. During the meetings, parliamentary procedure is discussed and practiced.

William Klisanin, student at the College, is the assistant regional chairman.

Music Honorary To Give Concert

As the first such program ever presented at Penn State, the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, honorary music fraternity, is preparing a collection of original music for the spring concert Sunday, Feb. 25.

By stressing compositions written by students at the College, the fraternity is establishing a precedent, Jack Huber, president of the organization, said. The concert, an annual affair, is open to the public, he said. It will be held in Schwab auditorium.

Most At Music Schools

Penn State's chapter is one of 115 in the nation, and only one other-Mansfield-is located in Pennsylvania. The majority of the chapters are located only at music schools, Huber said.

"For this reason, Penn State's chapter, with members other than music majors, has real competition within the fraternity," he said.

Last Convention

At the last convention, held at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, the Penn State chapter's radio project was praised. The project, headed by Darrell Rishel of Mt. Union, presents three programs of classical music each week over WMAJ. Special mention was made in the fraternity's national publication, Huber said.

This year's concert will include a variety of instrumental combinations, as well as organ and vocal numbers. Only the vocal and organ numbers will be other than original music.
