

2 Mounties Guard Forestry Building

Standing impassively, in permanently-posed positions as stuffed animals are wont to do, are two huge bears on guard in the Forestry building.

They were shot by Newton E. Hess, a State College big game hunter, and were originally museum specimens of his own. However, after his death, the bears were presented to the College by his sons, John and Samuel.

These fugitives from a taxidermist are Kodiaks, named for their habitat—Kodiak Island, Alaska. The largest bears in existence, they subsist on a daily diet of fish.

The two Kodiaks on display in the Forestry building, though stuffed and immobile, evoke squeals of terror from visiting moppets of the College nursery. And, co-eds, too.

FFA To Give Gold Awards

Forty-nine seniors in Agricultural Education will be presented the gold charm of the Collegiate degree in the Future Farmers of America at the annual FFA banquet to be held tomorrow night at 6:30 in the Methodist church.

The awards will be made by Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the School of Agriculture. The group will begin practice teaching March 28. Outstanding vocational agriculture instructors from high schools where the seniors will be teaching will attend the banquet. A conference of the teachers and seniors will be held on Saturday.

Principal speaker at the banquet will be H. C. Fetterolf, chief of Agricultural Education in Pennsylvania. He has been state supervisor of Agricultural Education for over 35 years, and has served as an educational consultant for the American Military government in Germany and Korea.

A half-hour before the dinner will be spent as a get-acquainted session for the teachers and the students, George Alleman, FFA committee head, said. Dinner will begin at 7 p.m.

Walter Butz, chapter chairman, will be toastmaster. Group singing and special selections by the FFA chorus will be in charge of Floyd Rough.

Ripley To Speak To Poultry Club

H. D. Ripley, manager of the Swift & Company branch at Chambersburg, will speak before the Penn State Poultry club at its meeting tonight in 204 Horticulture.

A business meeting will be held at 7 o'clock, and Ripley will speak at 8 o'clock. He will discuss the qualities the Swift company looks for in a graduate, and will suggest courses for undergraduates, according to Charles Zellner, club president.

All students and faculty are invited to attend the meeting, Zellner said.

Mr. Ripley will spend Thursday afternoon and Friday morning on campus interviewing poultry majors.

112th Aircraft Squadron Publishes 'Pip Sheet'

"The Pip Sheet," a two-page mimeographed sheet, is published every two weeks by members of State College's 112th Aircraft Control and Warning squadron.

The paper is distributed to the 200 men in the squadron, and also to members of Lewistown's squadron. It is edited by members of State College's squadron, and present staff members are S/Sgt. George Vose, and Pvts. Robert Schooley and Paul Poorman.

The name is taken from the name "pip" given to marks on a radar screen.

Mourant At Conference

Dr. J. A. Mourant, head of the Department of Philosophy, is attending the Southern conference on the "Philosophy of Religion" which is being held at the University of Virginia.

Dr. Mourant left for Charlottesville yesterday and will remain at the university until the conference concludes on Sunday.

Journalists Get Travel Offers

A "Foreign Assignment" program for students of journalism, working journalists, and all those interested in evaluating the contemporary scene in Europe is being sponsored by Travel & Study, inc., an organization for study abroad, in New York City, for the third successive year.

Students will observe current political, economic, and social conditions in England, France, Switzerland, Western Germany, and Scandinavia. They will be received by the local press associations in several of the larger cities in Europe where they will visit editorial rooms and attend regular press conferences. Lectures and seminars will be held for the students.

The "Foreign Assignment" program has been approved by the American Council on Education for Journalism and by the American Association of Accredited Schools and Departments of Journalism.

Further information may be obtained from Travel & Study, inc., 110 East 57th street, New York 22, N.Y.

Orator Contest To Be Planned

Instruction and material for those students interested in representing Penn State at the first district contest of the ninth annual Tournament of Orators to be held in April will be discussed at a meeting to be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock in 312 Sparks.

The subject of this year's contest sponsored by the New York Journal American is George Washington. Up to $1000 in bonds, a Longine watch, and a free trip to California are the awards for the winner. Tryouts for Penn State will be held April 1.

Anyone unable to attend today's preliminary meeting is asked to report his name to Miss Emery in the speech office at 300 Sparks, and make arrangements to meet with Dr. Iline Fife, assistant professor of speech, who has charge of the contest.

Language Dept. Offers French Jazz Records

The Romance Language department's radio program "The Music of the Nations" will offer authentic records of "le jazz hot" tonight at 8:30 over WMAJ.

The records are from a collection of Ernest J. Barry, instructor in the Romance Language department, and will feature the famous French jazz clarinetist Claude Luter. Luter interprets New Orleans style jazz in a Parisian manner.

Test Results Available

Results of the educational and vocational guidance tests, administered by the Student Advisory service during spring orientation week, are ready for distribution.

Students interested in having these results should make an appointment at the Psychological Clinic annex, in the basement at the rear of the Women's building.

State Club Clears $530 From Show

The Penn State club received a net profit of $530.90 from the recent all-College talent show.

The report was presented at the regular meeting of the club Tuesday night.

Plans for next week's initiation ceremony were discussed and a special committee appointed to arrange details. The committee is composed of Robert Fraser, Joseph Bower, and Wayne Homan. The initiation ceremony will be conducted at a special meeting next Tuesday in 405 Old Main at 7 p.m.

Moylan Mills reported on the scheduled theatre party. He announced that the club will attend the final performance of "Gentle People" at Center Stage, Friday night, March 16. Only those members who sign the list now posted in the club room will be able to attend, he said.

Lewis Hoover, social chairman, discussed with the members the type of social activities they would be interested in holding. Peter Lansbury, Neal Lehman, and John Mounts were appointed to the social committee.

Vice-president Mills reported that keys and pins have been received. They will be sold through the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Team To Map Cadet Program

A U.S. Air Force Selection team will be in 109 Willard next week to provide all juniors and seniors at the College with information concerning the Aviation Cadet program, Major G. F. Brodie, who is arranging the visit, said yesterday.

Brodie said the team will be equipped to process any student who qualifies for the program.

He said there are three courses of training that a student can qualify for. They are aviation cadet pilot training, navigator training, and the Air Force Officer candidate school for administrative and technical positions.

Political Economy Group Organized

The Political Economy club at the College was officially organized Monday night by the passage of its charter.

Officers elected at the meeting were Marlin Remick, chairman; Marlin Brenner, vice chairman; Rudolph Ciccarella, executive secretary; Fred Keefer, corresponding secretary; Dori Spielberg, recording secretary; and David Fitzcharles, treasurer. Dr. Peter Senn was elected faculty advisor to the group.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held early next month, Remick said.

To Symbolize Poetry

Professor Helen Adolph of the German department will speak to the Philosophy club on "The Maiden" as a symbol in poetry tonight at 8 o'clock in 203 Willard hall.

This is the club's second meeting of the year. The meeting is open to the public.

Newman Group To Meet

Dr. H. D. Rix, assistant professor of physics at the College, will be in charge of this week's lecture-discussion of the Reformation sponsored by the Newman club. It will meet in 106 Osmond at 7 o'clock tonight.

Eng Council Favors Finals Plan, Petition

Motions to back NSA's absentee voting petition and cabinet's proposal to abolish eighth-semester final exams were passed unanimously by the Engineering student council Tuesday night.

After suggestions by Council President Ray Miller that the council support both issues, and even go so far as to send a letter to Harrisburg in connection with the voting bill, the council members displayed unanimous agreement.

Committee Reports
The committee on formation of a student concessions association reported that it was still working with the administration in an effort to get the plan into operation. The committee indicated that the scope of the plan had been narrowed down considerably from its original form.

The acceptance into council of a representative from Sigma Epsilon, new sanitary engineering fraternity, also met with unanimous approval. Sigma Epsilon was explained by its president, Edward Calder, as a semi-honorary, semi-professional organization. It received its charter from the College in January.

Set Poster Prizes
Council also voted to set aside $10 from its fund as prize money for the architect's poster contest to be held during engineering open house on May 12. There will be a $5-first prize, $3-second prize, and $2-third prize.

A committee to get pencil sharpeners placed throughout the buildings of the school was reorganized. Council members cited the need for sharpeners in the halls, and suggested that Dean Harry P. Hammond and the department heads be contacted on the matter.

Sing Director To Be Chosen

Fraternity and sorority representatives will choose a director of the annual Interfraternity council-Panhellenic council sing at 7 o'clock tonight in 303 Willard, according to James Wharton and Lyn Levitt, sing co-chairmen.

The sing is scheduled for April 1-3. The first two nights will be eliminations. A winner will be chosen from the finalists the third night.

Wharton said the representatives will also decide on sing positions for the participating groups, and review the rules.

One rule has been changed, according to Wharton. He said two fraternity winners will be chosen each night of eliminations. Previously only one fraternity winner was chosen. Wharton said this means four fraternities will be in the finals with the two sorority finalists.

Wharton said the required songs would be "Blue and White" and a fraternity or sorority song. Last year's winners were Beta Theta Pi fraternity and Delta Gamma sorority.

IRRA Meets Tonight

The Industrial Relations Research association will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in 314 Willard, John Dale, publicity officer, announced.

There will be an installation of officers, and a business meeting.

Store Holds Money Hunt

The "Treasure Hunt" begins tonight at 6 o'clock at the College Sportswear store, operated this week by members of the Penn State Christian association.

One hundred dollars in silver coins will be "hidden" in various pieces of merchandise throughout the store, Miss Marjorie Allen, associate secretary of the PSCA said. Customers will find a silver dollar among their purchases if they choose the lucky merchandise.

The first 25 customers this morning and tomorrow morning will also receive flowers with their purchases. Flowers were also given yesterday to the first 25 customers.

The PSCA will continue operating the store until Saturday. Store hours are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Hat Society Discusses Fall Plans

A fall meeting of all hat society men and women alumni was discussed at a meeting of Hat Society council Tuesday night.

The council discussed the possibility of holding the gathering on alumni homecoming weekend, and giving the returning alumni the honor of greeting the football team at the game, in place of undergraduate members. Committees will be appointed by the member hat societies to investigate the proposal.

Lee Suggests Meeting

JoAnn Lee, president of Cwens, suggested that a meeting be held this spring of all hat society members on campus.

The council also continued its review of freshman customs, and several suggestions were presented for next fall's program.

It was suggested that the council differentiate between customs and College regulations. Last fall many of the freshmen women on campus confused the customs program with official College regulations, according to Robert Fast, council president.

Discuss Printing Rules

The council discussed the possibility that custom regulations be printed, and include a supplement explaining the purpose behind the customs program.

Fast suggested mailing a brief explanation of the customs program to incoming freshmen, so they will know what they have to do when they arrive on campus.

The suggestions were drawn up at a meeting between William E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs, Pearl O. Weston, dean of women; H. K. Wilson, dean of men; Neal See, president of tribuna; and Robert Fast, president of Hat Society council.

Fast read a letter from William E. Kenworthy explaining that several complaints had been received about hat men wearing their hats indoors. The council suggested that in the future hat men remove their hats indoors.

History Professor To Speak at PCW On European Aid

Professor A. G. Pundt, head of the Department of History at the College will speak on "Armaments and European Aid" at the Pennsylvania College for Women in Pittsburgh on Saturday morning.

The Progressive Society of the American Friends committee is sponsoring the Pittsburgh meeting. Several panel speakers will talk on some phase of the "Dilemma of American Power." The speeches will start on Friday and last until Sunday. A discussion will follow each of the talks given by the panel participants.

Pundt said that he would be expressing the Quaker viewpoint in regard to armament aid. He said that he favored a constructive program of assistance rather than merely provision of arms.

Musser To Give Talk

H. B. Musser, professor of Agronomy, is speaking on turf experimental work to the Midwest Turf foundation this week.

Musser is reporting research findings with special grasses for airfields, highway berms and shoulders, and golf courses. Leaders interested in grasses have assembled from seven states at the meeting at Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind.
