

Dean's Work Resembles Minister's, Says Weston

By JOAN KUNTZ

The Penn State dean of women's office is responsible for an extensive guidance service, both to individuals and organized women's groups.

Pearl O. Weston, dean of women, says that a dean's job falls into the category of a minister's, or a doctor's, for much of the pay comes in words of gratification from individuals. It's such things as a mother saying, "You have changed the life of my daughter," that make you keep going, Miss Weston said.

Patricia Thompson, Mrs. Cordelia L. Hibbs, Mary E. Brewer, Mrs. Lucille McCracken, and Mrs. Mary B. Taylor are full-time employees of this office.

Miss Thompson Advises Groups
Miss Thompson is a co-adviser to the WSGA senate, adviser to the freshman women's council, Alpha Lambda Delta, Chimes, and Leonides. She is also in charge of students working as checkers in hostesses' offices and with any student concessions.

Along with these duties Miss Thompson works with the orientation crew, composed of 40 to 50 girls picked out of the women's hat societies, in the fall and at mid-semester. She also interviews every new girl since she is in charge of the student personnel record cards.

Mrs. Hibbs Assigns Rooms

In charge of all room assignments is Mrs. Hibbs. She says every girl has a choice of retaining her present room or drawing a number which will specify the time to choose a room from those remaining. The only exception to this is for those who live in sorority suites. Within the next few weeks, Mrs. Hibbs will talk at each dormitory to explain this room placement system.

Mrs. Hibbs' advisory job is that to Mortar Board, senior women's honorary.

Adviser to junior and senior Panhellenic groups, Cwens, house of representative, and senate is Miss Brewer. She is also in charge of all exchange and special dinners as well as the filing of all social events such as inter-sorority.

Special Assistance

Help is given to girls in the areas of employment, scholarship and loans. There are some seven scholarships and ten loan funds available for needy students and the deans office recommends girls for these. They also try to match employers and girls desiring employment in the State College area.

Students having academic difficulties, family relations, social life, health problems, and vocation decisions to make are all given words of advice in 105 Old Main.

Student records for every undergraduate woman are filed in the office. Employment, personnel, and alumnae cards are kept on each woman.

Issuing excuses for special reasons is another job of this office. Death in the family, serious illness in family, relatives on furlough, and job interviews are some of the excuses granted.

The dean of women's office has a vast amount of work to do as you can see from the above services it offers.

Triplets Have Birthdays Wed., Thurs., Friday

By DAVE TAYLOR

JONESVILLE, La., March 7 (AP)—Lester Hardie's one-a-day triplets celebrated their first birthday today with a lusty party in the best nautical tradition.

While the family houseboat bobbed on the Ouachita River, Papa Hardie, skipper of his 10-child crew, broke out a double portion of ice cream and cake for all hands.

Mama Hardie's morning washing fluttered from the houseboat's mast like the gayly-colored signal flags on a big ocean liner.

Actually today was Jodie Hardie's birthday. He, the male member of the trio, was born on March 7 a year ago. Julie followed the next day, March 8, and Judie ended the unusual birth when she arrived the third day, March 9.

Drooled Ice Cream

Today the triplets thoroughly enjoyed the event by drooling ice cream and white cake frosting on their crisply-ironed yellow dresses.

Dr. N. G. Nasif, the physician who spent three days delivering the triplets, couldn't attend because of illness.

It was strictly a family affair although houseboat neighbors sent gifts and candy.

The famous threesome enjoyed a stroll around the deck—the front porch—after their ice cream. The porch is enclosed in chicken wire to keep the children from falling into the river.

"I expect they'll be swimming before their next birthday," Mrs. Hardie declared.

Life On Boat Seems To Agree
Dr. Nasif had expressed concern about the triplets returning to the family boat after their birth. But if the river life doesn't agree with the tots, it doesn't show.

To observe their first birthday, the triplets came through a flood that covered a million acres of land last spring and the worst ice storm in recent years, last month. Jodie survived a siege of flu and Judie had pneumonia during the year.

Jodie weighs 22 pounds, Judie 19, and Julie 18.

Plea Delays Action On Hutton's Suit

MEXICO CITY, March 7 (AP)—An attorney said here today he had filed a plea in Cuernavaca against Barbara Hutton's effort to divorce Prince Igor Troubetzkoy.

He said the suit, filed in Cuernavaca ten days ago, was still pending until Judge Alfonso Roqueni passes on the plea.

Col. Roscoe B. Gaither, representing the prince's California attorneys, said the plea, "questions the competence of the court because of lack of personal notification."

He indicated its effect, if accepted, would be to throw the divorce suit out of the Cuernavaca court or at least delay consideration of the Woolworth heiress' petition perhaps two years.
