

Eisenhower Creates Advisory Council For Policy Consideration

President Milton S. Eisenhower yesterday announced the creation of a College Advisory council of 25 persons to consider and make recommendations on administrative policy and related matters.

The council will consider matters initiated by itself and those submitted to it by other groups, members or officers of the College, Eisenhower said.

The faculty in each of the eight undergraduate schools and Central Extension chose the first members. Deans and department members were not eligible for election.

The elections were held within the past two weeks under a system of proportional representation.

The representatives are: Agriculture—C. O. Dossin, R. E. Larson, J. B. Wasko, and J. E. Wright, Jr.; Chemistry and Physics—Dr. Dorothy Quiggly, Dr. T. S. Oakwood and Dr. R. L. Weber; Education—Dr. R. G. Bernreuter and Mary Jane Wyland; Engineering—J. A. Fox, T. C. Kavanagh, E. S. Rosco and H. I. Tarpley.

Forty-eight Ag Seniors Get Awards

Collegiate chapter degrees will be presented to 48 seniors in agricultural education at 7 o'clock tonight when the College chapter of the Future Farmers of America holds its annual banquet in the Methodist church.

Dr. Lyman Jackson, dean of the School of Agriculture, will make the presentations.

Presented to Ag Ed

The chapter degrees are presented to students after completion of four years in Agricultural Education. Seniors receiving the awards will be student teaching during this semester. Wally Butz, president of the FFA, said.

The showing is sponsored by the West dorm advisers, and will be free.

'The Show Off' Opens Thurs. In Schwab

The Player's production of "The Show Off", George Kelly's comedy about life in Philadelphia in the early 1920's, will run in Schwab auditorium Thursday through Saturday.

Originally produced in 1924, the play was revived last year as the first presentation of Broadway's only arena theater, located in the Hotel Edison.

Director of the Player's production is W. H. Walters. Mesrop Kesdekian is technical director. Sets were designed by Harry Woolever and Joyce Rexford.

Appearing in the title role, Aubrey Piper, will be Richard Hartle. Hartle last year appeared in the Player's productions of "Lillian" and "Romeo and Juliet". He was seen last semester as Victor Fyrrne in "Private Lives."

Joyce Rexford will appear as Mrs. Fisher. She has acted in the Players' production "Kind Lady" and "Ah, Wilderness", and in the thesis production of "Six Characters in Search of an Author."

Exotic India Under Glass

Exotic mysteries of the Far East are captured under glass by the Penn State Christian association in observance of India Week, ending Sunday.

Four glass encased tables in the main lobby of the Pattee library, are covered with colorful and skilled handiwork from the many parts of India. There are mirror embroidered caps from Jaipur, brass-work from Tanjore, and painted paper-work from Kashmir.

A set of 20 hand-carved Travincore ivory elephants ranging from one inch to three inches in size line one side of a table, while on the other side there is a rosewood elephant table from Madura, South India.

The religious side of Indian life is represented by several kinds of brass temple lamps and silver spoons used in religious ceremonies.

Hand-spun khadis, gold bordered saris, gold and silver embossed purses and silk drapes which are typical of the Indian women's apparel are in another case.

Garlands made from gold filaments, imitation pearl, and pink silk, gold and silver jewelry, native dressed dolls, and small metal hand-carved plates are placed throughout the collection.

Industrial Activity Hits All-time High; Inflation Continues

Pennsylvania industrial activity hit an all-time high in January, but inflation continued unchecked, the College's Bureau of Business Research reported this week.

Industry registered a 21 per cent boom over last January and a two per cent increase over the December levels. But the bureau also noted a dangerous rate of expansion in bank credit and a 16 per cent boost in wholesale prices for the week of Feb. 6 over the beginning of the Korean war.

With 1935-39 as a base level of 100, the bureau reported the Pennsylvania index of industrial activity at 217. The index is measured by industrial power sale, employee hours in manufacturing, and coal production.

Every leading industrial area showed an increase over last year in employment, employee hours, and payrolls.

Mr. R. P. Generaux, manager of the Engineering Service division of the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and company, will talk on the subject "Adjustment of Young Engineers in Industry."

IFC Award Given To Finnish Student

By MOYLAN MILLS

Jean Cronstedt, a 17-year-old Finnish student, is coming to live and study at Penn State.

Jean, outstanding in both scholarship and athletics, will be the recipient of next year's Interfraternity council foreign student award.

Vets Must File For Grad Work

All veterans who will complete their undergraduate work at the College in June, 1951 and who wish to take graduate courses may do so if they file their request with the Veterans administration before the completion of the present semester, the Veterans administration announced yesterday.

In the statement issued by the VA, it was explained that graduate courses may be taken after the statutory delimiting date, July 25, 1951, only if each veteran files a request before the end of the present semester and if the graduate work is undertaken at the start of the following semester.

The statement in full follows: "A veteran who completes undergraduate study in June 1951 and who wishes to progress to a graduate course in September 1951 will be able to do so provided he files his request with the VA prior to the completion of his undergraduate studies in June of 1951, and provided he does enter his graduate course at the end of the summer vacation."

It was also stressed in the report that a change in schools will have no bearing on the veterans' status.

Chem Council Hears Plans

Chemistry-Physics student council decided to look into the matter of having council members serve as representatives of each of the school's undergraduate organizations, Robert Miller, council member, said at a meeting Wednesday.

Miller said that an amendment to the constitution would be necessary if the council approved the idea.

A complete investigation will be made before any action will be taken, he said.

Miller also suggested that the Chem-Phys school cooperate with the Engineering school in sending out letters of invitation to their open houses on May 12. He pointed out that if both schools mention each other's open house in all their letters, publicity for the events will be doubled.

Robert Sharetts, council president, said that since all-College elections are April 18 and 19, Chem-Phys council elections will have to be arranged before that.

Economics Prof Speaks Today

Dr. Bela Gold, associate professor of economics and economics research at the University of Pittsburgh, will speak at the Rural Social Science seminar at 3 p.m. today in 319 Willard hall. He will discuss the type of planning needed in agriculture during this period of mobilization.

The seminar was organized for staff members, graduate students and others interested, by the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology.

Dr. M. E. John, head of the department, said that the seminar was organized to promote the exchange of ideas between members of the faculty and graduate students within the field of the rural social sciences on this as well as other campuses.

At the first session last night, Dr. Ben Euwema, dean of the School of Liberal Arts, discussed the role of general education in land grant institutions.

Engineering Lecture In Schwab Today

There will be a lecture for all students enrolled in Engineering 2 or 3 at 4:10 p.m. today in Schwab auditorium, Dean Harry P. Hammond announced yesterday.

Mr. R. P. Generaux, manager of the Engineering Service division of the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours

The council, with the advice of Harold W. Perkins, assistant dean of men, and C. O. Williams, acting dean of admissions, unanimously approved the candidate from Helsingfors, Finland.

Harold Leinbach, IFC president, said Jean had been highly recommended for the award. A letter Leinbach received from the Institution of International Education said Jean was one of the outstanding Finnish high school gymnasts. Leinbach said Jean would be a valuable addition to the College's gym team.

Deserves Award

The letter also said Jean was the type of boy who deserved the award. "He should be helped if anyone is to be helped," the letter said. Jean's high school headmaster also highly recommended him.

Jean's father was killed in the Finnish-Russian war in 1939. His mother died last Christmas. At present, he is in a private school in Finland after having spent last year at Mercersburg (Pa.) academy as a senior student sponsored by the American Field Service.

Leinbach said Jean has an excellent knowledge of the English language. At present, he ranks among the top five in his class, he said.

Speaks Five Languages

Because of his command of five languages, Jean has chosen a liberal arts course with emphasis on foreign service. Besides his athletic interest, Jean also maintains a strong leaning toward music. He studied at the Sibelius academy in Helsinki and is said to be an excellent violinist.

Leinbach said Jean would probably arrive at Penn State during the summer. He will live in various fraternity houses in order to get an overall picture of the College fraternity system.

Tuition Waived

Under the IFC foreign student plan, Jean will have his fees and tuition waived by the College. IFC will pay for his room, board, books, personal needs, and spending.

Leinbach said IFC feels that bringing Jean to Penn State will not only do much for him but will enable him to contribute something to fraternity men and Penn State.

He added that Jean was a boy with unusually good characteristics. He said that the College fraternity group hopes to round off and complete Jean's education and give him a better understanding of American universities.

Home Ec Club Hears Speaker

"Home Economics Training in Sweden" was the topic of Elsa Haglund, visiting home economist from Stockholm, Sweden, Wednesday night at a meeting of the Home Economics Club.

Plans were made to conduct tours during the Home Economics Spring weekend, April 14 and 15.

The Pennsylvania Home Economics association convention, to be held May 3-5, at York, Pa., was discussed. Interested persons were asked to sign up as delegates.

Flu Vaccine Service Ends Next Week

The special influenza vaccine service to students which started last Monday will continue until the end of next week. Dr. H. R. Glenn, director of the College health service, announced yesterday.

The vaccine is the new A-Prime type and is available to undergraduate and graduate students at 50 cents per student. Injections are available at the dispensary from 8 to 12 a.m. and 1:30 to 8:30 p.m.
