

Dr. Leonard, Econ. Dept. Head, Gets Post With Government

Dr. William N. Leonard, head of the Department of Economics, has been appointed transportation consultant to Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman.

Dr. Leonard will advise Chapman on the transportation requirements of the Interior department in respect to defense program needs. He will begin his work in Washington next week, making a survey of the department's transportation needs.

Dr. Leonard said last night that his new job was on a part-time basis and that he would continue as head of the Economics department. He will be in Washington one or two days a week, he said.

To Work On Committee

In his new assignment Dr. Leonard will represent the Interior department on the inter-agency committee on transportation created by Defense Transportation administrator William A. Knudsen. Dr. Leonard will also represent the department on the requirements committee of the National Production administration. This committee will process the defense materials and equipment program.

Dr. Leonard explained that Interior department handles transportation in five fields: solid fuels, oil and natural gas pipelines, defense minerals, electric utilities, and commercial fisheries. He said that a shortage of railroad boxcars is already causing anxiety and that a shortage of open-top cars is expected later in the year.

Thirty-Six Students Give Blood

Thirty-six College students gave a pint of blood to the Red Cross at the Altoona undergraduate center yesterday.

Five campus groups supplied the volunteers. Alpha Phi Omega supplied nine students, the Association of Independent Men 11, Interfraternity council 11, Leonides four, and Panhellenic council one.

Not Regular Drive

Reece said this drive was not part of the regular Red Cross drive which will be held on campus later in the semester. He said these donations were emergency donations to help the Altoona center fill its quota.

The campus blood drive committee will meet following the Easter vacation, Reece said. This committee is composed of the groups which supplied donors for yesterday's drive plus the State College Red Cross and the State College Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Students Donating Blood

Travel Bureau Open Today From 1 To 5

The National Student association travel bureau will be open again today from 1 to 5 p.m. in the student government room, 204 Old Main, William Klisanin, NSA chairman, said yesterday.

Otto Grupp, co-chairman of the travel bureau, will be in charge. The bureau will plan student trips to Europe for the summer under NSA sponsored tours.

Among the state-supported institutions in the country, the College stands first in funds budgeted for research conducted by its School of Engineering.

Bus Tickets On Sale At Post House

Students wishing to travel on special express busses next Tuesday should buy their tickets at the Greyhound post house before Monday night at 10 o'clock, Edward Shanken, chairman of the National Student association transportation committee, said yesterday.

Shanken said that express-busses would leave State College Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock for Harrisburg, Scranton, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Wilkes-Barre. Arrangements for the transportation were made through George Korman, manager of the post house.

Shanken stressed the importance of buying tickets early so that enough busses would be available on Tuesday.

For the return trip, the busses will travel on the following schedule:

Scranton—for 30 or more students, direct service with no transfer.

Philadelphia—Tuesday, Mar. 27, 1:15 p.m. express will arrive at State College at 7 p.m. The 6:25 p.m. bus will be an express if enough people make reservations.

Pittsburgh—Tuesday, Mar. 27, busses leave at 1:30 p.m. and 6 p.m. Both will be express with only one stop.

Harrisburg—coaches will be provided for any students wishing transportation.

Further information may be obtained from the post house or by calling 4181, Shanken said.

20 Named To La Vie Board

The 20 members of the 1952 La Vie senior board were announced yesterday by William Zakor, editor of the yearbook.

Individual positions on the staff will not be announced until the La Vie banquet at the Eutaw house at 5 o'clock tomorrow night, Zakor said.

The 15 members of next year's senior editorial board are: Jeanine Bell, Janet Bleutge, David Colton, Margaret Doggett, David Fix, Robert Fraser, Leonard Friedman, James Geffert, Vivian Hartenbach, Betty Knerr, Harry McFerran, Virginia Mayes, Robert Vosburg, Greta Weaver, and Stanley Zimmerman.

Members of the art staff are Thecla Jawdy, Daniel Kistler, Christine Leuschner, Edward Richards, and Shirley Vernon.

This year's senior board, next year's senior board, faculty advisers, three members from All-College cabinet who are on the board of directors, and some photographers and printers will attend tomorrow night's banquet. Highlight of the banquet will be the announcement of positions on the 1952 staff, Zakor said.

Dancing was not permitted on campus until 1890. A petition by the students was required to lift the ban.

Debaters Are Serious As Convention Opens

Library Has Bluebook File

Another of the magnificent mysteries of the Nittany Vale came to light yesterday when College librarian Ralph W. McComb disclosed that the Pattee library has been maintaining a file of past examinations.

The file, however, has become out-of-date with the exception of psychology exams, McComb added. Another element was added to the mystery of the file that has grown like Topsy when Prof. Bruce V. Moore, head of the Psychology department, didn't quite know how the rather complete file of past examinations got to the library.

Surprised

Prof. Moore suspects that the work has been done by a committee appointed some time ago. He was rather startled, however, to learn of the completeness of the file.

The examination file has not been kept up-to-date, McComb told the Collegian yesterday, because of the failure of faculty members to supply the library with copies of examinations. The file is kept in the reserve book room.

The library has facilities to maintain a complete file of past examinations, McComb said. Faculty members can have copies of examinations placed in the file by sending or bringing them to the reserve room or to the circulation desk in the library, he said.

Not Compulsory

Although Prof. Moore said he had no objections to placing final examinations on file, he said he would not want to make such a system compulsory for all departments. Some departments, he said, probably have good reason not to want their examinations on file.

Prof. Moore said he always returned blue books to his students because "it is effective for teaching in that it helps them learn." He cautioned, however, that students "should not rely" on past tests and neglect studying.

Aware that fraternities have extensive files of previous examinations, Prof. Moore said the establishment of a master file in the library would be "a more democratic method since all students should have the same opportunity."

Columbian Farmer Takes Short Course

A farm manager from Colombia, South America, is among 16 men enrolled in the Dairy Cattle Herdmen's short course at the college.

Jorge Enrique Salazar, the Colombian, has been living in Upper Darby while in the United States. He told instructors that there are wonderful opportunities in the dairy field in his country.

An attitude of seriousness settled over the 16th annual Penn State debaters convention as almost 100 students from 19 colleges prepared for the opening committee sessions today.

Prof. J. F. O'Brien men's debate coach at the College said the serious spirit was in marked contrast to the high-spirits displayed at last year's gathering. O'Brien said the attitude probably stemmed from the precarious world situation.

Many of the men participating in the convention will be leaving for armed service in June, O'Brien said. He added this may help explain the seriousness.

Convention Banquet

Highlights of today's program will be the official convention banquet which will be held at the State College hotel at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. A "Gavel Girl" will be chosen at the banquet.

She will be picked from three candidates who will be selected by the convention committees. She will be awarded a silver gavel for being the girl attending the convention with the best combination of charm, intelligence, and oratorical ability.

The winner will be chosen following after-dinner speeches by the three candidates on "The Brotherhood of Man: Where Does It Stand?"

Mock Congress

Marlin Brenner, convention manager, said the convention is a mock congress. Brenner said the system of hashing bills over in committee and then presenting them to the entire assembly is being used. Brenner said three standing committees have already been set up. They are the welfare state committee and two committees on non-Communist organization. Brenner said other committees may be added later.

Oliver To Welcome

Dr. Robert T. Oliver, head of the College Speech department, will welcome the delegates at 10 o'clock this morning in 10 Sparks. Committees will meet from 11 o'clock this morning to 1 o'clock this afternoon and from 2 to 4 o'clock this afternoon.

All delegates will assemble in 10 Sparks at 8:15 o'clock tonight to hear, discuss, and amend reports by the two non-Communist organization committees. The welfare state committee will report to the assembly tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in 10 Sparks.

Dr. Finch To Speak

Dr. Henry A. Finch, assistant professor of philosophy at the College, will speak at the Sabbath eve services at Hillel foundation tonight at 8 o'clock.

His subject will be "New Science and Old Wisdom."
