Brenner, Ungar Lead Debaters To 3 Titles

Penn State men and women debaters won three individual grand national championships at the grand national debate tournament held during the spring vacation.

The women's affirmative team placed second and the men's affirmative team placed fourth in the Big Ten, a listing of the top teams at the tournament. Heidleberg (O.) university won the grand national debate championship.

5 Changes In AIM Charter Read Again

The Association of Independent Men board of governors last night unanimously approved a second reading of five proposed constitutional changes.

The amendments will come up for final approval April 11.

The social committee disclosed plans for a starlight dance to be held in front of Old Main in conjunction with the crowning of Miss Penn State.

Douglas Horner was appointed chairman of the Spring Week committee.

The five constitutional amendments approved last night would:

1. Require that AIM representatives-at-large must be chosen by popular election. They are now elected by the councils.

Limit to one the number of representatives-at-large from any area having less than 500 residents.

2. Permit the chairmen of the social, project, publicity, and athletics committees to become ex-officio members of the board of governors. They would join the editor of the Independent in this capacity.

3. Change the requirements for an election district to a minimum of 20 men and a maximum of 200.

4. Fix the election date for board members within the first three weeks of school.

New officers of AIM would be installed at the start of the last meeting of the school year.

5. Limit grants and loans to $100 during a school year and require a two-thirds vote for the approval of all such grants and loans. A budget report would be required before the vote.

New System For Summer Announced

Three separate series of summer sessions, in combinations of three, six, and nine weeks, were announced yesterday by Dr. M. R. Trabue, director of the summer work.

The regular series of three week inter, six week main, and three week post sessions will be supplemented by a series of two six week sessions for technical courses and a nine week session for entering freshmen.

The expanded schedule was planned in part to allow students to complete their schooling before entering military service or industry. Entering freshmen planning to accelerate for these reasons will be aided by the new nine-week period opening July 2.

Complaints that technical courses involving extensive lab work could not be included in the two regular short sessions brought about the scheduling this year of two six-week sessions to parallel the others. The longer sessions will begin June 12 and July 23.

Inter session will begin June 12, main session July 2, and post session Aug. 13.

The new West dormitories will be open to summer students.

Marlin Brenner won the grand national informative reading crown. Marian Ungar won the grand national championships in address reading and in declamation. Miss Ungar also took second place in the oratorical division.

Lewis Tops List

David Lewis placed first among the top 20 debaters following the grand national individual debating championship, Richard Van Orden, of Bowdoin. Brenner placed fifth among the top 20.

Harry Kondourajian and Lewis debated the affirmative for the men. Greta Weaver and Lois Pulver formed the women's affirmative team.

The men's negative team, including Clair George and Brenner, placed 11th among teams at the tournament. The women's negative team, consisting of Guy-la Woodward and Miss Ungar, placed in the middle third.

Last year, the women's team was grand national women's champions, and the men's team tied with Vermont and Carnegie Tech for the grand national men's championship. Brenner, George, and Lewis were members of last year's team.

Weaver, Pulver Place

Miss Weaver and Miss Pulver placed in the dramatic reading and poetry reading divisions. Other Penn State men and women failed to place in other special events.

About 210 debaters from 45 colleges participated in the tournament held at Mary Washington college, Fredericksburg, Va.

Topic for all debates at the tournament was the national inter-collegiate debate question, "Resolved: That the non-Communist nations should form a new international organization."

WMAJ To Feature Italian Music Tonight

Early nineteenth century Italian music of Domenico Cimarosa will be featured tonight at 8:30 o'clock on WMAJ on "The Music of the Nations" program of the Department of Romance Languages. Prof. Nicholas Brentin will comment on the selections, which star an oboe soloist.

Soccer 'Ambassadors' Play 3rd Game In Iran

The Penn State soccer team, turned good-will ambassadors at the request of the U.S. State department, is in Iran today playing the third in a series of four games against teams of that country.

The first game, played last Sunday, resulted in a 2-0 loss to a club team at Isfahan. Reports received through State department officials in Washington said that the Nittany Lions were "overwhelmed by the friendliness of their Iranian hosts."

Following the Sunday game, military police had to intervene to prevent the Iranian fans from carrying the players to their waiting bus.

Second Game

Coach Bill Jeffrey's 15-man squad played the second game on Tuesday but because of the slowness of communications, the result has not been received. The Tuesday game was played in Shiraz.

Today's contest will see the Lions meet another club team from Tabriz. The final game of the scheduled series, being held in the New Year holiday period of

Lion, State Parties Name Final Slates

Worth Leads State Party Nominees

By MARV KRASNANSKY

James Worth, active in the Association of Independent Men, the Interfraternity council, and on All-College cabinet committees, will head the State party ticket for the April 18-19 All-College elections.

A transfer from the University of Virginia, Worth was named to head the State party ticket prior to the spring vacation. He is expected to begin his campaign for the All-College presidency shortly.

Named with Worth on the All-College ticket for the State party were Harry Cover, vice-president; and Thomas Jurchak, secretary-treasurer. Worth and Cover won their nominations by wide margins. Worth defeated Robert Amole while Cover defeated Wesley Tomlinson. Jurchak was unopposed.

Dave Olmsted won the nomination for the senior class presidency, defeating Louis Hoover; while Bryson Craine won the vice-presidential candidacy from Robert Sprague, and Sally Shoemaker turned back Kathryn Scheetz for the secretary-treasurer nomination.

Michael Hanek heads a junior class ticket that was unopposed in the nominations. With him as vice-presidential candidate is Samuel Marino, and Lee Coy, secretary-treasurer.

The election of the full slate recommended by the State party steering committee led Murray Goldman, All-College party clique chairman to issue the following statement: "Although in the past there have been occasional weak candidates in the slate of either party, I have the utmost confidence in every State party candidate for office, and am justly proud to present every one of these people to the student body."

Goldman announced a meeting of the steering committee for 7 o'clock tonight at the Sigma Chi fraternity house. A party platform will be discussed, he said. The platform will be submitted to the party at a meeting Sunday.

WSGA Vote Figures To Be Kept Secret

Final tabulation of recent WSGA election figures will not be made public, according to Barbara Sprenkle, who is still serving as WSGA president.

Freshman council, the house of representatives, and the senate of WSGA voted not to release the votes.

AA Okays Coeds As Cheerleaders

Women cheerleaders will once more grace the Penn State cheerleading squad. The Athletic association gave official approval to coed cheerleaders at its meeting just before spring vacation.

The only stipulation the association made was that the women members of the cheerleading squad would not be permitted to make any trips to away contests.

Harold R. Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics at the College who announced the association's decision, said that coeds would be picked for the cheerleading squad in the same manner in which the men are selected. Tryouts will be held late this semester.

Gilbert also announced that the site of the Penn State-Villanova football game scheduled for October 6 has been changed from Philadelphia to Allentown.

The association released ticket prices for the 1951 football season. Reserved seats in the east and west stands will cost $3.60; reserved seats in the north stands will be priced at $2.40; College personnel season tickets will cost $9.60. A half section of the east stands will be set aside for local high school students and these tickets will sell for 50 cents.

Geffert Named La Vie Editor

James Geffert was named editor of the 1952 La Vie at the annual La Vie banquet just before spring vacation.

Geffert is a sixth semester journalism student from Hazleton, Pa.

Retiring editor, William Zakor, also announced the following promotions:

Shirley Vernon, art editor, and Daniel Kistler, Thecla Jawdy, Edward Richards, and Christine Leuschner, senior art board.

All-College Cabinet To Meet Tonight

All-College cabinet will once again consider the recommendations of the awards committee when it meets tonight.

The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in 201 Old Main.

Vice-president Harry Kondourajian will preside in the absence of President Robert Davis.

Clair George Heads Lion Party Slate

By BUD FENTON

Clair George received the nomination for the All-College presidency on the Lion ticket for next month's election.

Running for other offices on April 18 and 19 as Lion candidates will be Ray Evert as the All-College vice-presidential nominee and William Klisanin for the position of All-College secretary-treasurer.

The party selected its entire nine-man slate which will attempt to make a third straight sweep of the All-College, senior, and junior class offices at its meeting March 18.

About 450 crowded into the meeting for the formation of the party ticket.

John Stouck will be the Lion candidate for senior class president, and Joseph Haines will run for junior class president.

Require Runoff

Only two offices required a runoff election. For the All-College presidential nomination George outpolled Don Carlson, 326 to 106.

The All-College secretary-treasurer position was contested by John Baron who lost to Klisanin, 283 to 105. All other candidates were unopposed.

The senior Lion slate was completed by Robert Flick for vice-president and Polly Potter for secretary-treasurer.

Donnal, Baker Run

Lion candidates for the junior class vice-presidential and secretary-treasurer's offices are John Donnal and Barbara Baker.

Carlson, a national poetry contest winner, wooed the clique membership votes with a poem which included the line "words without actions never in politics should lie" but the plurality built up by George was too much to overcome.

Klisanin, also a decisive winner, was introduced by present All-College secretary-treasurer Emerson Jones who called the candidate "my choice to succeed me in the position."

Stouck Unopposed

Stouck was unopposed for president of the senior class. Although Peter Sarantopoulos was nominated, he declined to run for the office.

Flick was given the nomination for senior class vice-president automatically after John Beiter withdrew his name from consideration.

Miss Potter drew more whistles than votes from the clique members since she too was unopposed for the office of secretary-treasurer of the senior class. When candidates are not opposed, one token vote is cast.

All-College president Robert Davis, elected on the Lion ticket last spring, told party members at the meeting that the "Lion party is going to win again and I think its going to be a landslide again."
