

State Layers Select Opposition All-Stars

Jack Kiley, Andy Mestrovic, Mark Workman, and Ernie Beck dominated the voting for the All-Opponent basketball team selected by Penn State's passers.

Dave Alton, of Colgate, and Don Scanlon, Penn, round out the first six.

Seven of the nine Penn State lettermen participated on the voting. Captain Lou Lamie and Chet "Whitey" Makarewicz were unable to attend the basketball banquet when the selections were made.

Kiley Top Man

Of a possible 35 points, Kiley, Mestrovic, Workman, and Beck received that number to tie for the top spot as far as the first-string positions were concerned. It was fancy Jack Kiley, though, who received the top choice on five of the seven ballots cast. W&J's Mestrovic and American U.'s Sherman Webster garnered the other two first-place votes.

It marks the second year in a row that Kiley has been named to the Nittanies' All-Opponent team, having placed fifth in last year's voting.

Alton, who tied for the fifth spot this season, was named to the Lions' All-Opponent second squad last year.

Rounding out the first ten men are Bill Dodd, of Colgate, Bill Wilson, of Navy, Mike Bellich, Pitt, and Webster, of American U.

Hot Against Lions

Kiley, captain of the Syracuse court team, led his team to two wins over the Lions, scoring 18 and 17 points in the two contests. An accurate set shot and a good floorman, the Orange captain was instrumental in breaking up Penn State zone defense in the two games.

Mestrovic, jump-shot artist from W&J, garnered votes from each of the seven voting lettermen, although he played in only one game against the Lions. In that game, the Prexie forward dropped in 26 points to lead the W&J squad to victory over the Nittanies.

Beck, like Mestrovic, played only one game against State but his scoring and backboard work so impressed the Lions that he too was a unanimous choice.

One Of Nation's Best

Workman, 6-foot 9-inch West Virginia center, proved to be one of the top scorers in the country and against the Lions he tossed in 40 points in two games.

Alton's board and floor work earned him a tie with Scanlon for the fifth position. Scanlon played only one game against State, scoring 17 points to help Penn down the Lions.

4 Lion Boxers Stepup Workouts For NCAA Meet

Four Nittany Lion boxers are going into their final week of preparation today for the NCAA tournament to be held April 5-7, in East Lansing, Michigan. Penn State's version of the Big Four are Sam Marino, 125-lb. sophomore; Frank Gross, 135-lb. senior; John Albarano, 145-lb. junior; and Lou Koszarek, 165-lb. junior.

Albarano and Koszarek are Penn State's two Eastern champions, while Gross is the current runnerup. The four have been working out since the close of the IBA's in Charlottesville, Va. early this month. The IBA's marked the close of the boxing season for the rest of the squad.

For Albarano and Gross the tournament will be the second quest for national titles, the two having taken part in last year's tourney held in Rec hall.

Lost To Champ

Boxing at 135-lbs. last year, Albarano byed into the semi-finals, and then was decided by Pacific coast champ, Everett Conley. Conley went on to win the title by decisioning Paul Kostopoulos of Maryland.

Gross, last year's 145-er, lost out in the quarter-finals when Washington State's Eldon Long decided him. Long eventually lost to Idaho's champion, Leonard Walker.

Koszarek, last year's regular at 155-lbs., was replaced in the tournament by this year's captain, Pat Heims, who upset the dopesters and went on to finish runnerup behind Eli Thomas of Gonzaga university.

Forced To Quit

Bent on revenge in the IBA's early this month, Marino was forced to bow out of the running when his left eyelid was cut in the second round of his quarter-final bout with Virginia's Len Coiner. Coiner went on to win the title from Syracuse's Jim Huba.

Marino's dual-meet record was 3-3-1. His opposition for the coming tourney looks especially tough. Among other bantamweights around for the NCAA's will be Minnesota's Neil Ofstun, who holds a decision over Marino.

The Lion ringmen leave for East Lansing by train from Altoona Tuesday night and expect to arrive at the tournament site in time for a light workout on Wednesday. The bouts are scheduled for Thursday afternoon and night, and Friday and Saturday nights.

Indie Champs Repeat As...

Edinboro, Tekes Capture Intramural Cage Crowns

Tau Kappa Epsilon withstood a last ditch rally by Phi Kappa to capture the fraternity basketball championship last week by a score of 32-30. The fast-stepping Edinboro five won the independent title by crushing the Ridge Runners, 49-19.

The fraternity contest proved to be one of the tightest intramural court battles ever witnessed in Rec hall. The score was deadlocked at the end of the first eight-minute quarter, 6-6, at halftime, 13-13, and Phi Kappa held a 21-20 margin at the three-quarter mark.

From this point TKE rallied to a 29-25 lead, then held on as Phi Kappa's Paul Wren, and Vic Straub netted free throws. Bob Goodell's one-hander from six-feet out sewed up the game for the Tekes. Goodell bucketed five field goals and two charity tosses for 12 markers to pace the winners, while Vic Straub hit for three from the floor combined with 10 out of 18 foul shots (a new record) for 16 points to lead Phi Kappa.

Sigma Pi Dethroned

Tau Kappa Epsilon thus replaces Sigma Pi as the fraternity basketball champion. The winners reached the semi-finals of last year's playoffs but were eliminated by Alpha Phi Alpha.

The Ridge Runners were never in the game as the Edinboro squad used the fast-break and long-court pass offense to completely overwhelm their smaller opponents. The victors led at halftime, 22-10.

Dick Beynon was the point-producing star for Edinboro as he sunk five field goals and three free tosses for a 13-point total.

This was easily the best year for the Edinboro team that has played as a unit since its freshman days at the state teachers school. They set numerous records this season, including the high total for one team in a single contest (80 points), and a 31 point one game total by their captain, Bill Mihalich.

Although the Nittany matmen didn't have any individual champions they did place three men in the finals and garnered 15 points to finish behind Oklahoma with 24 points, and Oklahoma A&M, which had 23.

Homer Barr, Mike Rubino, and Don Frey advanced to the finals to give Penn State as many finalists as the top two teams. The Nittanies also scored what is believed to be the highest total ever scored by an Eastern team in the NCAA's.

Maurey Loses On Ref's Call

Don Maurey, State's 137 pounder, lost a semi-final bout by referee's decision to Oklahoma's Tom Evans. If Maurey had won, the Nittanies would have advanced four men into the finals.

Frey took the rubber match from Frank Bettucci, Cornell, by defeating the 147-lb. Eastern champ, 3-0, in the semi-finals, but he was defeated in the finals by Keith Young, Iowa State Teachers. In gaining his third NCAA crown, Young won a 5-3 decision but scored three of his points on penalties. Frey was twice penalized for stalling.

Rubino was also deprived of the 177-lb. title by a penalty point. Rubino started the last period with a 1-0 lead, but was caught using a disputed illegal hold which helped Oklahoma A&M's Grover Rains score a 3-1 decision.

Glass Reverses Barr

Princeton's Glass repeated his Eastern stunt by winning a referee's decision over Barr in the heavyweight finals. At the end of the first period Barr tried for a takedown but Glass escaped in less than a minute of the second period. Glass rode Barr the entire third period and scored time advantage to tie the score, 2-2. Both judges and the referee voted unanimously for Glass who kept Barr on his stomach during the final three minutes.

Two of State's other grapplers were eliminated in the opening round of the tournament. Dean Harbold, 130 pounder, lost a referee's decision to Dick Pickard, Illinois, and Emil Perona, Rutgers, decided Bill Santel, State's 157-lb. entrant, 12-3.

Reese A Surprise

Johnny Reese, 123 lbs., was one of the surprises of the tournament as he upset Joe Kimura, of San Francisco State college, 7-6. Reese lost his second match to Lehigh's Mike Filipos, 10-3. Joe Lemrye, pinned Bill Firtsche, Kent State, in 7:55 with a bar arm and chancery, but was decided by Navy's Don Thomas, 11-7.

Champions of the 21st tournament are: Tony Gizoni, Waynesburg, 123; Walt Romanowski, Cornell of Iowa, 130; George Layman, Oklahoma A&M, 137; Young, Iowa State Teachers, 147; Phil Smith, Oklahoma, 157; Gene Gibbons, Michigan State, 167; Rains, Oklahoma A&M, 177; and Glass, Princeton, heavyweight. Romanowski was voted outstanding wrestler in the tournament.

Three IM Mat Champs Return

John Allison, of Phi Kappa Psi, Don Amig, of Tau Phi Delta, and Chuck Myers, of SAE, will be the three most hard-pressed IM matmen as all are defending champions in the IM wrestling tourney which starts April 2.

Allison, who last year wrestled in the 121-lb. class, will be back this year at 128. Amig wrestled in the 145-lb. division, while Myers grappled at 175 pounds. Both Amig and Myers have moved up to 155 and the heavyweight classes, respectively, in this year's tournament.

In the independent section, only the 128, 145, and 165 classes were run off last year. Joe Hess, Will Kraybill, and Chuck Hazen, who were victorious in these divisions last year, have failed to reenter. This means that seven new champions will be crowned.

The Iranian Athletic association prompted the State department to send the Penn State team as the United States representative.

The team left New York by plane on March 21. The 17-man group including Jeffrey and student manager Neil See arrived in Shannon, Eire, early on the 23rd with "only two of the boys getting sick from the long air trip" according to a message received by Mrs. Jeffrey.

Martial Law

Although Iran is now under martial law, State department officials said that the general holiday feeling plus the Iranians' good will toward Americans would insure an enjoyable trip.

The playing squad was composed of Captain Harry Little, Clarence Buss, Frank Follmer, Gus Biggott, Jay Simmons, Klaus Coder, Jack Charlton, Ron Coleman, Harold Irvin, Ellis Kocher, George Emig, Jack Kurty, John Pinezich, and Bill Yerkes.

Irvin and Pinezich are freshmen.
