Deferment Exam Rules Announced

WASHINGTON, April 2—(AP)—Selective Service named today the 1000 examination centers at which college students will take tests for possible draft deferment.

At the same time the agency set forth the rules of the examination which will be given May 26, June 16 and June 30.

There was no announcement of the "passing" grades to be required or the scholastic standing which also will be considered.

The tests will be given to draft registrants who have begun, and plan to continue, their college or university studies, graduate or undergraduate.

The announcement said all eligible registrants who wish to take the test should apply immediately.

They must get a postcard application from any local draft board, fill it out and mail it in. It is already addressed—not to the draft board but to the Selective Service Examining Section of Educational Testing service, P.O. Box 586, Princeton, N.J. The student does no addressing—just folds the double card after filling it out, applies a stamp, and mails the complete card. The address is on the reverse side of the application form.

On the application, each registrant must designate an examination center and its number, chosen from the list announced today. The centers are at colleges throughout the United States and the territories.

The Educational Testing service, Princeton, New Jersey, which is administering the test, will assign each man to the center requested or to the closest possible alternative center, and give him a date for his test.

Group To Study School Policy

Dr. John H. Furgeson, chairman of the College Advisory Council, has announced a six-point agenda for study by the council at its meeting April 13.

The group, elected by faculty of the various schools and the Central Extension, makes recommendations on administrative policy and related matters. They have agreed that officers should name a committee to investigate matters.

The areas selected by the group to be placed on the agenda are:

1. Faculty load, including teaching, research, extension, and administrative loads.
2. Operational costs, including number of courses, duplication, and distribution of funds between maintenance, administration, instruction, extension, and research.
3. Acceleration
4. Promotions, tenure, severances, and emoluments, including sabbaticals for those below the rank of professor.
5. College organization.
6. Quality of achievement by students.

The group has decided that certain problems that had been recommended for study would not be included in the agenda because other committees were at work on them.

College Students To Be Deferred

A system of draft deferments for college students on the basis of both a nation-wide aptitude test and of academic standing, without regard for curricula, was announced by President Truman, Saturday.

The new plan will defer automatically graduate students and some medical students doing satisfactory work.

College officials said yesterday that they had received no information as yet on the aptitude tests, which will be given in about 1000 centers throughout the United States and possessions on May 26, June 16, and June 30.

The new system is expected to defer most freshmen entering this fall, half the sophomore class, two thirds of the junior class, and three-quarters of the senior class. Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey said Saturday that the plan should defer about a million draft-eligible students.

Two Criteria

The presidential order does not specify how the two criteria set up—test scores and academic standing—will be equated. The exact phrasing of that part of the order is: "A registrant's activity in study may be considered to be necessary (if he) either has maintained a required scholastic standing, or has attained on a qualification test a score, or both such standing and a score, to be prescribed by the director of selective service with the approval of the President."

The base for scholastic standing will include male students only. Both scholastic and test requirements may be adjusted until the desired proportion of men are being deferred, Hershey said.

Available April 12

Printed instructions and applications for the tests will be at draft boards on or after April 12. Sample tests will also be available. All students now in college who intend to continue their studies are eligible for the examinations. High school seniors are not now eligible.

The presidential order said that deferments for college students are "necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety, (and) interest."

May Stop Snack Bar 'Carry-Outs'

Carry-out service from the West dorm snack bar will be discontinued if food service officials permit another snack service to be carried into the dorm, West dorm council decided last night.

Marian Knepper, food supervisor of the West dorm's snack bar, asked, in a letter to the council, that the carry-out service be discontinued because she felt that, after questioning many of the residents, there was no longer a need for service from the snack bar. The council said it would agree to the proposal if an outside concern, which had expressed a desire to send representatives into the area, be permitted to do so.

Tribunal Tabled

A proposal that the council approved the formation of a tribunal for the area was tabled so that representatives might bring the question to their districts before voting. Also to go back to the floors are the five amendments to the Association of Independent Men's constitution, and a proposed amendment to the council constitution which would allow the officers to vote in council. This amendment will require passage by two-thirds of the residents of the West dorms, and approval by two-thirds of the council.

The food committee reported that it had met with officials of the food service department and straightened out several specific complaints it had been asked to act upon. The committee also said that the meetings will continue.

Thomas Durek, council president, appointed Blair Green chairman of a committee to streamline the council's construction. The committee will consist of Joseph Galatti, Wesley Tomlinson, Kenneth Parker, Richard Godshall, and Richard Klingensmith.

Jeffries To Lecture

Dr. C. D. Jeffries, professor of soil technology, will speak on soil mineralogy at the Clover club meeting in 111 Plant Industries at 7:15 o'clock tonight.

Car, Driven By Student, Kills Woodsdale Man

A car driven by William Klisanin, a student at the College, struck and instantly killed 42-year-old Albert Bolduc, of the Woodsdale trailer camp, Saturday night.

Klisanin, a candidate for All-College secretary-treasurer in the coming elections, another student at the College, and two Beaver college co-eds were returning from the model United Nations convention held at Beaver this week-end.

Klisanin said that the accident occurred between 11:15 and 11:30 p.m. Saturday. He said he was traveling between 40 and 50 miles an hour on Route 322 when he saw Bolduc and his wife walking on the right side of the highway in the direction of State College.

Klisanin said that Bolduc was walking on the road, and that he swerved the car first to the left and then to the right. According to state police of the Pleasant Gap sub-station, the car went on for some distance and then tipped over.

Klisanin said he thought the car had missed Bolduc until he heard Bolduc's wife scream. State police said Bolduc suffered a fractured skull and a broken neck.

One of the passengers, Alice James, was taken to the College hospital and was treated for shock. Both Miss James and Patricia Jackson, the other co-ed passenger, have returned to Beaver college. The fourth passenger in the car was George Keenan. All four had been delegates to the model UN.

State police said yesterday that an inquest would be held, and that Klisanin was charged with operating a vehicle without an operator's license. Damage to the car, which belonged to Miss James' father, was estimated at $300.

Eight Greek Groups In Sing Finals

By MOYLAN MILLS

Tau Kappa Epsilon and Phi Delta Theta fraternities and Delta Gamma and Kappa Alpha Theta sororities were chosen last night to compete in the IFC-Panhel sing finals tonight in 10 Sparks at 7 o'clock.

Pi Kappa Alpha and Phi Kappa Psi fraternities and Alpha Xi Delta and Chi Omega sororities were chosen for the finals after Sunday night eliminations.

James Wharton, sing committee, co-chairman, said a last minute rule change had permitted two sororities to be picked for the finals each night of eliminations.

Change Announced

Previously, Wharton had announced the change for fraternities. The change permits four fraternities and four sororities to compete in the finals. Formerly, one fraternity and one sorority were picked from each elimination round with two fraternities and two sororities competing in the finals.

Each fraternity sang "Blue and White," as arranged for the College Glee club, and a fraternity song. The sororities sang two sorority songs. The groups will sing the same songs tonight.

IFC will present a cup to the fraternity winner and Panhel will present a cup to the sorority winner. Finalists will entertain during the intermission of the IFC-Panhel ball Friday night.

Judged On Points

The singing was judged on a point basis. A maximum of 20 points was given for tone quality, 20 points for intonation, 20 points for interpretation and phrasing, 15 points for balance and parts, 15 points for diction, and 10 points for general effect.

Judges are Elmer Wareham, Mrs. E. D. Reynolds, Edward Gamble, Dr. Francis Andrews, Dorothy Cornell, and Barry Brinsmaid.

Large crowds attended the sing last night and Sunday night. Wharton announced a schedule for tonight. He said the doors close at 7 o'clock. The first four groups will sing and then there will be a five minute intermission at 7:20 o'clock when the doors will be open, Wharton said.

Following the intermission, the doors will close at 7:25 o'clock when the second four groups will sing, he said.

Wharton announced the following order for the finals: Pi Kappa Alpha, Alpha Xi Delta, Phi Kappa Psi, Chi Omega, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Delta Gamma, Phi Delta Theta, and Kappa Alpha Theta.

Marilyn Levitt is co-chairman of the sing committee. Members of the IFC section of the sing committee are Gerald Gibson and Gordon Harrington.

Activities Card File Open Until Saturday

The activities card file, now used temporarily in the dean of men's office, will be open for revision or completion until Saturday, James Worth, chairman of the committee, said.
