

Nominations Begin For IFC Officers

By MOYLAN MILLS

Preliminary procedure for election of next year's Interfraternity council officers began last night at IFC meeting when four nominees were introduced and made short speeches.

Speakers were Stanley Wengert, Alpha Tau Omega, candidate for president; James Wharton, Sigma Nu, candidate for vice-president; and John Allison, Phi Kappa Psi, and Richard Hartle, Sigma Chi, candidates for secretary-treasurer.

Harold Leinbach, IFC president, said nominations may still be turned in at the Student Union desk in Old Main until 5 p.m. Monday. Other nominees will speak at IFC meeting next Wednesday night. Elections will be held April 18.

Center Visitation

Edward Davis announced the center visitation program would begin Tuesday with a visit to Swarthmore center. The program was formulated to send groups of fraternity men to the eight Penn State undergraduate centers to interest male students in coming to the College and joining the fraternity system.

Davis said seven of the centers had replied favorably to letters sent by IFC asking if a group could visit them. Only Altoona center replied negatively, Davis said. He asked for more volunteers to participate in the program and said IFC would partially defray expenses.

Leinbach announced that the Red Cross would send a bloodmobile unit to State College May 2. He said 200 students would be needed to give blood and that IFC would supply 50 of the students.

Release Forms

Men under 21 will have to get their parent's signature on release forms before they will be able to give blood, Leinbach said. He added that these forms were now available through IFC representatives and that final sign up forms would be available next week.

Richard Mills, secretary of the board of governors of the Association of Independent Men, explained the new male activities card file system set up in the dean of men's office.

Reedy, Ferguson To Attend Seminar

John H. Reedy Jr., assistant professor of international economics, will participate in a regional seminar on problems of the United States foreign policy sponsored by the Brookings institute.

Dr. John H. Ferguson, professor of political science, also will participate in the seminar to be held at the University of Pittsburgh, beginning today and continuing to Tuesday.

A limited number of teachers, government officials, and others interested in foreign policy make up the seminar group which has been asked by the Brookings institute to discuss two problem topics, collective security measures under the United Nations, and Anglo-American economic relations.

University Of Leiden Gives Summer Courses

The University of Leiden in the Netherlands has announced its 1951 summer session to be held July 22 to Aug. 10.

The course will concentrate on Eastern and Western world relationships, cultural contacts, human problems, and technical development. Information may be had by writing J. Vos, Netherlands Office of Foreign Student Relations, Woodstock hotel, suite 424, 127 W. Forty-third street, New York 18.

French Club To Hear Opera Resume Tonight

The French club will meet today at 7 p.m. in the Home Economics living center.

Dr. Cortland Eyer, associate professor of Romance Languages, will give a resume of the opera "Samson and Delilah" by Saint-Saens.

Betty Jane Stefan, music chairman, will sing three arias from this opera. Refreshments will be served. All interested students are invited to attend.

LA's Study Faculty Relations

A committee to set up machinery by which better faculty-student relations in the School of Liberal Arts will be obtained was established Tuesday night by the Liberal Arts student council.

Edward Shanken, president of the council, appointed Edwin Lefkowitz acting-chairman. The committee will discuss methods to be used in airing problems from either faculty or the student body.

Both groups will have representatives on the forum, panel discussion unit, or whatever other method the committee selects.

Council members working on the plan are Murray Goldman, Herb Arnold, Douglas Schoerke, Paul Poorman, George Duff, Lynn Levitt, Patricia Wertz, William Slepik, Thomas Farrell, Elinor Forman, Ann Quigley, and Jean Marohnic.

Shanken said Ben Euwema, dean of the School of Liberal Arts, will speak at the next meeting of the council on the cost-of-books-problem. Also scheduled for that meeting is the nomination and election of officers for next semester.

An amendment to the council constitution calling for the election of the president and secretary-treasurer from the junior class and the election of the vice-president from any class was passed. This move will give the council a top officer who has had previous experience in meetings and procedures, Shanken said.

PSCA Lists Nominations

A slate of nominees for next year's offices of the Penn State Christian association was presented at the PSCA assembly Tuesday night.

Reports on PSCA projects were given, and plans for coming events, including the annual dinner, an auction sale, and a concert, were discussed.

The slate of officers presented by the nominating committee includes: Irene Jeffress and Jane Ifft, president; Allen Marshall and Charles Douds, vice-president; Shirley Pritchard and Nancy Barth, secretary; and Robb Keener and Roy Kaneda, treasurer.

Nominations for the coordinating committee are Warren Hommas, Kirk Garber, Patricia Jones, Mary Pettigout, Jean Lathlaen, Robert James, Eugene Decker, and Donald Snyder. David Naylor and Calvin Sammons were nominated from the floor. Five of this group will be elected to serve on the committee.

Nominations for students to serve on the PSCA advisory board are Joyce Gardiner, Elizabeth Byrem, Ruth King, Theron Leshner, and Marjorie Telford. Helen Lineaweaver, Howard Seitzinger, and Robert Mong were nominated from the floor. Four from this group will be elected.

The general election will be held April 9-13. Members of the nominating committee were Loren Sadler, chairman, Lois-Keener, Francis Artley, Evelyn Sebastian, and John McCool.

College To Enter Two Bulls In Event

The College will send two bulls to the 11th annual Polled Shorthorn congress at Springfield, Ill., on Monday and Tuesday, it was announced this week.

A show of cattle competing for more than $2500 in premiums, and the sale of approximately 100 selected Polled Shorthorns will highlight the two-day event.

In a study of 400 subjects conducted by the Ellen H. Richards institute, under the direction of Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, it was found that persons over 50 should increase their intake of meat.

Pollock Council OK's Amendment Change

A proposal to amend the Pollock Circle council constitution by extending the term of its members to one year was passed by the council Tuesday night.

A second proposal was also passed to alter the present method of filling vacancies in the council offices. The proposal will require an election when a vacancy appears in any of the offices up to vice president.

The only automatic succession will be that of vice president to president.

Both proposals will be posted in the Pollock Circle Dorms and voted on by the residents.

Engineers Alter Code Of Elections

A proposed amendment to the constitution, providing for the election of council presidents from either the present or incoming council, was passed Tuesday night by the Engineering student council.

After a hectic debate during which five prospective amendments were discussed, the council finally decided on the one which makes it optional to choose the president from the present or incoming council, while electing the other officers entirely from the incoming group. Final voting on the amendment was postponed until the next meeting because the necessary two-thirds of the council members were not present to pass it.

The constitution now states that all officers are to be chosen entirely from the incoming group.

The council heard a report by Richard Mills explaining the new system in which the council handles student activities cards. The council will work in conjunction with the student's advisors in an effort to encourage extra-curricular activities and to draw up a list of campus activities, Mills said.

The pencil sharpener committee reported that a list of places throughout the school needing sharpeners was turned into the College supply office, and that sharpeners would be placed there in the near future.

Pa. Plants Get Psych Service

Psychological testing work began recently at four manufacturing plants in Pennsylvania, according to Charles Griffin, supervisor of the College's testing and counseling service.

The business organizations which have requested projects include the Erie works of the General Electric corporation; the Keystone Box company near Pittsburgh; the Autocar company of Ardmore; and Bayuk Cigars, inc., of Philadelphia.

Richard Paulson of Behrend center is directing the study at General Electric; Joseph Wirtz, in charge of testing and counseling service for the College at Dravosburg, is directing the study in the Pittsburgh area; William Schneider of the College's Swarthmore center is conducting a project at the Autocar company at Ardmore; and Elwood Stetler of the Ogontz center is directing the preliminary work at Bayuk; and E. S. Barber, graduate student in industrial psychology at the College, is also assisting in the testing work.

Riemer To Speak On 'Majority Rule' Tonight

Neal Riemer, assistant professor of political science, will speak on "Majority Rule vs. Minority Rights" tonight at 8 o'clock in 203 Willard.

The meeting is open to the public.

Journ Prof Speaks

Dr. Frederick Marbut, professor of journalism, addressed the American Association of Industrial Editors meeting in Philadelphia yesterday. Dr. Marbut spoke on "What Makes Headlines?"

Tribunal Hears Three Traffic Violation Cases

Tribunal heard three traffic violators at its meeting last night, for both illegal parking and driving through stop signs.

One student received a $2 fine, suspended due to unusual circumstances, for failure to stop at two stop signs. A $2 fine was levied on a second student for illegal parking behind both Mineral Industries and Old Main on two different occasions.

A third violator was warned to be more cautious while driving on campus and told to park in the designated areas. He was not fined. It was the first offense for each man.

Carlton Durling acted as chairman of Tribunal in the absence of Neil See, who is in Iran. David Mutchler sat in See's place, on appointment by Robert Davis, all-College president.

A hearing for a graduate student was postponed until Tribunal's next meeting. It was their first meeting since March 14.

Pan-Am. Week Starts Monday

Pan-American week will begin at the College next Monday and will continue through Sunday, April 15.

Nineteen separate campus organizations are represented in the Pan-American week committee, which has planned a week of varied activities. This is the ninth year that Pan-American week has been recognized at the College.

Twenty-one American republics are represented and recognized during Pan-American week. The slogan of the week is "Peace, Security and Cooperation." It was obtained from the three points of discussion in the current meeting of the foreign ministers of the Americas in Washington. April 14, 1890 was the first successful meeting of the Americas and the date when the Pan-American union was first organized.

Patricia Bender and Luis Banks, a resident assistant, are the co-chairmen for the committee, and Dr. William Gray, professor of Latin American history, is faculty sponsor.

Campbell To Head Hazleton Center

Merle E. Campbell, a 1938 graduate of the College who has been head of the Penn State center at DuBois since 1945, has been selected as the new administrative head for the Hazleton center. He succeeds Amos A. Goss, who resigned last month.

Campbell holds the rank of associate professor of fine arts and has been associated with the DuBois center as teacher or administrator almost continuously since 1939.

During those years, a new recreation building, a men's dormitory and cafeteria, and a 21-acre athletic field were acquired for the center. Also the main building and several smaller buildings were remodeled and an extensive adult education program developed.

IE Society To Meet In Carnegie Tonight

The Industrial Education society will hold a meeting tonight at 7:30 in 111 Carnegie hall, according to Joe Podrazik, publicity director of the society.

The purpose of the meeting will be to elect officers.

Richard Mills, secretary of the AIM Board of Governors, set before the council proposals for five amendments to the AIM constitution.

The five constitutional amendments would change the election of AIM representatives-at-large and permit AIM committee chairmen to become ex-officio members on the Board of Governors.

One would change the election district requirements, fix the election date for board members, and limit council grants and loans to $100 a year. The council will vote on the amendments April 11.

AIM amendments must be passed by two-thirds of the councils.

General Complaint

A general complaint was raised about the candy machines in the area. Leonard Tomazin, council president, stated that he would check on the candy machine proceeds owed to the council. He appointed the public welfare committee to draw up a history of grievances against the candy machine concession in the area.

The food committee reported that it had been unable to secure "seconds" in the area dining hall. Food Superintendent J.E. Uhler told the committee it would cost too much. He did agree, the committee said, to open the doors five minutes before serving.

Telephone Complaint

Joseph Errigo, chief dorm advisor, put before the council a complaint from the Bell Telephone company. The company, he said, had been forwarding long distance calls after midnight to the dorms. Residents, upon answering the phone, would "cuss out" the operators.

The company, he said, wants to know if the dorms wish to have the service since it is voluntary on their part.

Errigo asked the members to bring the matter before their residents during their meetings.

He also announced that there were movies scheduled for April 8 and 15. They are "The Queens Necklace" and "Crime and Punishment." Both are French films with English subtitles.

Movie To Feature Engineers Meeting

A 45 minute sound movie will feature the open meeting of the Society of Automotive engineers at 7 o'clock tonight in 217 Willard.

The movie is entitled "Steel Treating and Testing." It was produced by the Bethlehem Steel company.

Information on membership in the society will be given to interested persons at the meeting. Other business will include a final discussion on the field trip to the Pennsylvania Railroad Diesel shops in Altoona.

Three Groups To Meet At PSCA Office

Three groups will meet tonight at the PSCA office in 304 Old Main.

This year's Religion-in-Life week committee will meet at 7 p.m. for the purpose of evaluating the results of the Religion-in-Life week program Feb. 18-22.

The campus committee on displaced persons will meet at 7 p.m. also.

Students who have signed up for the "Meet Your Government" seminar in Washington will meet at 8 p.m.

The Pattee library includes a central collection housed in the central library building, five special libraries, and four reading rooms in departments.
