Thespian—

 From the haunting "All Through The Night" to the clever "You're The Top," the score was one of those hummable ones that automatically set the feet tapping. If there's anything I hate, it's members of an audience stamping their feet in time to music, but it was all I could do to stop myself from doing just that.

Revival Scene

One of the most hilarious scenes is a pseudo revival meeting conducted by Moon. It has to be seen to be appreciated.
 The quartet which sings "Lady Fair" and accompanies Reno in the "Blow Gabriel, Blow" number is rather disappointing. Although their dead-pan delivery in the former tune has a fine comic flair, their singing just doesn't jell. There is none of the smoothness of harmony which characterizes a good singing unit.

 The bands of Al Donahue and Jimmy Dorsey were training grounds for Anthony. Then, in 1940 at the age of 17, he joined the Glenn Miller orchestra for several coast-to-coast jaunts.

Anthony interrupted his promising career as featured trumpet player with Miller to enlist in the Navy in 1942. He was assigned to the Navy's morale division in the South Pacific. During his tour of island bases he won an award for having the top service band in the entire theater of operations.
