Leonides Election Set For Tomorrow

Sorley Snyder and Doris Sher are competing for the Leonides presidency in the election which will be open to all independent women tomorrow from 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Approximately 1200 women will have the opportunity to cast ballots in tomorrow's election. This is the first election in the history of Leonides which has been open to all members. Previously, officers had been elected by members of the council.

Vice-President Nominees

Edna Baylson and Alice Hennessey are the nominees for vice-president; Eleanor Miller and Louise Kolano, candidates for recording secretary; Vivian Peterson, corresponding secretary; Ann Burlingame and Avis Dalton for treasurer; and Betty Johnson, parliamentarian.

Voting will be held in all dormitories except Grange. Women in Grange, home management houses, and town students will vote in MacAllister hall.

Ballot Boxes

Ballot boxes will be open from 8:30 a.m. until 7 p.m. with the exception of the dinner hour. Pictures of the candidates will be posted in each of the dormitory lobbies. Names will be crossed off of the dormitory lists upon receiving a ballot.

Door to door campaigning is forbidden by the elections code adopted by the council and in the dormitories posters are limited to the bulletin boards.

Five Alumni Are Cited By Trustees

Five alumni of the College have been cited by the Board of Trustees because their "personal lives, professional achievements, and community services best exemplify the objectives" of Penn State. The five men will be honored at the College in a special program May 2, President Milton S. Eisenhower said last week.

Railway President

They are Charles E. Denney, president of the Northern Pacific railway until his retirement in December, who is a native of Lancaster. He graduated from the College in 1900.

Clarence G. Stoll, president of Western Electric company until his retirement in 1947, who is a native of Mount Joy. He graduated in 1903.

Bayard D. Kunkle, retired in 1949 as a vice-president of General Motors company, who is a native of Steelton. He graduated in 1908.

Ray Iams Throckmorton, present dean of agriculture at Kansas State college, who is a native of Waynesburg. He graduated in 1911.

Illinois University President

George D. Stoddard, president of the University of Illinois, who is a native of Carbondale. He graduated in 1921.

President Eisenhower will present to each of them illuminated parchment scrolls and medallions during the ceremony. During the program outstanding students at the College will be presented the College's highest academic awards. The program will mark the inauguration of the all-College undergraduate officers.

Ag. Ed. Honorary Elects New Officers

Russel Kaniuka has been elected president of Alpha Tau Alpha, national agriculture education honorary.

Other officers are Robert Miliken, vice-president; George Jacobs, secretary; John Spacht, treasurer; Donald Dietz, sergeant-at-arms; and William Downs, reporter. Dr. C. S. Anderson, past president of the national branch, was retained as advisor.

AIM Asked For Money Due Council

By GEORGE GLAZER

West dorm council passed a motion last night to ask the Association of Independent Men's board of governors to pay the remainder of the money due the council at once.

Council President Thomas Durek said that the AIM treasury now has $176 belonging to the council. He said that the member councils of the AIM deposit their funds, all received from the 25 cent assessment for each man in the area, with the AIM, and draw on the treasury as needed.

Weston Tomlinson, president of second floor Hamilton, charged the AIM with inefficiency and said that he understood there was a deficit in the AIM treasury. AIM president Richard Bard, was not available for comment last night. Tomlinson originally moved that a motion be passed asking the board of governors to send out all money due to all the councils, but the West dorm council accepted John Clark's amendment to include only the West dorm council in the request.

Dunlap Reports

James Dunlap, chairman of the welfare committee, reported on his conference with Russell Clark, director of housing, concerning the use of a College truck to haul laundry cases from the dorm area to the post office.

Dunlap said that Clark told him that he had the money to get the truck but could see no need for the service for the area. Dunlap said that Clark refused to appropriate the money for three reasons: the area was closer to the post office than the Nittany-Pollock area, which has a similar service; the West dorms are completely equipped with washing machines for the residents, and; if the West dorms were granted the use of a truck, there was the factor of the women's dorms to be considered. If the West dorms were granted the privilege, then the women could also demand

Theatre Group Will Present Play Series

Departing from its usual policy of producing student-written plays, Five O'Clock Theatre for the next two weeks will present two of a series of plays written for the National Committee for Mental Hygiene.

The situations have been selected and perfected by experts to "assist the young adult in better understanding his own family relationships and himself."

The first in the series will be given script-in-hand in the Little Theatre at five o'clock this afternoon. Entitled "Scattered Showers," it deals with mother-child relationships.

Joe Bird and Fred Leuschner will direct.

The cast, in the order of their appearance, are Regina Friedman, as Jane; Helen Jaskol, as Harriet; and Lois Stern as Elise. Admission is free.

Cal. U. Loyalty Oath Is Voided

The loyalty oath imposed on teachers at the University of California has been declared unconstitutional by the state's Third District Court of Appeal.

The court decision, handed down Friday, ordered the school's board of regents to reinstate the 18 discharged teachers suing for their jobs. The board's August ruling that all teachers at the school must swear a non-communist oath resulted in the discharge of 26 faculty members, but eight did not join in the suit or dropped out.

California faculty members have always sworn a routing oath of allegiance to the state and the nation. Last August the regents added a specific disavowal of membership in the communist party or organizations. It was this part of the oath that was held unconstitutional in the court ruling.

"The exacting of any other test of loyalty (than the constitutional pledge) would be anti-ethical to our fundamental concept of freedom," the court said.

The California decision is significant in this state in the light of a loyalty oath bill which has passed the state senate and is awaiting house consideration. The Pennsylvania measure would require all state employees, including faculties of state-supported schools, to swear that they belong to no "subversive organizations or foreign subversive organizations." Until now no loyalty oath of any kind has been exacted from Pennsylvania teachers.

The California appeals court verdict may still be carried to the State Supreme court by the regents.

Election Campaign Gets Under Way

The spring election campaign got under way yesterday with the 18 candidates for all-College, senior, and junior class officers canvassing fraternity houses and dormitories.

Visits by office-seekers officially opened the 9-day campaign which will end with the elections on April 18 and 19.

All-College presidential nominees Clair George, Lion, and

James Worth, State, were among the candidates visiting the fraternities.

The State party distributed copies of the platform which included a statement which was disputed by Lion officials. Promises have been made and not fulfilled in the past, according to the platform introduction.

Lion Reply

Lion party members said that all platform planks have either been fulfilled or investigated thoroughly in the past, according to clique chairman Milton Bernstein. The Lions have been in power for the past two years.

Publicity programs for both parties were begun on campus and in town.

Campaign posters and painted windows reminded students of the nearness of the election dates and directed their attention to the respective parties.

Stoult Missing

Senior class presidential nominee for the Lion party, John Stoult was forced to forego the visits to the fraternity area yesterday because of an injured leg. He is expected to join his fellow campaigners today.

State Chairman Murray Goldman said that his party was building its campaign slowly, reaching to a peak late this week. Bernstein said that the Lion program was moving swiftly. He said that a radio campaign began last night with a singing trio.

Trustee Wins Industry Award

J. L. Mauthe, president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company and a trustee at the College, will receive the 1951 David Ford McFarland award for achievement in metallurgy.

The award was established in 1949 by the Penn State chapter of the American Society for Metals and is awarded annually to the alumnus of the College who has reached a position of eminence in the field of metallurgy.

Mauthe joined the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company in 1935 and in 1937 was appointed general superintendent of the Youngstown district. He became a director of the company in 1946, and in 1950 was elected president. At Penn State, Mauthe was an outstanding fullback on the football team and captain of the unbeaten team of 1912. He has served on the Board of Trustees at the College since 1938.

Gridiron Banquet Tickets Available

The deadline for obtaining Sigma Delta Chi Gridiron banquet tickets has been extended to 5 o'clock this afternoon. John Dalbor, fraternity president, announced yesterday.

The tickets are on sale at Student Union desk in Old Main. President Eisenhower will be guest of honor at the dinner, which will feature skits "roasting" such campus and town personalities as Homer Barr, Senior Class President John Erickson, Debater Marlin Brenner, Police Chief Juba, and Tribunal Chairman Neil See.

Economics Dept. Head Has Article Published

Dr. William N. Leonard, head of the Department of Economics and Commerce at the College, had an article published in the March issue of Railway Progress entitled, "What Progress on the Rails."

PSCA Cabin Party

The Penn State Christian association is sponsoring a cabin party at Watts Lodge tonight from 6:30 to 9:30 o'clock. Members of the PSCA who plan to attend will meet in 304 Old Main.

Lion Jackets Will Be Sold

A forty-year-old Penn State tradition will be continued this year when senior lion coats go on sale next Monday.

The jackets were once very popular on campus, but the tradition stopped during the war years. Last year they were available to graduating seniors for the first time since the war, but the sales were low. This year, Walter Miller, chairman of the Lion's coat committee, stated that he hopes to firmly re-establish the custom.

The light canvas coats, which are priced at $1.95, will go on sale at Student Union on April 16. They will be sold there for the next two weeks in the afternoons only.

During Spring weekend, prizes will be awarded to seniors who have most cleverly decorated their coats.
