

Childrens' Theme To Be Feature Of Home Ec Exhibit

Exhibits, showing how items of discarded clothing can be converted into attractive and serviceable clothing for children, will be displayed as a part of the Spring weekend program of the School of Home Economics Friday and Saturday.

The program, which will center about the theme, "Children and Youth in Our Homes," will attract hundreds of Pennsylvania homemakers to the campus.

Worn skirts, home economists at the College point out, often provide plenty of material for a child's skirt or dress, and shirts that are frayed at the collar are useful for making shirts or undershirts for small boys. A wool shirt might be useful in making trousers for a small boy.

Insurance Selling Test To Be Given

The Life Insurance Agency Management association is conducting a study at the College to determine the value of an aptitude test for selling life insurance.

All senior and graduate students expecting to receive degrees during 1951, who are interested in determining their aptitude for selling life insurance, have the opportunity to take an aptitude index Thursday, April 19, in 219 Electrical Engineering building.

George N. P. Leetch, director of College Placement service, said the test offers a broad opportunity to interested students and should eliminate the necessity of taking a number of tests. The aptitude score obtained refers only to aptitude for selling life insurance. It does not tell anything about one's intelligence or aptitude for other occupations, Leetch said.

Booklet Describes Student Travel Programs Abroad

"Work, Study, Travel Abroad, 1951," a booklet outlining summer educational travel opportunities for American students is now on sale, William Klisanin, NSA chairman, said yesterday.

The pamphlet is available at 50 cents per copy at the Student Government room in Old Main. Committee members Klisanin, Otto Grupp, and Leonard Wargo will help students plan tours.

The booklet lists more than a hundred tours and special programs designed for students who wish to spend the summer in Europe. It covers work programs, study programs, festivals, seminars and fellowships, and study travel opportunities. Detailed information is given on requirements for participants and addresses of the organizations arranging the programs.

A complete section on general travel information is also given in the booklet. Prospective student travelers are informed on passport and visa requirements, air and sea transportation, arrangements in Europe, and details on special grants for travel.

Room Priority—

Forms, asking Nittany-Pollock residents if they want to live in the West dorms, will be distributed. A $10 room deposit would have to be made as assurance that they will take a room in the dorms.

Wolff urged the councils to have their forms in by today so that results may be turned in to the dean of men. The Dean said he would be interested if:

1. A survey of student opinion would indicate such a desire.
2. A deposit of some kind be made so that contracts would not be broken.

IFC—

(Continued from page one) houses make a careful study of men to be taken in the draft during the summer, even though best estimates indicate about a 20 percent drop in enrollment at the College next fall. He said this was the figure the College was counting on at present.

Robert Houseworth, of Triangle, chairman of the open house committee, announced that the next open house for men wishing to become acquainted with the fraternity system will be held April 29. Roger Clinton, of Kappa Sigma, was appointed to serve with the committee.

President Harold Leinbach explained the problem some houses were having in meeting budgets since the College was forced to abandon the spring training table for football. The houses affected directed him to discuss the matter further with Robert Higgins, of the Physical Education department.

Candidates Introduced

The remaining candidates for IFC offices introduced themselves at the meeting.

Jerome Gibson, of Alpha Sigma Phi, and Stanley Wengert, of Alpha Tau Omega, are nominees for council president. Robert Koons, of Sigma Pi, and James Wharton, of Sigma Nu, are vice-presidential candidates. John Allison, of Phi Kappa Psi; Earl Baker, of Chi Phi; and Richard Hartle, of Sigma Chi, are nominees for secretary-treasurer.

Elections will take place next Wednesday night.

A proposal by Joel Millner that the council attempt to arrange a method by which the College would withhold diplomas to graduates reported by the council as deficient in their house bills was tabled for further investigation, by President Leinbach and Secretary Alan Uhl.

Levinson To Speak

M. M. Levinson, instructor in economics, will discuss "Our Obsolete Market Mentality" tonight at 8 o'clock in 102 Willard at a joint meeting of the Philosophy and Political Economy clubs. The meeting is open to all students.
