Penn State's football team will meet one of the East's top grid squads this afternoon in a practice scrimmage on the opponent's home field.

Just who and where the Nittanians are playing, Coach Rip Engle declined to reveal as the scrimmage will be closed to the public. Both teams agreed to the secret session in order to keep opposing scouts from seeing the two teams play.

Engle and a squad of 60 men left State College yesterday morning for their undisclosed destination.

Long Session

The scrimmage will be played in six or seven quarters with the two opposing coaches substituting at will, and stopping play at any time to make corrections.

The Ripper has had the Lion gridders in body contact work all week preparing for today's workout. The game today will give the Lion coaches their first glimpse at the State gridders under actual game conditions. Engle did not announce any starting lineup for the scrimmage.

Another Scheduled

At least one more, and possibly two or three, scrimmage contests have been scheduled with other colleges during the spring practice period which is scheduled to end May 5.

The Lion gridders have been in spring practice now for two and one half weeks, with emphasis being placed on fundamentals and the placing of the players in the position they are best suited. The practice games should go a long way toward accomplishing this job.

Golfers Open Today At Home Against Lehigh

The Penn State golf squad will open its 1951 season this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock when they engage the linksmen of Lehigh on the Nittany links.

The once victorious Brown and White golfers, who annexed their initial engagement last weekend by drubbing the Haverford team, 8-1, will bring an exceptionally well-seasoned team to the Nittany Vale.

Little Time

Because the pins were only placed on the College greens last Wednesday morning, Coach Bob Rutherford has had little opportunity to screen his prospective hopefuls.

Because of this hindrance, Coach Rutherford said that today's combine may not be his best outfit this season, but by the time the Georgetown contest rolls around next weekend, a more permanent varsity squad will probably be selected.

According to the Lion link mentor, the Engineer team is new opposition for the Nittanians, and today's match will be the first time that the two clubs have faced each other.

5 Lettermen

The State lineup today will be composed of five lettermen and two newcomers.

Ted Robertson, Captain Joe Durniak, Ray Artz, Marv Goldenberg, and George Mazanowski are the veterans who are scheduled to swing the clubs. Goldenberg, and Mazanowski did not play last season. However, both won monograms in the 1949 campaign.

Robertson, Durniak, and State College's Artz were responsible for last year's 8-3 log.

Newcomers

John Wylie and Hud Sampson are the newcomers who will make their debuts.

Among the many outstanding performers that the Engineers will field today, one in particular is worth watching. This being Larry Carpenter, who turned in a par 72 in the Annual Pine Needles intercollegiate spring tournament, and who also posted the best score (75) for the Lehighers in last week's match with Haverford.
