Washington) would make it a crime under the Pennsylvania penal code to be a member of the Communist party. The second, proposed by Sen. Pechan, would require "subversive" persons and groups to register with the attorney general.

The Communist party would certainly be included among the attorney general's list of subversive organizations, so the effect of the two bills would be for, first, a member of the Communist party to register as a subversive and then be prosecuted as a criminal.

Would Not Answer

Returning momentarily to the proposed investigation of communism in the colleges, the commission might find itself getting nowhere fast should it become a crime to be a member of the Communist party. Persons confronted with communist charges could refuse to answer on the familiar grounds that it might

College Personnel Get 1 Cent Mileage Increase

College personnel using private vehicles on College business will be authorized 7 cents per mile instead of 6 cents, according to President Milton S. Eisenhower. The increase was approved at the week-end meeting of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees and became effective April 1.

tend to incriminate them.

Rep. Mazza has also submitted under the title HB 694 a proposed bill which would make it impossible for change in the elections code that subversive or subversive organizations to secure a place on the ballot. The bill would also declare by legislative fiat that the Communist party is such a subversive organization and would remove that party from the ballot.

The obvious danger of such legislation would be to set a precedent, to create a trend that might not be reversed before it is too late.

from the floor as well. Skip Reider and his orchestra will provide music for the mixer, which will last from 7:30 to 10 o'clock.

John Dalbor, managing editor of the Collegian, will be master of ceremonies and moderator for the "Meet the Press" session. He will introduce the candidates for all nine offices at stake.

The mixer and press session will come on the eve of the election. Voting will start Wednesday morning and continue in earnest houses this afternoon.

Political activity will be at a low over the weekend. Only the State party plans any campaigning. Candidates will visit fraternity houses this afternoon.

Visits to fraternities and dormitory living units continued yesterday, with both parties taking part.

Wesley Foundation To Elect Officers

Nominations for next fall's officers of Wesley foundation have been made, and voting will start tomorrow at 5 o'clock. Mrs. Anderson of the foundation announced yesterday.

Lester McGonagle and Donald Snyder are the two candidates for the presidency.

Raymond Barr, Ned Cole, and William Waters are running for vice-president.

The secretarial position will be sought by Ruth Bowman, Polly Lee, and Barbara Park. Kennetta Peters and Janet Tritt are nominees for the treasurer.

Balloting will be held tomorrow and continue until Sunday, April 23. A list of eligible voters will be posted at the foundation. All those who have made a pledge or have attended a certain number of meetings are eligible to vote.

COME TO CHURCH

We are living in a world in which our confidence in the future has been severely shaken. Many of the institutions on which we have relied for the "brave new world" are themselves floundering. It may yet be that our generation will rediscover in religion the foundations of the good society, the encouraging well-springs of faith, and the motivation for human betterment.
