

Council Nominations Continue Tomorrow

Officers and members of the Physical Education student council were elected yesterday. Nominations for representatives for other student council member will continue through tomorrow. Final elections for other schools will be held May 1 and 2.

William Mehalick was elected president of the Phys Ed council. Herman Sledzik, vice president; Peggy Lamaster, secretary; and Nancy Rust, treasurer.

Home Ec And MI Elects

The Home Economics and Mineral Industries schools have already elected officers, but nominations for council representatives may still be turned in to the dean's office in the Home Ec building.

The Education council has also elected officers. Nominations for council members may be turned in to 105 Burrows. Majors in elementary and secondary education, industrial education, music education, or psychology are eligible.

Nominations for Liberal Arts student council representatives may be turned in at 132 Sparks. A 1.5 all-College average is required of nominees.

Department heads in the School of Engineering will handle nominations for the Engineering council. A 1 all-College average is required.

Prospective council representatives for the School of Chemistry and Physics may nominate themselves by signing lists on bulletin boards in Osmond and Pond laboratories.

Stabler Elected Ag Pres.

David Stabler, elected president of the Agriculture student council Tuesday night, will represent the council on the All-College cabinet.

Millard Rehburg was elected president of the Mineral Industries student council Tuesday night. Mineral Industries students will elect two representatives each from the freshman, junior, and senior classes. Nominees should sign the petitions in the Mineral Industries building by tomorrow.

Auction -

Two men have promised to display their culinary prowess if the bids are high enough. William Smith Jr., professor of family relations, has offered to bake a cake or a batch of cookies, and the Rev. Andrew Newcomer Jr., State College Presbyterian church pastor, will serve dinner for four or bake a devil's food cake.

Among the students offering talents and services for the auction are Joan Hutchon, who has knitted a pair of argyle socks for the occasion, and Bernice Hicks, who will iron two shirts.

Other industrious students will mow lawns, darn socks, wash windows, and shine shoes for top bidders.

Merchant Contributions

Several downtown merchants have contributed items. Kalin's Men's shop has contributed two $5 men's toilet sets and the Smart shop has donated a $5 pocket-book.

J. Bertram Kessel, assistant professor of physical education, is faculty auction chairman, and Irene Jeffress is student auction chairman. The affair is being sponsored with two other projects by the PSCA to help erase its budget deficit.

The other projects will be a square dance in Recreation hall May 5 and a violin concert May 14.

Final Vote -

According to the agenda, reports will also be heard from David Ludwig, chairman of the committee selecting a list of outstanding seniors, and from Kondourajian on the progress of the committee on Cabinet service keys.

Neil See, chairman of Tribunal, is also scheduled to report on plans for fall customs.

WD Area Green By Graduation

An extensive beautifying project is under way in the West Dorm area with the College Supervisor of Landscaping Walter Trainer's promise of "everything green by commencement."

The first major objective of grading and seeding the area in front of the court yard is nearing completion.

Biggest undertaking of all is an elaborate "forestation" program.

To relieve the bareness of the West Dorm area, ten different species of trees, innumerable kinds of shrubbery and flower bulbs have been and will be planted.

Varieties of trees include European Hornbeam, Flowering Dogwood, Canadian Hemlock, Red Oak, Crab Apple and Willow types.

The court in the area is planted with Pacific Yew shrubs.

Beautification behind the snack bar will not begin for another week because a difficult job of soil preparation is necessary.

The clay earth must first be removed and replaced with 18 inches of top soil which has to be wheeled in by hand since steps block truck passage.

When the ground is ready, eight varieties of Azalea will be mixed with Narcissus and-Hyacinth bulbs.

Much work is yet to be done to fulfill the promised commencement greenery.

LSA Holds Annual Smorgasbord Sat.

The fifth annual Smorgasbord honoring graduating seniors will be held in the Lutheran Student center Saturday at 6:15 p.m.

The affair, sponsored by the Penn State Lutheran student association, will feature approximately 40 different Scandinavian foods prepared by women of the Lutheran church. Mrs. Barbara Anderson Shick, graduate assistant in foods and nutrition, is in charge of the preparation.

Highlights of the program will be, handing of the gavel by president Raymond Rice to president-elect Thomas Smith. Also, the presentation of the senior gift to the PSLSA is scheduled.

Earl Myers, graduate student in agriculture engineering, will be the master of ceremonies.

Rev. John N. Peabody, rector of St. Andrews Episcopal church, will be the guest speaker and Charles Swartz, senior in industrial arts, will lead the group singing.

Others officiating are Luella Heineman, decorations; Mile Moore, publicity; John Fisher, tickets; and Mary Kozelnicky, program.

Tickets are $1.50 and must be purchased by Friday night. The affair is open to all students.

Rabbi Benjamin Kahn will officiate at morning services tomorrow at 10 a.m. and at Sabbath and holiday eve services at 8 p.m.

Saturday morning services beginning at 10 o'clock will include special Yizkor prayers.

'Jailbird' Pledge Excites Police, Pays $17.25 Fine

A fraternity pledge carrying out an initiation order had State Police and Rockview penitentiary officials in a state of frenzy Tuesday morning when excited motorists reported a man dressed in prison garb attempting to hitch a ride on the highway near the prison.

Wayne A. Pihl, a pledge at Kappa Sigma fraternity, pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge and paid a fine of $17.25 before Guy G. Mills, State College justice of the peace.

State Police said the student, dressed in simulated prison dress, was jumping from a bank and trying to hitch a ride to State College.

Members of Kappa Sigma fraternity assumed blame for the escapade, stating that he was carrying out initiation instructions.

Tribunal Hears 8 Traffic Violations

Tribunal heard eight cases of traffic violations last night, six for driving and two for illegal parking.

Five of the violators received suspended fines for driving on Pollock road during class hours. Another student was fined $1 for parking in a visitor's place in back of Old Main and a second student was tried for parking in the drive-way of Carnegie hall. He was not fined and his case was referred to Captain Mark of the Campus patrol.

The last violator was placed on a probationary status for reckless and drunken driving. He had already been fined by the local authorities.

AIM Group -

William Raymond, chairman of the project committee, reported that the AIM project for blood donors has fallen short of the quota. To remedy the situation funds were voted for advertising the campaign.

A committee was also appointed to formulate a dating code similar to the one employed by IFC. The code would permit dating in the lounges of the dorms subject to supervision by the proper school authorities. Those on the committee are Stanley Zimmerman, Joseph Haines; William Brown, and Douglas Hoerner.

Norman Duffey reminded the board that tickets for the AIM banquet would go on sale at Student Union May 14. The banquet is scheduled for May 22, and men will have approximately one week in which to secure their tickets. Soccer Coach William Jeffrey will be the main speaker. New officers will be installed at the affair and scholastic, athletic, and activity awards will be presented.
