

TODAY'S WEATHER:
CLOUDY AND WARM;
LATE SHOWERS

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER
PENN STATE

VOL. 51 — No. 127

STATE COLLEGE, PA., SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 28, 1951

PRICE FIVE CENTS

Amendment To Charter Proposed

A proposed amendment to the College charter will be discussed at a hearing before Judge Ivan Walker at a Centre county court session Thursday, May 10.

The amendment would equalize the representation of agricultural and industrial men on the College's board of trustees.

The charter, as it is now, requires 32 members on the board—12 trustees coming from "agriculture and industry." The new plan would require six members from agriculture and six from industry.

In the past, representation has been nearly equal, but there were times when one group definitely had a majority of members.

The amendment was approved by a 13 to 9 vote at a trustees meeting Jan. 20. The petition to make the change was approved in Harrisburg by the Council of Education.

In opposition to the change is the State Council of Farm Organizations, which filed exceptions on the grounds that it would be "particularly harmful and injurious to the largest industry of the Commonwealth, to wit, agriculture."

Backers of the amendment claim it would reduce any rivalry or bitterness between the two factions. They also state the primary purpose of the change is solely to benefit the internal management of the College.

Delegates Go To NSA Clinic

A delegation of the newly elected All-College officers and class presidents left yesterday afternoon to attend a National Student association sponsored student government clinic at Muhlenberg college.

Sessions are scheduled for today and tomorrow. The Allentown clinic is sponsored by the Pennsylvania region of NSA.

James Worth, Harry Cover, and Thomas Jurchak, newly elected All-College president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer, respectively, are attending, along with David Olmsted, and Michael Hanek, senior and junior class presidents elect.

Edward Shanken is representing the school councils at the clinic. Retiring All-College Secretary-Treasurer Emerson Jones and William Klisanin, chairman of the cabinet committee on NSA are also attending the two-day meeting.

All-College Cabinet Considers Motions

All-College cabinet Thursday night approved a motion which would direct next year's board of publications, with help from other students designated by cabinet, to study the feasibility of a student press for the College.

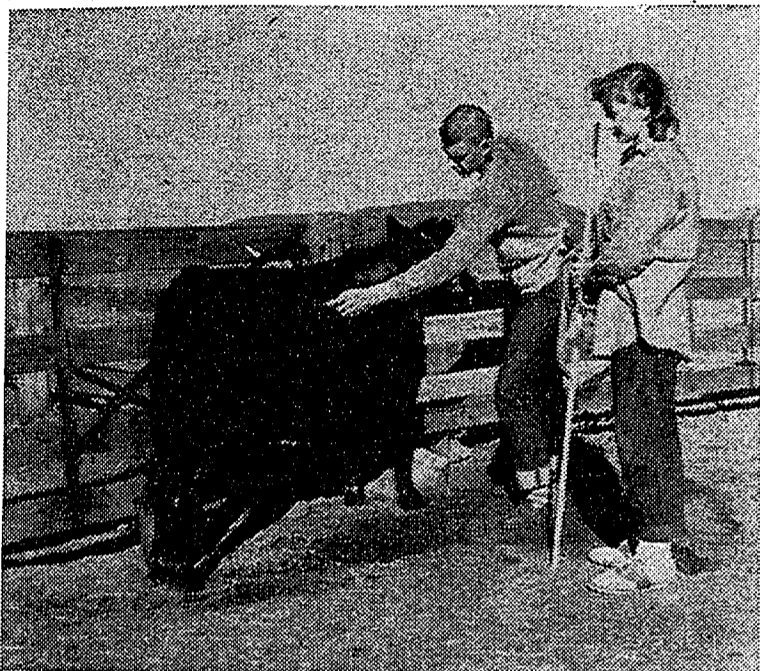

Cabinet also accepted a report on freshman customs with recommendations for the custom program next fall.

The motion by Samuel Vaughan, editor of Froth, charged the Board of Publications with the duty exclusively, but an amendment introduced by Edward Shanken authorized cabinet to appoint additional members to the committee. Vaughan declined in the vote on the amended motion.

Suggests Study

Dean Gladfelter, chairman of the publications board, suggested the study because, he said, a student press would of necessity be a long range program requiring a great deal more than the $25,000 which would be available if this year's senior class gift were added to the fund which is now available for that purpose.

Lining A Yearling

EDGAR FEHNEL, recent winner in the College livestock judging contest, lines his yearling Angus heifer, "Cookie," in preparation for today's competition in the Little International livestock show as Frances Alexander, who has her own Angus in the show, looks on.

34th Little International Show To Begin Today

The 34th Little International livestock show, anticipated by officials as the largest of its kind ever to be held at the College, is under way today in the livestock pavilion.

The exposition begins at 8 a.m. and will be climaxed by the annual banquet and presentation of awards at the Hotel State College tonight at 7 o'clock.

Approximately 90 students have been preparing beef cattle, swine, horses, and sheep for this year's show. It will feature many new animals recently purchased by the College.

The sheep and swine divisions will open today's show at 8 a.m. Competition in the beef cattle division will begin at 9:40 a.m. and run until noon. Swine championships will be held at 12:40 p.m., and will be followed by the coed pig derby at one o'clock.

Sheep Championships

Sheep championships will be held at 1:20 p.m. The parade of sires, a new feature of this year's show, will begin at 1:45. A sheepdog demonstration by Carroll Shaffner, College sheep superintendent, will follow at two o'clock.

Championships in the beef cattle divisions will be held at 2:30 p.m. The horse division, featuring new Morgan horses, will open at 3:10 and the division championships will be held an hour later.

Grand championships for the exposition will be held at 4:30 p.m. Awards for division and grand championships will be made tonight at the banquet.

Hunt To Speak

Wells E. Hunt, prominent American livestock industrialist, will be guest speaker at the banquet. Hunt graduated from the College in 1923, served on the War Food administration during the second world war, and has been active in all phases of the livestock industry.

Dedicated To Connell

This year's exposition is dedicated to William B. Connell, extension livestock specialist at the College. It is being presented by the Block and Bridle club under the sponsorship of the Animal Husbandry department. The Pennsylvania Horse and Mule association will aid in banquet preparations.

William King is the show manager and James Gallagher is assistant. Committee chairmen for the affair are Lester Burdette, catalogue; Dorlin Hay, special features; Edna Grabiak, decorations and banquet, and James Huet, awards. Daniel Pierce is in charge of publicity.

Daylight Saving Starts Tomorrow

Tomorrow at 2 a.m., just one hour too late to cause dormitory hostesses any conflict, Centre county will go on daylight saving time.

The procedure, despite the high sounding declaration involved, is simple. It concerns the student, or individual as the case may be, merely moving the clock ahead one hour when he goes to bed. Then, upon awakening—presto—daylight saving time.

The "fast" time will be in effect for all post offices, schools, businesses and the Edwards Lakes-to-Sea busses.

Daylight saving time will continue until 2 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 30.

Schools Nominate; Elections May 2-3

Nominations for the student councils of the six schools closed at 5 o'clock yesterday. Elections will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday.

All schools will elect except the Agriculture and Physical Education schools which have already elected their representatives.

Engineering Council

Senior nominees for the Engineering school council are David Margolf, James Smithgall, Lawrence Schniepp, Alan Newman, David E. Richards, Eugene Rhodes, Charles Falzone, Grover Wachter, Jr., Jack M. Brame, Harry Ankeny, James Gray, John W. Miller, Fred B. Levin, George Yuscavage, and John Wurst.

Junior nominees are Thomas Kearns, Charles E. C. Miller, Robert B. Watson, L. Paul Stine, Carl Collins, Thomas Fleming, Raymond Lantz, Max Schuster, James Class, Chester Howells, and Renazo Rodriguez.

Sophomore representatives will not be elected this spring, but elections for them will be held early next fall, vice-president Robert Miller announced.

Chem-Phys School

Juniors nominated for Chem-Phys student council are Daniel Babcock, Merrill Boone, Aldo Pellegrini, Jesse Tarleton, Edward Walden, Barbara Reese, Jack Wolf, Joseph Geiger, and Elmer Thompson.

Sophomores include Kenneth Baublitz, Gerald Loughran, George Mino, Walter Supina, Samuel Engle, Edmund Storms, Charles Douds, and David Swanson.

Freshman nominations are Douglas Ayer, Helene Carter, Irwin Gelb, and Perry Yocom. No nominations were made from freshmen in the physics and pre-medical curricula making it necessary to hold nominations open for these positions.

LA Council

Senior representatives for the Liberal Arts School will be elected from Paul Beighley, Marilyn Bruck, George Duff, George Glazer, Gordon Harrington, John Harris, Barbara Klopp, David Lewis, David Olmsted, Paul Poorman, Lois Pulver, Laryn (continued on page eight)

Brown Talk To End Series

The appearance of Cecil Brown, famous newspaperman and commentator, in Schwab auditorium Thursday night will bring to a close this season's Community Forum series.

Season tickets will be honored at the door. Single tickets, priced at $1, will be sold at the Student Union desk from 1:30 p.m., Tuesday up to the night of performance.

Brown replaces Eric Johnston, originally scheduled to speak Jan. 16. Because of his appointment as Economic Stabilization director, Johnston said he would not be able to appear on the program.

Brown recently returned from a trip through western Europe and the Far East, where he recorded the reactions of those people to current international issues. While in the Pacific area he interviewed Generalissimo and Madam Chiang Kai-shek, President Quirino, head of the Philippine government, and Japanese leaders.

Author of the wartime best-seller, "Suez to Singapore," Brown has contributed to Colliers, Reader's Digest, and other magazines. He began his career as a newspaper reporter for the Youngstown Ohio Vindicator and switched to radio in 1940.

His work in radio was recognized when he received the George Foster Peabody, Overseas Press club, Sigma Delta Chi, and National Headliners club awards.

Gate, Press Are Gift Suggestions

A gateway at the junction of highway 322 and Pollock road, and a student press are among the suggestions for a senior gift.

If the gateway project were chosen the College would add enough money to the class gift fund to pay for the project in one year.

All-College cabinet decided to investigate the student press Thursday night. In order to get a press suitable for all campus publications about $100,000 would be needed. A print shop using the offset printing process could be set up for about $25,000.

The gift fund comes from the money left from the damage fees paid by the students after all damages are paid. This year's fund amounts to about $8000.

Seniors will vote next week for their gift preferences. Other gift possibilities are a campus radio station, an ambulance, a gridiron status, a grand piano, and a scholarship fund.

High School Press Group Here Today

Over 500 students from high schools throughout the state are expected to attend the 20th annual State High School press convention at the College.

Marv Krasnansky, John Dalbor, Owen Landon, and Norma Gleghorn, all of the Daily Collegian staff, will help conduct the discussion groups.

Among the speakers who will welcome the students this morning at the opening convocation in 121 Sparks are H. E. McMurray, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' association, and Dr. W. McNeil Lowry, chief of the Washington bureau of the News league. Mr. McMurray will speak on "The Interests of State Publishers in High School Journalism." Dr. Lowry's talk will concern "Washington Personalities and Problems." Dr. Lowry was a speaker at last summer's graduation exercises.

This afternoon several College entertainers will present the annual high school conference Frolic in Schwab auditorium.

William Detweiler is in charge of the show. Among those participating in the frolic are the Varsity Quartet, Patricia Hale, Harry Woolever, Patricia Bowles, Edward Rolfe, Nancy Thomas, and Patricia Marsteller.

Thespian Show Cast, Crew To Hold Picnic

Cast and crews of the Thespian show "Anything Goes" will hold a picnic at Black Moshannon National Park tomorrow.

All those planning to go will meet in the Osmond parking lot at 1:30 p.m.

Entertainment and refreshments will be provided, according to Frank Lewis, treasurer of Thespians. All those who need transportation should call Lewis at Phi Sigma Delta.