Policy

There has been a great deal of criticism about the coverage of Penn State sports, both varsity and intramural, by the Collegian sports staff; "how come so much written on this sport and so little on that?" or "Why so much coverage of varsity sports and so little on intramurals?"

With this issue, a new staff takes over the Collegian sports pages and we're going to lay our cards on the table.

Since this is a student newspaper, printed by the students for the students at Penn State, PENN STATE sports and not national sport news received from the Associated Press, will dominate the Collegian sports pages.

Only on special occasions, such as the World Series, will national sports receive top billing. Although it will not receive top play, we believe there is enough interest in major league baseball at Penn State to warrant coverage.

Therefore starting with tomorrow's issue, we will run a roundup story each day, touching on the highpoints of each game played. Due to lack of space, boxscores will not be printed.

Varsity sports will still receive prominence over intramural sports as in the past for obvious reasons but we do intend to give IM athletics as complete coverage as space will allow.

As an experiment next basketball season, we will attempt to cover the IM basketball games on the night they are played so that the results will appear in the paper the following day and not a day late.

As to the varsity sports, coverage will be allocated according to its score as a spectator sport. Therefore, football will receive prominence over soccer and cross-country in the fall season. Basketball, wrestling, and boxing will be on almost equal par during the winter. Baseball will receive bigger play than will lacrosse, track, golf, or tennis in the spring.

We feel that the sports which attract the most spectators are the sports which the readers will be most interested in.

There will be no columns written on the national sport scene except when it affects sports at Penn State.

We will not comment on the pitching worries of the Brooklyn Dodgers or why Joe Louis should retire as we feel that Grantland Rice, Red Smith, and the rest do a very capable job and are in a much better position to comment than we are.

But we do feel we have the right to comment on athletic policy at Penn State and will do so when we feel some point should be brought to the attention of the students.

Finally, we invite constructive criticism.

Here's hoping for a great year in sports at Penn State!

Lacrosse Squad Beats Penn, 14-5

By TOM SAYLOR

Decisive scoring margins in the second and fourth quarters gave Penn State's lacrosse team an easy 14-5 victory over its arch rival, the University of Pennsylvania, on the golf course Saturday.

State's victory evened its record at 2-2 while the setback for the Quakers made their record 1-5.

The Lions scored all but two of their goals during the second and final periods. They registered seven tallies in the second stanza and, after being blanked in the third period, tallied five more in the fourth.

State Scores First

Penn's five goals were divided evenly among the four quarters. The Philadelphians scored one each in the first two periods and one again in the final stanza. The Quakers scored twice in the third period, the only time they were able to outscore Coach Nick Thiel's crew.

State also drew first blood when John "Doak" Walker picked a loose ball from the air and slammed a close shot home. This tally came at 3:30. Seven minutes later, another attackman, Jim Reed, snared a pass from Jim Fulton to score from straight out.

Penn Scores

The second quarter saw Penn tally first on a pass from Steve Levin to Jack Hundermark, who scored from 20 feet. After that, however, it was all Penn State. State poured five more goals through the nets in the final stanza while limiting Penn to one. Wilcox, Wolfram, and Walker tallied once each for the Lions while Walker scored twice.
